A CAREER TO CELEBRATE

Dr. Wayne Batten

Dr. Wayne Batten first joined Montgomery Bell's faculty in 1985 after earning both a B.A. and M.A. at the University of Wyoming and a Ph.D. at Vanderbilt University. Dr. Batten has served the students of MBA as teacher, mentor, and role model for 30 years. During his time on The Hill, Dr. Batten began Archives, with the mission to promote art and creative writing and provide an outlet for both artistic and literary expression. Dr. Batten has also served as the moderator of the Philosophy Club, giving students and staff members the chance to discuss and debate contemporary issues through a philosophical lens. Above all else, Dr. Batten is an educator in every sense of the word. He has been dedicated to the craft of teaching and instilling a love of writing and literature in his students since his first year at MBA. His dedication to his students' learning is evident in the amount of time he spends grading papers and the thoughtful comments he gives to each student. Although known for his dedication in the classroom, Dr. Batten supports all aspects of the MBA education and was immortalized with his "Coach Batten" sweatshirt for his continual support of his students. Dr. Batten's dedication and zeal for teaching will be missed on The Hill as he retires at the conclusion of the 2015 school year.

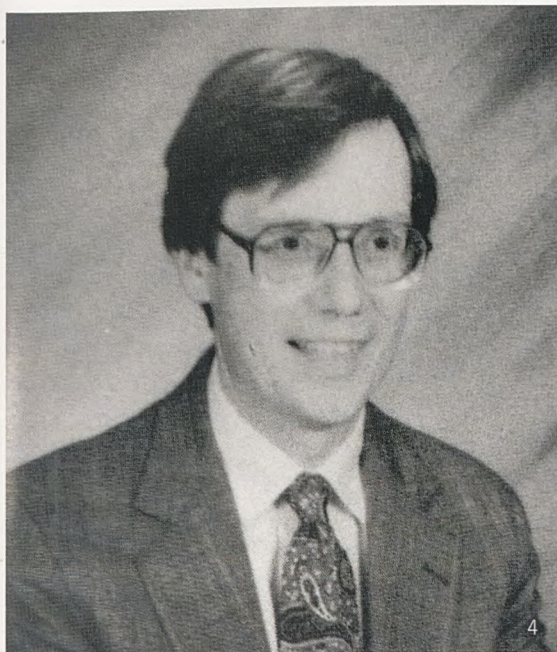

Mr. Elijah Reynolds Class of 1999

As high as they are, his expectations are never out of line with what his students are capable of achieving. After putting in the work to earn it, I remember being thrilled to receive praise for an introductory paragraph in one of my themes. Now, as his colleague, I continue to benefit from Dr. Batten's instruction. When I returned to MBA as a teacher, Dr. Batten became my mentor.

Mr. Robert Sawyer, Class of 1999

Dr. Batten was a demanding teacher, but he was always fair. He expected a lot from his students, but he also gave them a lot of himself. After studying English in high school, undergrad, and even graduate school, I can say that I have never had a teacher grade papers as thoroughly or prepare each class as meticulously as Dr. Batten did during my 9th grade year. As a colleague, I have now come to appreciate Dr. Batten's passion for his subject. Simply put, he cares deeply about teaching literature, composition, and grammar. He embodies, to me, MBA's reputation for rigorous academic pursuit.

Feature Image: Dr. Batten recruited many students over the years to create Archives, the art and literary magazine. Here he is in 2007 at the Activity Fair. 1. Along with Mr. Hutton, Dr. Batten works on getting students involved in publications through the Activity Fair in 2011. 2. Dr. Batten keeps his students engaged through his use of humor and his passion for teaching. 3. Dr. Batten recruiting at the Activity Fair in the fall of 2014 for Archives, the literary and arts publication he began. 4. Dr. Batten's inaugural year on The Hill in 1985. 5. After 30 years guiding his students, 2015 marks the end of an era at MBA. 6. Dr. Batten's love of teaching is evident in how he approaches each new class. 7. Always one to enjoy himself, Dr. Batten shows off his festive side. 8. This year, faculty will celebrate Dr. Batten's retirement as he did in 2012 with Mrs. Tilley.

Feature Image: Freshmen band together in the echo circle in an effort to help each other study, or possibly procrastinate. 1. Microbes Harrison Steanson, Reed Campbell, Carson Reisinger, and Bennett Blackwell bond over their love for gray while Hugh Graham wears orange to rebel. 2. Henry Rogers strategizes crossing the low ropes while Jermaine patiently waits for him to just go. 3. Microbes infest the Quad on a warm autumn day.

Cole Jones, Class of 2015

I could say The Hill means homework, tests, sports, and all other obligations, but truly, at the end of the day, it just means family. MBA is where I interact with the people I care about most and is the connection that will keep us close for years.

Before I came to MBA in 7th grade, my mom told me "Cole, it's different there. It's cool to be smart." Through my six years, I've found this to be true and that hard workers are respected and celebrated, and so it becomes an encouraging atmosphere, where people are expected to give it 100%. I absolutely love helping lead the student body.

4. Mr. Spiegl recruits young students to his earth science club. 5. Starting out their freshmen year, Trace Fontana, Thomas DeRoche, and Ben Coulthard chill before a pep rally. 6. On the Leadership Retreat, Tom Peters and Frist Allen help a classmate escape through an "electric" fence. 7. Masterminds Reuben Dockery and J.B. Lund compete with the robotics team for world domination.

LIFE ON THE HILL

Community Builds Championships

For the first time since 2007, the Big Red captured the DII-AA football championship in a thrilling victory over school-wide rival Ensworth High School. However, this experience was more than a number on a scoreboard. This victory brought the entire campus together as a community and set the tone for a year of cooperation, camaraderie, and enthusiasm. As with every new school year, The Hill has soared to new heights... this time by drone. Each year brings new faces to campus, and this year MBA welcomed a number of new students along with many new faculty and staff. There are always great achievements to celebrate from academic to athletic. This year included the naming of seventeen national merit semifinalists, which although quite a legacy to leave behind, no number can capture the character, service, friendship, and loyalty that the Class of 2015 and the rest of the student body demonstrated this year. And that's what life on The Hill is all about. It's about the highs, the lows, and everything in between. It's about each other, what we do to celebrate, to console to work, to grind...together.

Clay Andreen, Class of 2015

As much fun as a typical day at MBA is, I figured that sledding in between and to classes would make the whole day just a little better. In addition, after bringing the sleds to some classes, some of my teachers let us go a little early to go sledding. The best part of the sledding adventure, by far, was going out during sixth period and sledding with twenty or so guys from my class. It made a great memory that I will take with me for many years. Unfortunately, Mr. Gioia, my English teacher, declined the invitation.

MBA ABROAD

Students Around the World

Every summer, high school students are given the incredible opportunity to study abroad in countries across the globe. Either through the Warner Exchange Program or the Wilson Grants, students who are eager to travel and study the world are sure to find something that suits their needs. In the Warner Exchange Program, 24 rising seniors traveled to 9 different schools across 3 continents. Students often stayed with host families and immersed themselves in the culture and school experience. The Wilson grants, which include funding for students to study english, history, language, mathematics, science, and the arts sent students to New York, Florence, and everywhere in between. These opportunities allowed students to grow as students and young men which will benefit them for years to come.

Sam Bellet, Class of 2015

Florence, Italy was rich in art history and I was able to take advantage of the availability of artwork that has formed what the art world is today. In addition to these works, the Sacred Art School in Firenze provided seven hours of studio time a day with professional artists on hand. With these resources, I was able to grow as an artist, learning from art in museums and applying techniques I found interesting. My trip to Florence truly allowed me to improve as a conveyor of voice.

Billy Deutsch, Class of 2015

My favorite memory from my time in Berlin was when one day our chaperone gave us a public transportation ticket that was good for unlimited rides of any type all day. So, naturally Alec Vest and I hopped on as many random buses and trains as we could and then explore the area where we ended up. I always felt like I was in a movie, running around the city only with our wits, limited money supply and, German knowledge. This trip offered me this great knowledge of the world that I attribute to the generosity of the Wilson family. They gave me the opportunity to see the world and meet many new great people.

Anthony Swenson and Harrison Wheeler join a Winchester student atop the London Eye while taking a break from their studies in England.

SUMMER TRIPS

Westward Ho & Other Adventures

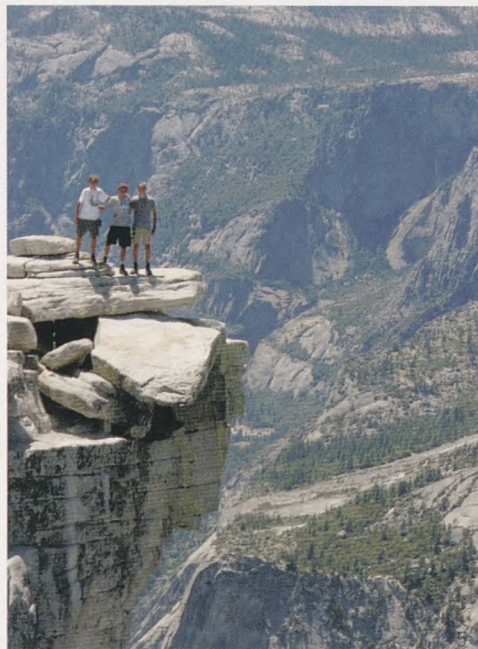

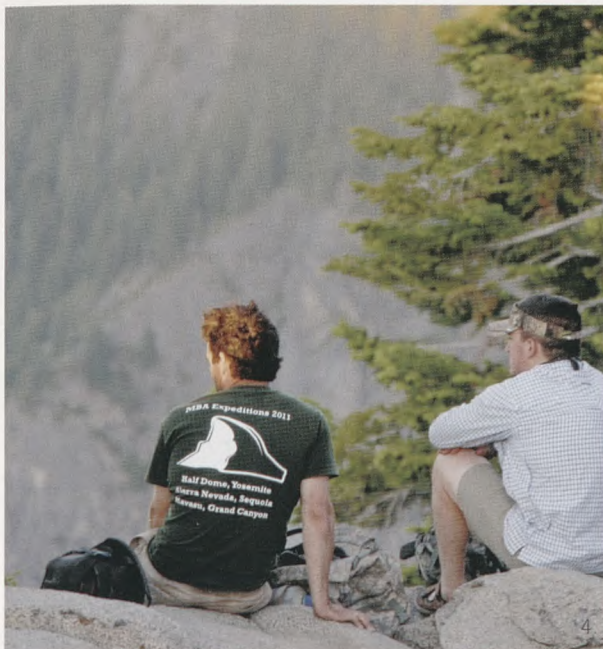

In the midst of the June heat, Mr. Norton led a group of 30 students and faculty on an adventure of a lifetime out west. Every high school class was represented as the boys grew both into men of the romantic age and as comrades. They backpacked through Yosemite, Sequoia and Grand Canyon National Parks, often stopping to enjoy the glorious landscapes along the way. Immersed in nature, they also took time to fly fish and swim in the rivers when the opportunities arose. Meanwhile, Patrick Simpson took a group of rising eighth graders southward to St. John in the Virgin Islands in July. While in the Caribbean, they enjoyed land activities such as hiking, but the real fun came when they embraced the surrounding ocean. The microbes were able to relax while staying active as they learned how to snorkel, paddle-board, and kayak. After their first year on The Hill, this trip to St. John was the perfect way for them to unwind and prepare for the next five years.

Hunter Burch, Class of 2019

My cousins went on the St. John trip when they were younger, though this was my first trip with MBA. The most breathtaking view was Rams Head. We got to take a look at the ocean and the reefs below. It has a unique backstory too: the Spanish came and drove the natives out of the island, and instead of being captured the natives chose to jump off Rams Head to their death.

Bryce Ardisson, Class of 2017

I wanted to go out west as my brother had gone before and my friends were going this year. I had never gone on a big trip with MBA before and it was all really fun. My favorite time was Sequoia Park because it was the nicest view of the trip. It was so high up with tall trees. It was one of the coolest things I have seen. If I had to summarize my trip in a few words they would be fun, active, and beautiful.

Feature: The Outwesterners grin atop Yosemite, proudly reigning over all they survey. 1. A group of students stand in front of the General Sherman tree in Sequoia National Park after analyzing it with their Spiegl-honed skills. 2. Students stand proudly atop a mountain in Yosemite. 3. After a long hike, students take in the sunset from the rim of the Grand Canyon. 4. These quiet moments afforded students and adults the opportunity in nature to hold deeply philosophical conversations. 5. Cole Thornton, Alden Ferguson, and Andrew Hudson release their inner-daredevil as they stand atop a suspended cliff. 6. Cole Thornton is concerned about the weight of Laws Hunter and Alden Ferguson reclining above him. 7. Connor Huff, Matt Miccioli, and Hudson Walker lean on each other after conquering Yosemite. 8. 8th graders in St. John bask in the Caribbean sun.

SUMMER ON CAMPUS

Keeping Busy on The Hill

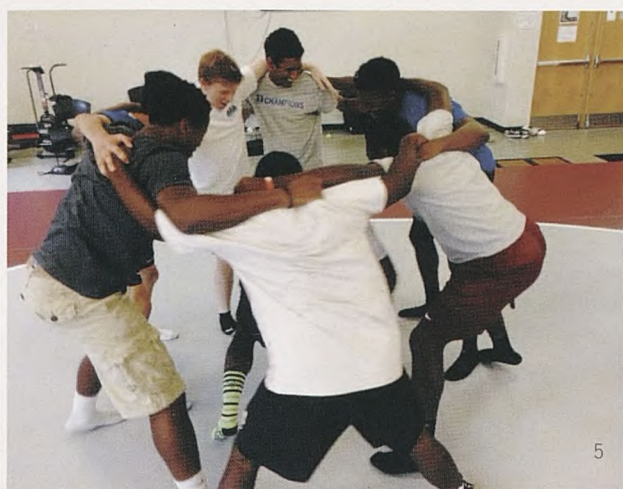

At MBA, when one school year stops, another begins. Every summer, a number of programs occur on campus between the end of exams in May and registration in August. It seems like the only day that MBA closes down in between school years is on the 4th of July. This year, MBA hosted the International Boy's School Conference. Students and teachers from around the world gathered to discuss the conference topic, Building Boys into Good Men. This program included a number of events both on and off campus. In addition to the surfeit of camps that occur every summer, MBA is home to Time to Rise, academic prep courses, drivers ed, robotics camp, and much more. No matter your age, interests, or skill level, summer at MBA is sure to satisfy all.

Tay Munoz, Class of 2018

During the summer I helped out with the All Sports Camp and Summer Scholars Camp. I just enjoyed the experience and being able to interact with the community a little better. Campus over the summer is definitely a lot less stressful and peaceful. It is great!

Feature Image: Students showcased their talents during the Boys School Conference, including this performance at the Country Music Hall of Fame playing with headliners, American Young. 1. Mr. Ferrell and Dr. Seay worked countless hours as chairs of the ISBC, hosted by MBA. 2. MBA students lead Time to Rise, which supports students of varied backgrounds to prepare for success. 3. Varsity football team prepares for the season throughout the summer. 4. Kang Huh served as the ambassador from MBA at the ISBC student symposium. 5. Camp leaders huddle up to get hype for a full day of impacting lives. 6. Upset that summer is almost over, Joe Werthan is consoled by one of his campers. 7. D'On Coofer, Mene Zua, Jermaine Francis, Tarun Mallipeddi, and Ivan Franco capture the moment by taking a selfie. 8. The tables turn as JC Fogg is led by a child down the path of athleticism. 9. MBA Choir touches guests' hearts as they kick off the ISBC with help of choirs from around the world. 10. Headmaster's Singers opened the show at the IBSC's Singer Songwriter night.

Ray Lee, Class of 2018

It was very fun to play at the Hall of Fame. We (the quartet) got to play a very exciting song with another group of musicians there. My favorite part of being a part of the music program is being able to work with my orchestra conductor, Mr. Merideth. He is a wonderful conductor in all aspects.

BIG RED SEA

Giving Their All Off the Field

Each year students take to the stands to serve as the support network for those on the field, court, rink, or wherever a MBA athlete is competing. These men of the Big Red Sea do their part to support their fellow student athletes and cheer them on to victory. At no time was their presence more felt than at the championship football game. The Big Red Sea supported the team all season and did not disappoint during this crucial final game. Dressed in their coats and ties the boys celebrated with members of the football team by welcoming them into the stands and posing for pictures with the championship trophy.

The men of the Big Red Sea were led by seniors Heyward Rogers and Jackson Garey with help from Trevor Patton and Parker Logan both in the stands and at pep rallies throughout the year. Although these seniors took the lead, the Big Red Sea is each and every student at MBA showing their support for each other.

Trevor Patton, Class of 2015

My favorite part of being one of the leaders of the Big Red Sea this year was having three times as many kids as Ensworth did at the state finals, and Throck's dad snuck by the cops and stole their golden 2014 sign. One of the most fun parts of leading a pep rally is that you are expected to act like a goofball, which is perfect for me. My favorite game this year in a pep rally was the seniors jousting with microbes on their backs.

Parker Logan, Class of 2015

Contributing to the Big Red Sea has been an honor. We do it for the athletes. They work incredible hard and we want to give them every advantage possible to win, whether its getting them hype before a game or causing false start for the opponents. It truly has been an incredible experience and to cap it all off with a State Championship was extremely satisfying for everyone. I will never forget the seniors jumping into the stands after the trophy presentation.

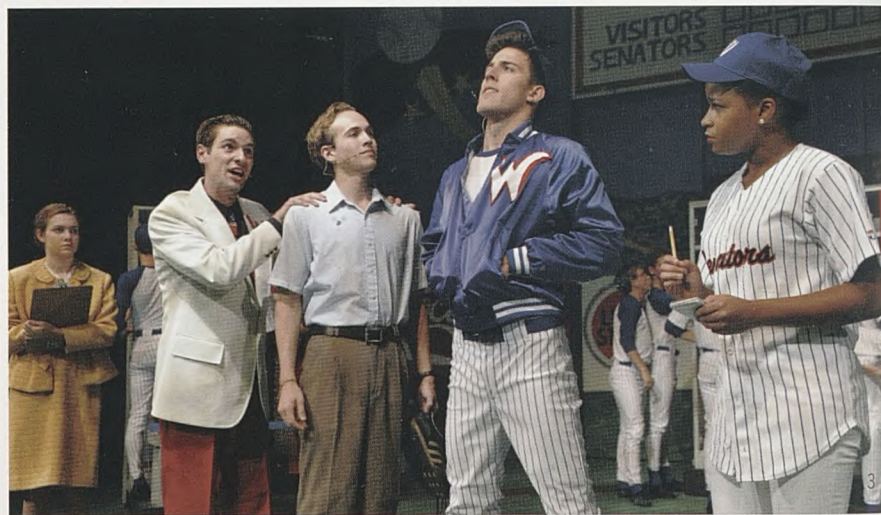

Feature Image: Men of the Big Red Sea sported their finest for a "Shirt and Tie" night in the Big Red's game against BA. 1. Prior to a game against Ensworth, the Sea led the team onto the field in their signature red body paint. 2. Seniors serve as the anchors to the fan section and lead their younger classmates in cheering on the Big Red. 3. Painting up before most games is a tradition that creates a strong brotherhood amongst the students. 4. Reid Parker and Adam Young help lead the football team onto the field at Tommy Owen Stadium. 5. Taking a unique vantage point, Seth Cook helps lead the crowd in their cheers. 6. The Big Red Sea is not relegated to the football field as they also show their support for the basketball team. 7. Men of the sea wear their finest hats with their body paint, because everything goes with red. 8. The Big Red Sea welcomed Derrick Tusie into the stands after the football team's championship win against Ensworth.

Junior School performers Armaan Sodhi, Matt Hawkins, and Tim Blaufuss await their turn on stage during the Evening with the Arts showcase in November. 2. The cast of Servant of Two Masters dazzled the crowd with their fast paced performance. 3. Jess Darnell, in his role as the devil, presents Jack Duke to Andrew Porter as the newest player for the Washington Senators in the production of Damn Yankees.

Si Deane, Class of 2015

When I heard the Jazz band play on Admissions Preview day at MBA, I knew I had to be in the band. Some of my highlights include The National Anthem, releasing my first EP on iTunes, Cliffs of Dover (a song I have always dreamed of playing since I began playing), and performing a rock version of Canon by Pachelbel on exchange and receiving the first standing ovation in their school's history. I would just like to say that the Wilson Grants have helped me further my knowledge and understanding. I have had an incredible time at MBA, especially thanks to the music department, who let me practice at crazy times almost everyday.

4. Art I student Camden Lee runs his plate through the press to pull the perfect print. 5. Akeim George, Billy Deutsch, and William Hall perform as part of the Jazz Band during the fall music showcase. 6. Senior AP student Jacob Lothers focuses on his graphite drawing of a car design during class. 7. The choir performs as part of the Winter Concert to a packed crowd in December.

THE ARTS ON THE HILL

Big Red Creativity in Action

The arts are a vital part of the MBA experience. Whether a student performs on stage, plays in a band, sings in the choir, or creates art in the studio, each boy leaves his mark on The Hill. This year included a number of activities both new and old for students on and off campus. Students put on a number of productions throughout the year including: Damn Yankees, The Fifth Sun, Servant of Two Masters, and Red Badge of Courage. These productions highlighted the acting abilities of students in both the Junior and High School as well as partnering with Harpeth Hall for Damn Yankees. Young men involved in music showcased their talents at formal performances throughout the year such as the Winter and Spring Concerts in addition to their numerous appearances at campus events and assemblies. Visual arts students from each grade level produced stunning pieces. This was highlighted by their participation in the annual Scholastic competition, Spring Art Show, and Endada. This year also included the first ever Junior School Enrichment Celebration which featured performances and artwork from participants in the Junior School enrichment classes.

Daniel Maynard, Class of 2015

My favorite moment in theater is when you just finished performing, and you know that the play was fantastic and that everyone had fun doing it. I can't choose just one play that was better than the rest because I enjoyed every single one. In art when you finish a piece and other people say it's great, then you get that amazing feeling that you are good at something. My involvement in the arts has taught me to try new things because I never thought I would be that great at art or theater, but I got better and enjoyed it. You will never know if you are good at something if you don't try it.

THE HILL SERVING OTHERS

MBA Gives Back

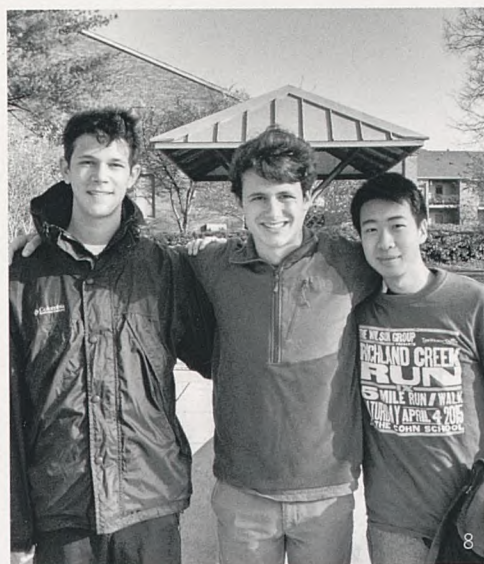

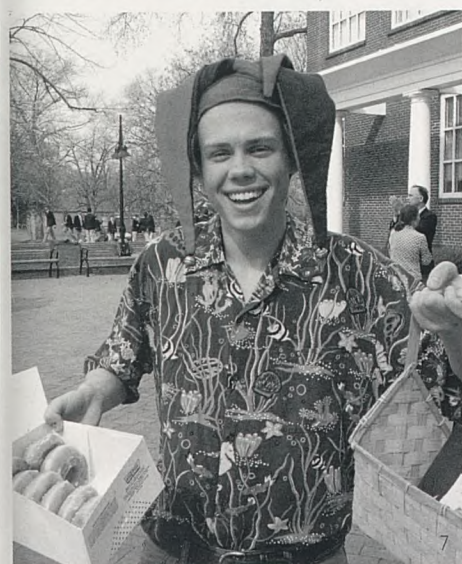

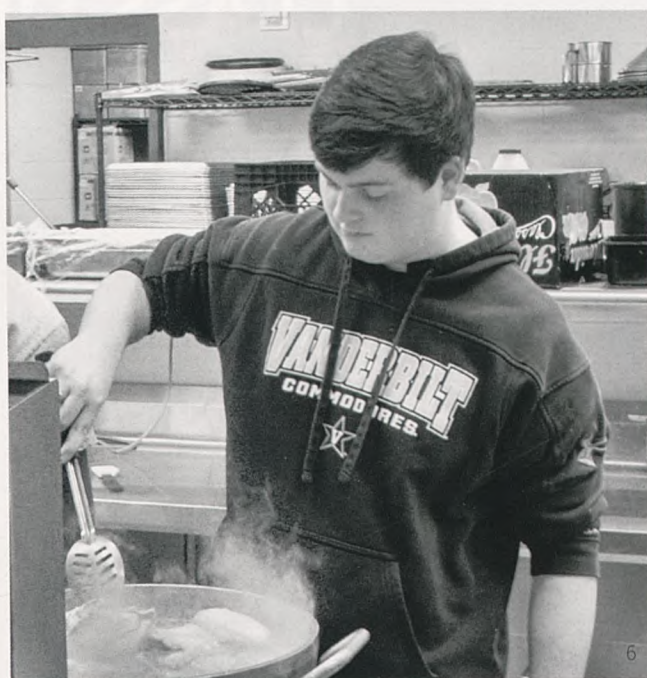

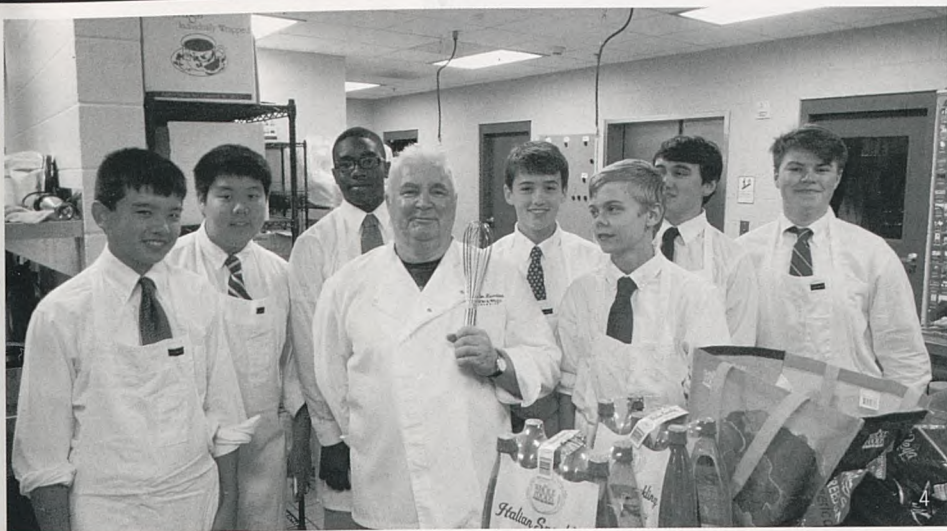

An essential part of achieving gentlemanhood is proving one's capability to positively impact those around him. Being the wise young men that they are, MBA students see opportunities to help the Nashville community and take the lead in serving others. Most service projects on The Hill are student led, with faculty serving as advisers. Through these opportunities, students interact with groups of people with whom they otherwise would never have made contact. Whether it be creating gourmet suppers for low-income families or picking up trash in a park, any given student will attest to the positive personal impacts that service has had on his life. As its own community, MBA is highly receptive to new activities, such as the adoption of the Canine Companions walk in the fall and the Soles 4 Souls shoe drive in addition to long standing opportunities like Race for the Cure. As they grow from boys into men, students on The Hill also become servants for the public good.

Nick Dreher, Class of 2016

My involvement with Best Buddies happened by chance, I tagged along with some friends and fell in love with it. My favorite moment was watching Matt Moore make a half court shot at the end of a Best Buddies Sports Saturday. His face said it all and his reaction was indescribable. I've gained an understanding of those with different circumstances than most of us at MBA and I'm now more grateful. Best Buddies has also given me a friendship with someone I would not have otherwise crossed paths without this program.

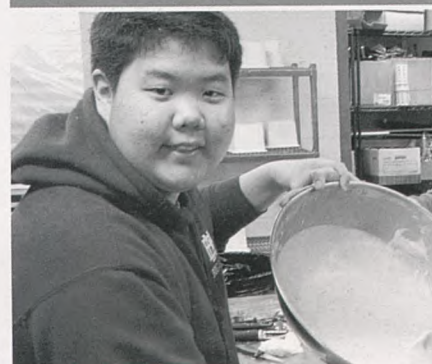

LEAD: Seniors Kang Huh, Cameron Tarvis, William Snow, and Nicholas Heim pose with a microbe at one of this year's many service projects. 1. MBA students lend a hand every year at Race for the Cure. 2. Students of all grades participate in one of MBA's newest projects, Best Buddies. 3. Alec Giammalvo making friends at Preston Taylor Ministries. 4. Mr. Morrison leads students at Last Saturday Dinner. 5. Students enjoying a laugh as they help out at this year's Richland Creek Run. 6. Edward Owenby puts his cooking skills to use at Loaves and Fishes. 7. Nicholas Heim clowning around at this year's Shakespeareathon. 8. Rush Gorney, John Fioravanti, and Vincent Zhang at the Richland Creek Run. 9. Jackson Hughes exercising his talent at Best Buddies. 10. Jack Capizzi, John Spurgeon, and Charlie Ma are all smiles as they provide hydration to thirsty runners at the Richland Creek Run.

Kang Huh, Class of 2015

Leading the Service Club this year was an absolute privilege. The club saw a variety of projects grow, such as the Canine Companions Walk and Best Buddies. Being the president, I was able to do at least a little bit of everything, doing projects I hadn't tried before and getting to know people with fascinating stories.

Love thy hater.
Risk everything.
Make faces.
Get over yourself.
Trust, reach, drill, know, think, let go and react.
Be bold.
Be brave.
Be brilliant.

The minute that one begins to give, they begin to receive. I'll remember the shows, the teachers, and the people worth remembering. I want to give endless thanks to all of my teachers who have made this experience so special for me, and to the ones less favorable for making the ones that were already great even better. Thank you, Mom and Dad, for making sacrifices for me; thank you for your endless love and support; thank you for not making me become a doctor or a lawyer.

It's time to let go of this place now, but I wish to leave a few words of advice first:

You will make the calls in the end. Until then, require more of yourself. Do the absolute best you can. Follow your impulses. Run – as fast as you can – to what you want. Your future is now, and these six years are nothing compared to what's out there. Some will see the light at the end of the tunnel before others do. I know I did.

Just because someone's your friend in August does not mean they will be the same person in May. People will change, and that's okay. Don't waste your time with fake friends.

Be brilliant. Live in the moment. Be present. Get out of your own head and get over yourself – everything is better that way. Open up. Listen to the people around you. Talk to someone new.

"This above all: to thine own self be true." For it is in our very soul, our very core, that each and every one of us has a light. Find your light, take care of yourself, and trust the line.

I am number 38.

My time at MBA has been an amazing experience. It has changed me as a person in ways that I never imagined possible. I've traveled the world, developed as a leader, made life-long friends, and got swole in the process. I would like to thank all of my teachers, coaches, mentors, and classmates for pushing me to always strive for more. And I would like to thank my parents for making the decision to send me to this wonderful institution. Without you all, I would have never become the man that I am today. It is sad that the time has come to leave MBA, but now I have to move on and experience all that life has to offer. The Hill will always hold a special place in my heart.

I would like to thank my parents for giving me such a wonderful opportunity to attend Montgomery Bell Academy. I never thought going to a school without girls would be so amazing. My time at MBA has been unforgettable thanks to the awesome music department, outstanding cross country coaches, and the best teachers around! Even though I had to wake up at 5 every morning, be challenged mentally and physically every day, I wouldn't trade this experience for anything. Without my incredible family, both outside and in the MBA community, I could not imagine being in the same position I am in currently. Thanks for everything.

I would like to say that we are done, and to an extent we are "done." But there is so much more to an ending than just being "done." To my teachers: thank you so much to those of you that saw me pretty much everyday for help session and continued to put up with me. To all of my friends, climbing partners, and more recently, actors: I want to thank all of you for putting up with my admittedly overly sarcastic nature and standing by me through the last 6 years, I respect all of you immensely, you have helped shape who I am, and you all are extremely important to me, I couldn't have done this without you. Most importantly, to my family: there aren't words for how influential you have been to me these last 6 years, encouraging and pushing me and there isn't any way to thank you enough. There are some times in life that while you are in the middle, seem like a fire. Our time at MBA has been one of those times, and through the fire we emerge together, forged, as better friends and people, and for that I thank all of you.

During my six years at MBA, I have had ample opportunities to try out different things. I made great memories with all of my classmates, and other students below me. I was able to try out multiple clubs, such as HANC (Health and Nutrition), and AAS club (African American Studies). I have also had fun playing sports at MBA. I have played Football, Wrestling, Lacrosse, and Track. Sports on The Hill have definitely impacted my experience at MBA, by building relationships and establishing strong friendships. After sitting back and really going through all of my years on The Hill, I was able to single out three of my best memories including: the seventh grade class trip to Camp Laney, the eighth grade class trip to Atlanta, and winning the State Championship football game, this past season. My time at MBA would not have been as fun without some of the people I have met and really grown close to. Some people that come to mind are: Trevor Patton, Jermaine Francis, Mene Zua, Michael Lacey, Jay Thomas, Joe McKinney, and Wesley Tseng (Rest in Peace). MBA is a school that not everyone gets to attend. It's an experience I wish everyone could have and a huge opportunity that I am extremely thankful for.

GEOFFREY HOLLAND

During these four years, I have made many everlasting memories, but here are a few. Freshman year: PCGCSA, was in four honors classes, made basketball team for first time (thanks to $\frac{3}{4}$ of the team getting kicked out after 8th grade), "vocabulary on the leeffttt", Tale of Two Cities on the riiiggghhht", finally gained the courage to talk to the famous Austin "I did it in 8th grade" Rolfe, Fall Break, the grapes, Stereo Hearts, Coach Chauvin caught the fly, Jayhawk, "I'll try next year". Sophomore year: kicked out of all honors classes, With Your Friends, GP, Zimmerman's stories: True or nah?, Coach Detusch, patty melt, tissue box, Snoop Dog and TJ's relationship, Jack's Nintendo DS, Amol Kashul, met Ellie, texted Ellie, "I'll try next year". Junior year: the original pack started with all the different versions and admissions, Dave got McCall, Garey's Aunt's fence, recon spy mission under the white jeep, the dumpster, Amerigos, Omni Hotel, Henry Lynch, Nectar, spring break, Lilly Fergus, "only reason your athletic is cause of your dad", frustra, Chris Byrne lives, DAHHJTP, still txt Ellie, "I'll try next year". Senior year: didn't have a knee, couldn't do anything, still text Ellie, "I actually am trying."

Outside of all of these inside jokes and special moments, I truly want to thank everyone who has impacted my life over these past four years. First I want to thank my teachers. As each of you has put up with my antics, y'all have pushed to get the best effort and work out of me. I want to give a special thanks to my advisor Coach Carro. You have been a huge help during my MBA career. Lastly to my parents and sister, I thank y'all so much for helping me get through these challenging years. I cannot express enough thanks to all my brothers and the class of 2015. It's fine.

There are many people who have made my MBA experience so memorable and enjoyable. First, thank you to my parents for making my opportunities possible and for supporting me more than anyone else along the way. To Andrew, Matthew, and my grandparents, thank you for having my back and always brightening my day.

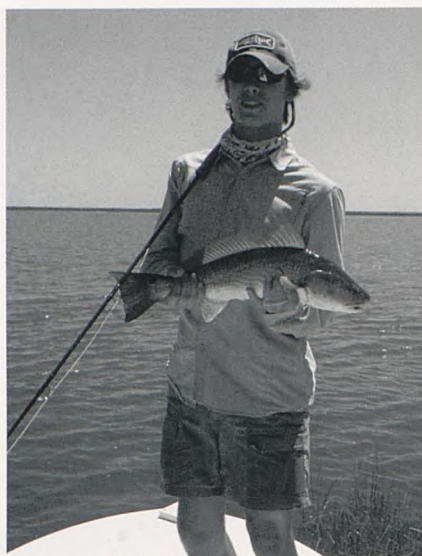

Thank you to: Mr. Gioia for giving me the opportunities to explore and grow and equipping me with the experiences that have come to define my MBA career; Mr. Moxley for being the best advisor I could have asked for; Wade Cowan for not only teaching me how to think and present on my feet but for giving of your time so generously to an activity that has meant so much to me; Coaches Phillips and Loveless for always being friendly voices and instilling in me a love for swimming and physical competition; Mr. Ardisson for making my broadcasting goals a reality and guiding me along the way; Madame O'Connell for being such a great friend and mentor.

Other people I would like to thank include but are not limited to: Mr. Hutton, Dr. Shackelford, Mrs. Qian, Dr. Seay, Sr. Kamm, Mr. Stewart, Mrs. Roberts, Mr. McMurray, Mr. Brown, Mr. Jackson, Mr. Compton, Mr. Davidson, Mr. McAlister, Dr. Tarkington, Dr. Kinch, Mr. Reynolds, Dr. Marro, Mr. Womack, Mrs. Squires, Ms. Greenberg, Mr. Barclay, Dr. Boyd, Ms. Swieca-Brockman, Coach O'Neal, Coach Vernachio, and Mr. Quinn.

Finally, thank you to all my classmates for keeping things exciting and for reminding me not to take myself too seriously. I look forward to hearing from you in the many years to come and continuing our friendships.

From the continual fear of chalk in Mr. Anderson's room in 7th grade, Mr. Woolsey's advisory in 8th grade, the stories in Dr. Zimmerman's class as a Freshman, Mr. Herring's "lessons" on 1960s-style revolutions as a Sophomore, the nerdy Physics jokes in Mr. Barclay's class as a Junior, and Mrs. Palmer both having "no chill" and being "savage," as a Senior, I've had some extraordinary teachers that have helped to push me to be the best that I can. A huge thank you to all of my Spanish teachers, particularly Sr. Paolicchi, for instilling in me a love for languages. Thank you to both Coach Klausner and Coach Cheevers for being incredible soccer coaches and mentors over the last 6 years. Thank you to all my friends and family that helped make my time at MBA so memorable.

THOMAS MAROSZ

"The mass of men lead lives of quiet desperation."
- Henry David Thoreau

"His soul had approached that region where dwell the vast hosts of the dead. He was conscious of, but could not apprehend, their wayward and flickering existence. His own identity was fading out into a grey impalpable world: the solid world itself, which these dead had one time reared and lived in, was dissolving and dwindling."
- James Joyce

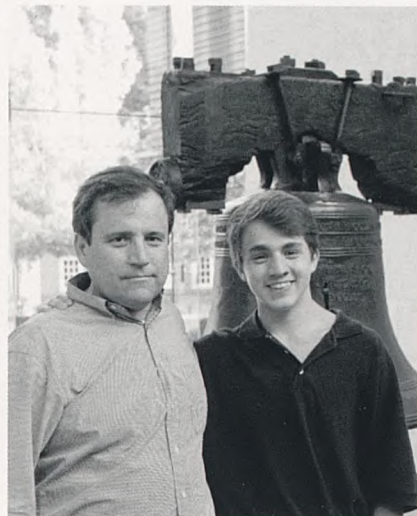

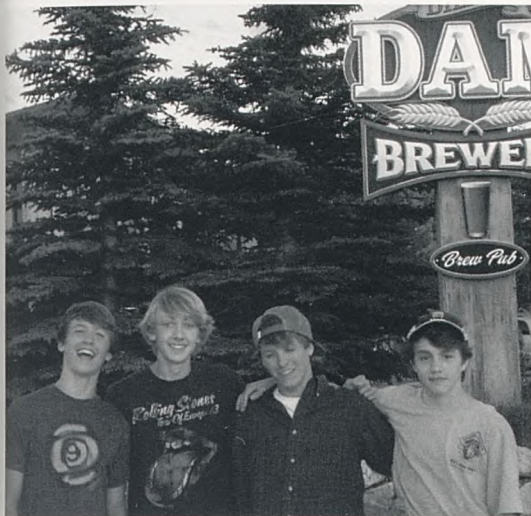

"Thus, neither of us is alive when the reader opens this book. But while the blood still throbs through my writing hand, you are still as much part of this blessed matter as I am. I am thinking of aurochs and angels, the secret of durable pigments, prophetic sonnets, the refuge of art."
- Vladimir Nabokov

Without my parents and their guidance and goodwill, these last six years would have been insuperable. My gratitude to you is unbounded.

I would like to first thank Dr. Tarkington and Mr. Kelly for instilling in me a deep love for literature and the ability to articulate myself. Thank you, Mr. Davidson, for sharing your philosophies, life experiences, and lessons in ethics, and for putting up with Matt's and my shenanigans during Chess Club (when we actually had the time to play a game). Thank you, Coach Barclay, for diligently coaching me not only through physics, but also through life and the pain that is junior year. Sr. Paolicchi, I will always carry with me memories of you and those indispensable words you always uttered: La vida es dura. Eso es. Dr. Marro, every time I see that quotation at the bottom of your e-mails, I am reminded of the wisdom you have imparted to me while I have been under your tutelage. I have asked shamelessly, and have thus avoided a lifetime of shame - thank you. Matt and Harry, no words written on this page will do justice to the bonds I have formed with you over these past years.

To anyone I have neglected to thank properly, I apologize. This is by no means a final goodbye.

Mr. Gioia, Mr. Ferrell, and Mr. Ardisson- thank you so much for all of your support these past six years, it has truly changed my life.

TRACEY MATHIS

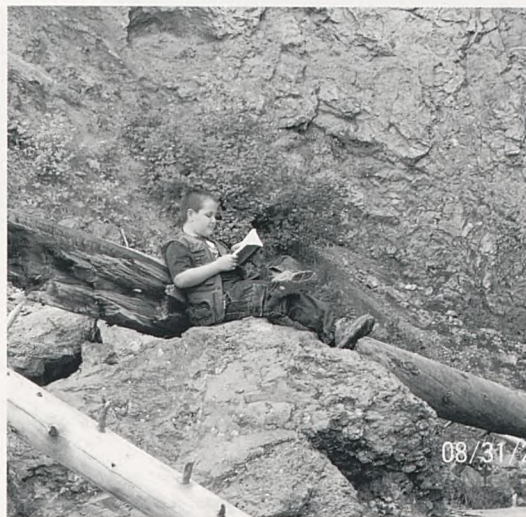

Throughout my six years attending MBA, I have participated in a variety of Rigorous Courses, Demanding Sports, and Meaningful Services. After studying the Latin language for three years, I was awarded a certificate of Honorable Recognition for my test score on the National Latin Exam; I've taken Studio Art every year, as an extracurricular course, advancing to Studio Art IV AP my senior year. During this time, I have earned the Silver Key Award in Scholastics for my skills and love for drawing;

Outside the class, I have helped the battle against cancer by supporting the 2014 Race for the Cure; I also attended a service, with my 7th grade "little brother," for Room in the Inn, a volunteer shelter for the homeless;

I have been given opportunity to experience and take part in 3 sports: Rifle, Wrestling, and Football. From the 7th grade until my sophomore year, I traveled to many competitions with the MBA Rifle Team, enjoying different atmospheres and meeting new people; I have also wrestled from 7th grade through my Junior year, winning the HVAC Championship in middle school and placing 1st in City, weighing 145 lbs, as a sophomore, on the JV team; Football helped teach me countless life lessons while also creating a bond between my fellow senior classmates and I that cannot be described as anything but amazing. I have played every year except 9th grade, when I realized how much I missed the camaraderie of the sport, only to return to play my sophomore year and finishing through my Senior year;

The overall experience that MBA offers is priceless. Everyone on campus is always willing to help one another when challenges come, whether in academics or athletics. Originating from the history of the foundation, the motto, Gentleman, Scholar, Athlete, noticeably spreads throughout all of us students and has molded me into a more mature male, highly aware of the pure knowledge and wisdom I have gained; "Free BRYSON!!!"; "Built by BROCK"; "Hey mann?! I want to thank everyone for helping me through these hard six years. You have helped me through the hard days and the easy ones. You have supported me through the long weeks and the short ones. I am a completely different person than I was before. I came into MBA a boy and I will leave a man.

I want to thank all of my teachers and my coaches for teaching me and turning me into the man that I am today. I want to thank my family for standing by me and putting up with me these last couple of years, and I want to thank all of my friends that I have made. I love all of you guys and I will never forget the great times that I have had on the hill. Thanks everyone!

Now the medicine man comes and he shuffles inside
He walks with a swagger and he says to the bride
"Stop all this weeping, swallow your pride
You will not die, it's not poison"

Well, John the Baptist after torturing a thief
Looks up at his hero the Commander-in-Chief
Saying, "Tell me great hero, but please make it brief
Is there a hole for me to get sick in?"

The Commander-in-Chief answers him while chasing a fly
Saying, "Death to all those who would whimper and cry"
And dropping a barbell he points to the sky
Saying, "The sun's not yellow it's chicken"

The king of the Philistines his soldiers to save
Puts jawbones on their tombstones and flatters their graves
Puts the pied pipers in prison and fattens the slaves
Then sends them out to the jungle

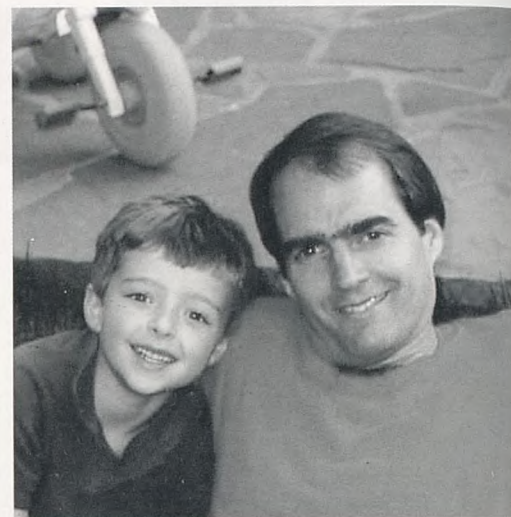

Gypsy Davey with a blowtorch he burns out their camps
With his faithful slave Pedro behind him he tramps
With a fantastic collection of stamps
To win friends and influence his uncle

-Bob Dylan, "Tombstone Blues"

Thank you, Hunter and Joe, for taking me under your wing, challenging and stimulating me intellectually, and serving as outstanding role models. Thank you, Dr. Tarkington, for teaching the most personally influential and thought provoking class at MBA, developing my writing, and sharing your own experiences. Thank you, Mr. Davidson and Dr. Boyd, for putting up with my incessant emails, playing mediocre rounds of golf, and being friends during a challenging year. Thank you, Mr. Paolicchi, Dr. Bailey, and Coach Barclay, for the passion and enthusiasm you brought to class every day. Thank you, Dr. Marro, for watching out for your advisory (the best on campus) and teaching me three great years of chemistry. Thank you, Ms. Williams and Dr. Seay, for listening to my ideas and caring about the well-being of every student. Thank you, Mom and Dad, for providing me with this opportunity, waking me up on time whenever necessary, and being my biggest advocates for six years.

To Dr. Pettus- thank you for inspiring my passion for foreign language and teaching me that languages are best learned outside of the textbook.

To Mr. Kelly- thank you for teaching me the importance of having a sense of humor. Your English III class remains as one of my favorite memories from my time at MBA.

To Mr. Gaither- thank you for your wisdom and guidance as both a teacher and advisor. You are one of the best teachers I have had, and I wish you the best in your retirement.

To the rest of my teachers- thank you for your hard work and dedication to your jobs. MBA would not be the incredible place it is without your efforts and abilities.

MBA has changed me in ways that cannot be described. The faculty, family, and friends that reside on the Hill cannot be forgotten with time. Teachers, Thank you for putting up with my tireless questions and inquisitions. Friends, I thank you for allowing me to realize the true benefits of friendship and the values that emerge from companionship. My time on the Hill has been priceless. Being part of the Big Red Sea in the football games is what I will miss most. Family, your never-ending support of my endeavors have impacted and taught me that effort yields reward. I thank God the most, however, for His never-ending persistence pushing me to strive for higher goals.

So do not throw away your confidence; it will be richly rewarded. You need to persevere so that when you have done the will of God, you will receive what he has promised.

Thank you Dr. Fuller for teaching me the importance of respecting and honoring others. Thank you Mr. Moxley and Dr. Kinch for showing me how to write and express myself. Thank you Mr. Merideth and Mr. Smyth for introducing me to music. Thank you Mr. Dickens and Mrs. Qian for teaching me diligence. I would not be who I am without the influential people I have met at this school. I am blessed to have learned from these teachers.

The relationships I have forged through MBA are more valuable than any other aspect of my education. I have gained more from these relationships than I could gain from any class. This school is special. It's not special because of its tradition or its national merit scholars. There are plenty of old, proficient high schools. MBA is special because it doesn't build good students; it builds good brothers. This brotherhood stems from a mutual respect. The quarterback respects the thespian and vice versa. The artist respects the mathlete. We brothers empathize better than any other students, because everyone of us understands the struggles and rigor that accompany attending MBA. Because of this mutual understanding, we respect the passions of every student, which allows everyone to express himself freely.

I am so thankful for my community and teachers for seeing a better man in the future than I could see myself. I also wanted to thank Brandon Thornsberry and the entire Red Sea for making our football season and student section so successful. The school spirit, camaraderie and brotherhood evident in our student section have been some of the main reasons I wanted to come back to MBA. I could not be more thankful for the way MBA has allowed me to exercise leadership positions in Rowing, Pep Rallies, and in the Red Sea. Forever Roll Red.

"It is known that there are an infinite number of worlds, simply because there is an infinite amount of space for them to be in. However, not every one of them is inhabited. Therefore, there must be a finite number of inhabited worlds. Any finite number divided by infinity is as near to nothing as makes no odds, so the average population of all the planets in the Universe can be said to be zero. From this it follows that the population of the whole Universe is also zero, and that any people you may meet from time to time are merely the products of a deranged imagination."

I owe this fantastic experience to all my mentors. Dr. Dickens, thanks for a great advisory—not everyone has a rocket scientist for an advisor! Dr. Boyd, I was incredibly lucky to have you as a teacher—I didn't understand the difference between Great Britain and England until I met you. To Dr. Kinch, Mrs. Roberts, Dr. Marro, Mr. Pruitt, and Mr. Davidson, thank you for your genuine support and guidance. Coaches Simpson, Tarkington, and Shone, thanks for teaching me character and courage in the face of fear. Coach Redmond, thanks for teaching me to have confidence in my preparation. Coach Anderson, I have known you since I was very young. I will always appreciate your unyielding support and your willingness to help me develop as a leader and reach my goals.

Thank you Mom, Dad, Annie, and Grace. Your support has been invaluable, and the opportunities I have been provided are humbling. Dad, thank you for the immeasurable time you have spent with me. I owe more to this gift than I can possibly express. Mom, you have seen me through my most difficult times—nobody knows. I love all of you to no end.

Faculty and Staff- Thank you so much for caring about me in and out of the classroom. I have learned so much from each and every one of you.

Warner Family- I cannot express how thankful I am for your generosity in allowing me to study at Winchester College for five weeks during the summer before my senior year. I will never forget my time living in Furley's and the friendships that I made while abroad.

Dr. Kinch, Dr. Tarkington, Ms. Hollifield, & Mr. Schumacher- I will always remember the dedication and passion that you put into your teaching. Each of you has ingrained a creative spirit within me that I will never forget. Mrs. Warner, Mrs. Williams, & Mr. Tillman- I could not have made it through MBA without you. Each of you has inspired me in more ways than you could ever know.

To my classmates- You guys are the best. Over the past three years, I have loved getting to know all of you. Each and every one of you is unique and has made me a better person. I look forward to seeing the amazing things that you accomplish in the future.

And finally, to Mom, Dad, & William- You will never know how much I love and appreciate you. You have changed my life for the better, and I am extremely grateful that you sent me to MBA.

ETHAN YAPPEN

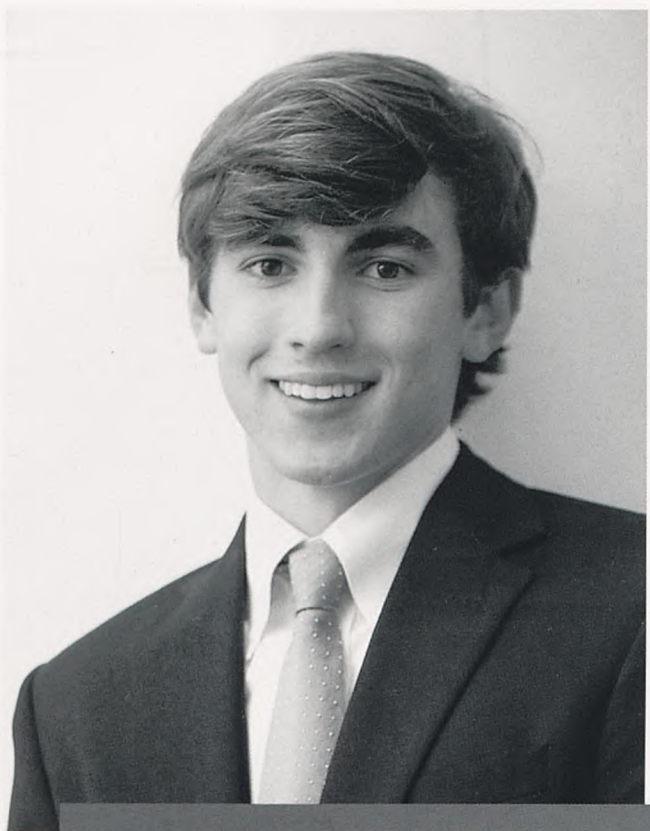

MBA has taught me a lot. More than most I'd say. It has taught me how to lead and how to follow. How to serve. How to learn. How to be thankful and how to forgive. MBA taught me how to be me, and aided me in developing exactly who that is. I have been placed into a brotherhood that extends 150 years into the past, and indefinitely into the future. The Big Red Bloodline runs long and world wide. MBA gentleman, scholars, and athletes are in every corner of the globe. It is now that I get to be a part of this family permanently with six years of invested work and emotion.

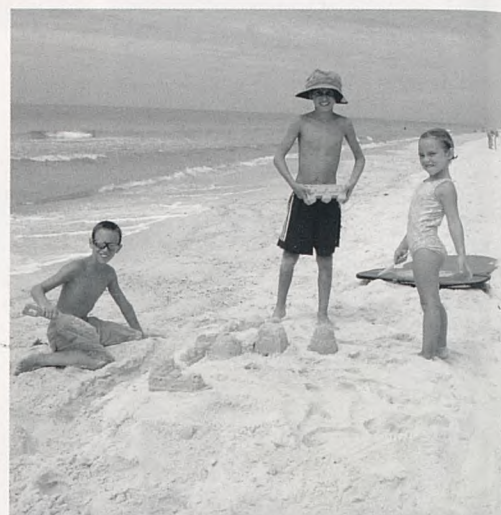

Most men insert their respective memories and inside jokes here but I will choose to let these live and die with those who created them.

I would like to thank those who aided me in this journey. First Coach Klausner for being the man who inspired my father to send me here and for helping me on my journey after MBA. I would also like to thank my family, parents, siblings, and Big Red Brethren. Lastly I'd like to thank my coaches and mentors. I'd like to thank Brandon Thornsberry, Emeka Nnadi, my honorary receiver coach and guidance counselor Coach Sanders, Coach Euverard, and the MBA Football coaching staff.

HONORS NIGHT

Celebrating Accomplishments

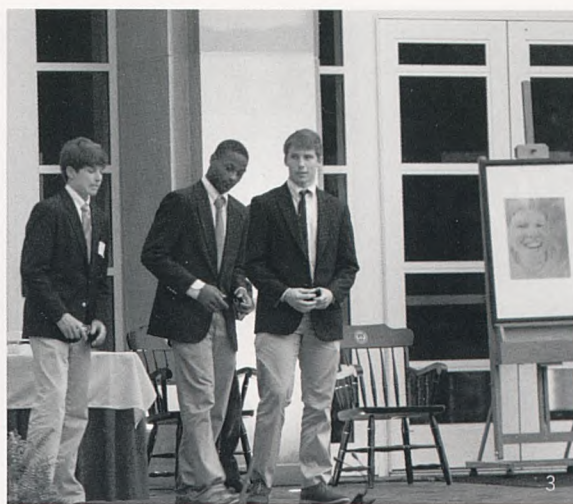

At the end of every school year, high school students gather on the night before graduation to participate in Honors Night. This year the recognitions started on under an overcast sky which yielded to a stunning sunset as awards were given to the assembled crowd of students, faculty, and family. Throughout the course of the evening, students and faculty alike are recognized for their academic and leadership achievements. Ranging from the numerous book awards to MBA's highest honor, Best Boy, Honors Night celebrates a wide variety of achievements. Highlights include the Paschal Art Purchase Award, given to junior Corbitt Dicker for his color pencil drawing of fellow student Daniel Maynard. Overall, Honors Night was a great way to finish the school year and recognize students for their hard work and dedication.

COMMENCEMENT

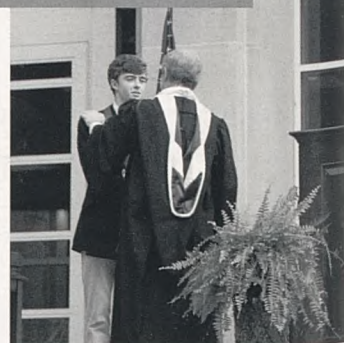

Celebrating the 148th Class of MBA Graduates

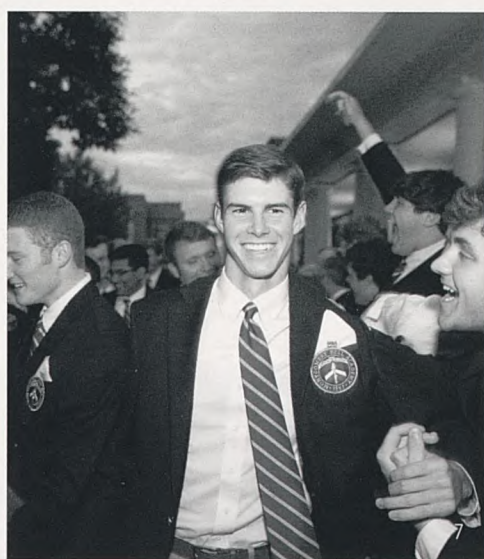

Wearing handkerchiefs to commemorate deceased classmate Wesley Tseng, the Class of 2015 participated in MBA's 148th Commencement Ceremony. As evident during the ceremony, more than the physical changes the campus has seen, the sports championships the school has earned, and the many academic challenges the class has encountered during its time on The Hill, this year's graduates will appreciate their MBA experience for the friendships they formed and the class camaraderie they enjoyed. Michael Milam (Valedictorian) and Thomas Marosz (Salutatorian) addressed the audience, followed by well-known historian and journalist John Meacham, who served as this year's commencement speaker. The choir's annual rendition of Homeland and the singing of the Alma Mater united everyone in song.

Michael Milam, Class of 2015

Speaking at graduation was intense, but I definitely appreciated the platform and the privilege to speak to the class. It was a great honor to offer the farewell. My favorite part of the evening was the procession out of the ceremony, when we walked through the faculty tunnel. The bagpipes of course added to the atmosphere, and walking together as a class as well as seeing our teachers, friends and families congratulate us was truly meaningful.

1. Michael Milam delivers the valedictory address, using works of art in particular as analogies for the path ahead. 2. David Bright, Louis Brown, Anderson Bruehl, Luke Bullock, and Sam Carey listen attentively. 3. John Meacham draws on his historical expertise to convey an impactful message. 4. The Big Red Chorus sings one last performance before the diplomas are handed out. 5. Graduates reach the end of the recessional, where they are greeted by Mr. Gioia. 6. Mr. Gioia presents Thomas Marosz with MBA's Salutatorian medal. 7. John Tipps can't help but smile as he walks into the embrace of fellow MBA students. 8. William Snow and Blake Solarek during the ceremony. 9. Mene Zue celebrates as he crosses the finish line. 10. Having already received their diplomas, the graduates revel in a singing of the Alma Mater.

Thomas Marosz, Class of 2015

The whole evening itself was bittersweet. Graduation, along with Project Graduation, allowed the entire class one final evening together; however, it was, and still is, a little difficult coming to terms with the fact that apart from being with some close friends, it will likely be a while before I see many members of the Class of 2015. Although moving on is a necessary part of life, I still think that our class has done well immortalizing ourselves within the halls of MBA before moving our separate ways.

1. Students took on the faculty in broomball and won 6-3 behind a raucous supporting crowd. 2. Clay Bailey helps direct a craps table as Harrison Lien eagerly watches on in anticipation. 3. The acrobats in the Class of 2015 enjoyed the opportunity to defy gravity with the bungee jumping apparatus.

4. The seniors take to the court for some friendly competition and bring the heat in the late-night hours. 5. Leslie Jones (left) and Kit Lechleiter (right) were in charge of the Lone Survivor game and filled the evenings with dramatic twists of fate in the quest to win the big cash prize. 6. Brandon Thornsberry deals a poker table in the casino section of the event. 7. Luke Barrick and James Matthews put their money at the mercy of Ric Rader. 8. Seniors wait excitedly for the festivities to begin upon arrival at A-Game.

PROJECT GRADUATION

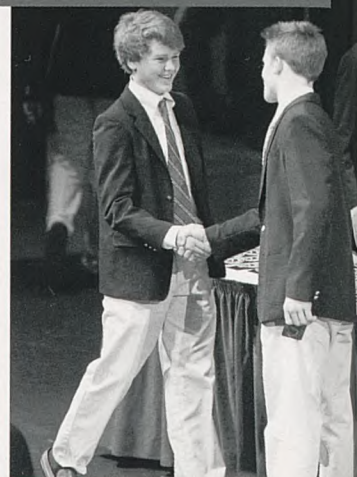

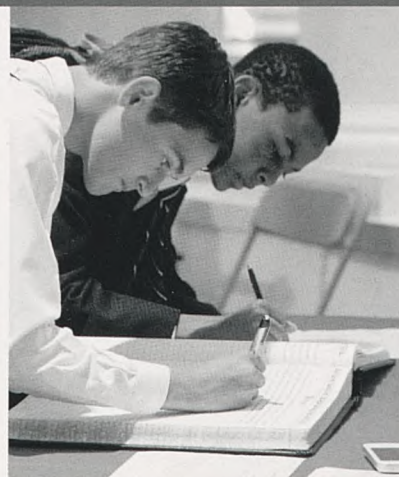

One Last Big Party

Every year, following graduation, the senior class participates in an all night extravaganza known as "Project Graduation." Thanks to the help and generosity of class parents, the party, held at A-Game Sportsplex, was filled with a myriad of activities. This year, the event featured casino tables manned by a number of MBA faculty, bungee jumping, broomball, basketball, laser tag, and more. The night was topped off by prizes of all sorts, including thirty trivia gift cards on the way to the party, forty door prizes throughout the event, six grand prize drawings (students filled boxes with tickets earned at the casino, and each student's selection of an Best Buy item from a pre-arranged list. In the Lone Survivor game, seniors drew photos of their classmates every hour from the selection containers until two final survivors remained and received cash prizes. Concessions, ranging from Chik fil A sandwiches and minis to soft drinks and icees, were free and unlimited. A big thank you goes to all the parents and teachers who made the party not only possible, but a great time to celebrate the class with one last gathering all together.

ATHLETICS

The Crew team's fall season included some challenging weather but the team kicked off the season with the Chattanooga Head Race followed by the Secret City Head Race. Their next big competition, Head of the Hooch Regatta some teams were unable to compete due to weather. The team finished their fall season with the Head of the South Regatta including a strong performance from the Lightweight Varsity 4s which included one boat made up of entirely freshmen.

The Crew team completed its sixth year led by the first 4-year varsity lettermen in team history, seniors Gage Anderson, Seth Cook and Cameron Travis. The Big Red Crew Team kicked off the spring racing season Saturday, March 28th 2015 at the John Hunter Regatta in Gainesville, GA. Other competition highlights this season included the first inaugural "Tennessee Challenge Cup" established jointly by MBA's Big Red and McCallie's Blue Tornados. Other events included the Dogwood Regatta on April 25th 2015, in Oak Ridge, Tennessee and the inaugural Mid-South Scholastic Championships hosted at the Baylor School.

Feature Image. It is always a beautiful day out on the water. 1. Seniors Seth Cook and Gage Anderson help shoulder the weight of the boat as they head into the water. 2. The water may be chilly but the boys keep moving to bring the heat. 3. Heyward Rogers, Gage Anderson, Seth Cook, and Cameron Travis enjoy the camaraderie that develops from long practices on the lake. 4. The team bringing their boat back in after the race. 5. Seth Cook and Cameron Travis help move the boat out of the water.

Cross Country

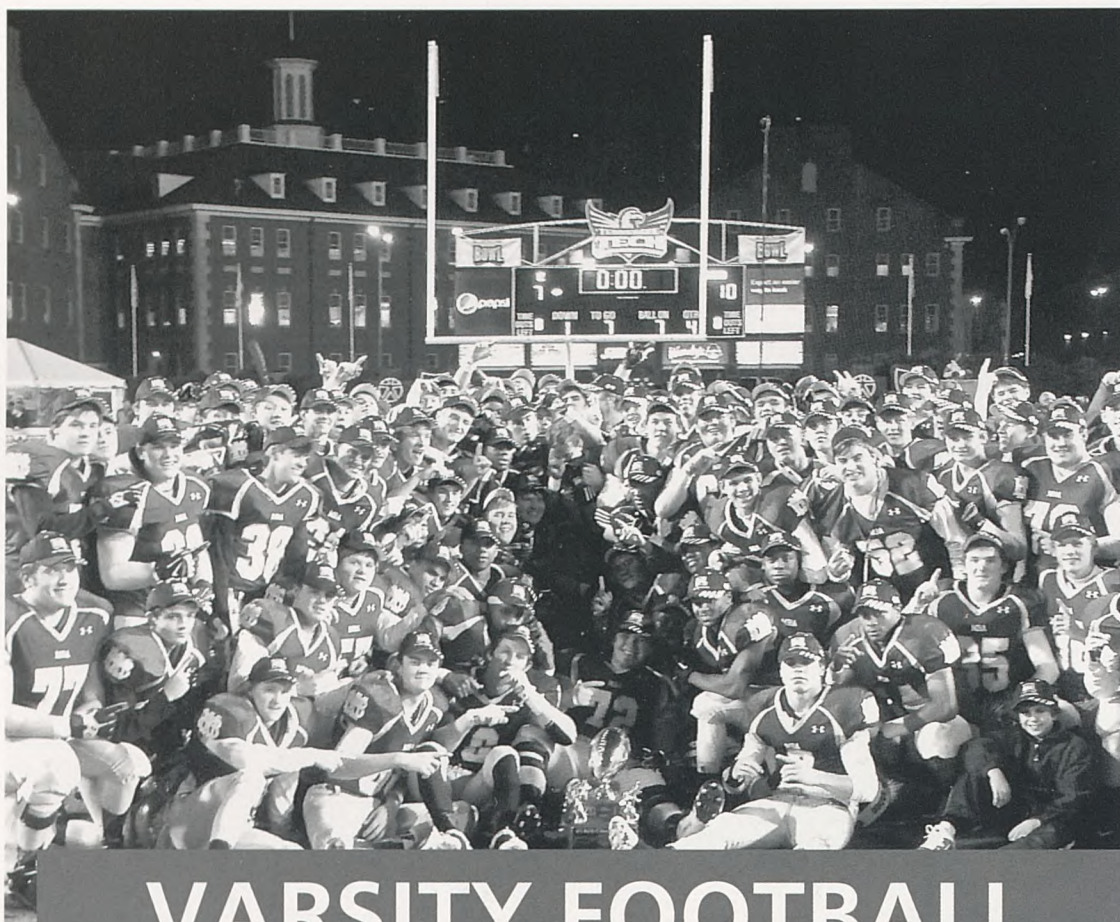

It's (always) a Good Day to Run! Run!

Official practice began in late July with daily runs in the Warner Parks. Just before school began, the team traveled to its annual camp at St. Mary's Sewanee for twice-daily runs, teaching sessions, and evenings of the gallon challenge. The competitive season began with a return to the Cherokee Classic in Knoxville in mid-September, a meet where the team first showed the grit that would characterize its performances all season. Learning the day before the meet that two of our top runners would not be competing, the team still managed to land a strong fifth place finish against a competitive field of teams, many of which we would compete against at the State Championship. Following middling finishes at the McCallie Invitational in late September and the Jesse Owens Classic in early October, the team enjoyed a solid training phase highlighted by the annual running of the Tour de Pants, with the 2014 pants claimed by senior Michael Milam. For both varsity and jv teams, the competitive highlight of the year was the Metro Championship meet where the varsity claimed its eighth consecutive Metro title and the jv reclaimed the title it has held for most of the past thirty-five years. The Harriers entered State with high hopes and bolstered by the largest fan base of any team in the meet. Though disappointed with the outcome on November 1, the 2014 team was certainly not a disappointment. It's a good day to run!

Feature Image. The varsity seven have a team meeting before the State Championship. 1. Senior leaders Richard Thornton and Cole Jones created a wonderful environment of camaraderie and accountability on the team. 2. Sophomore Joseph Tarquine leads a group of MBA runners at Vaughn's Creek. 3. Super-Twins Will and Tom Peters give the MBA XC team a bright future. 4. Big Red Runners prepare for the start of the race.

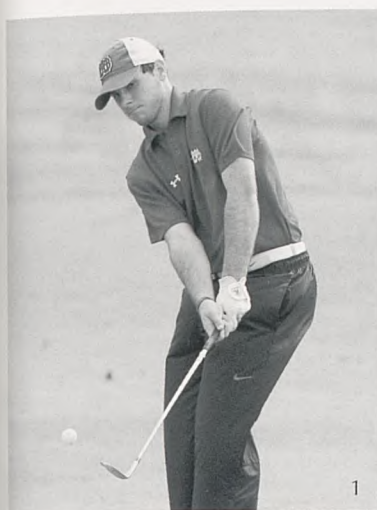

VARSITY FOOTBALL

Bringing Home the State Title

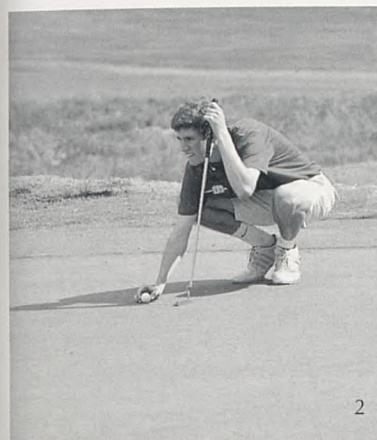

The season began with 6 a.m. summer workouts led by head strength coach Sean Brock and facilitated by the rest of the football staff. This prepared the team for when the games started with a 26-7 road victory over Christian Brothers High School. With memorable wins against teams like Memphis Hamilton High School, Brentwood Academy, and an epic Homecoming game against Father Ryan the team finished the season and started their run toward the state title with the second overall seed. This run involved a first round win against McCallie and an exciting come from behind win against the Red Raiders of Baylor. These wins pitted the Big Red against rival Ensworth in the final at Tennessee Tech. The Big Red prevailed in a 10-7 nail-biter. The team celebrated their first state championship since 2007 at a special breakfast with the whole student body on the last day of classes.

1. Senior Michael Lacey sheds one tackler and charges head on toward the next Father Ryan defender. 2. Owen Powell and Zach Roberts lead the Big Red onto the field at Tommy Owen Stadium. 3. Mr. Football Cole Euverard flies to the left while Jordan Wilson blocks. 4. Ty Chandler eases into the end zone for a touchdown against Father Ryan. 5. Michael Lacey and D'On Coofer run onto Andrews Field through a crowd of student supporters.

VARSITY GOLF

Lining Up for Success

The 2014-2015 MBA Golf team had another solid season with several key wins and its third consecutive State championship appearance. The team started the year strong with a win against Ensworth in a Ryder Cup-style match at the Golf Club of Tennessee. MBA came back from a 4-2 deficit to win 11-7. The team's top two seeds, sophomore Cal Reike and senior George Hite, won 3.5 out of a total 4 points from Ensworth's top two to lead the team. The rest of the regular season consisted of dual matches (mostly 9-holes) in preparation for the post-season. The post-season began with the region championship at Tim's Ford where the team qualified for states. Despite challenging weather, the Big Red was able to play solid and finished in fifth-place.

Shooting Sports on The Hill

The Big Red Rifles, lead by seniors Nathan Sharp (Captain), Billy Lynch, and Jack Sondag completed the 2015 regular season with a second place finish at the Tennessee State High School Air Rifle Championship. Despite a long season of dedicated work, a flawless regular season dual match record and noteworthy performances by senior Jack Sondag (PR), juniors Zach Wassinger, Luke Cianciolo, sophomore Josh Cheng and frosh Brad Holladay (PR), the MBA shooters came up short in the championship. MBA Rifle also sent four shooters to the Junior Olympic qualifiers this year. In the Shooting Sports Program's first season of competition Air Pistol senior captain Billy Lynch lead the way with 8th grader Joseph Perazzini to blaze a trail for future shooters. Lynch finished the season by winning the state junior category and taking second overall in the Tennessee State Air Rifle Championship.

VARSITY BASKETBALL

The Whole is Greater than the Sum of its Parts

The 2014-2015 Varsity Basketball team had a very productive and enjoyable season, completing the year with a 17-10 record. Led by seniors Clay Cavallo, Jermaine Francis, John Hazen, Geoffrey Holland, Joe McKinney, Greg Quesinberry, Austin Rolfe, Richard Thornton, and manager Faris Wasim the team finished this season in a quarterfinal loss in Memphis to the eventual state runner up Christian Brothers. The Big Red opened the year by soundly defeating Lead Academy and MLK. An early season trip to Memphis saw the Big Red defeat the much taller MUS and suffer a loss, while depleted, to Christian Brothers. Next up were the Christams Tournaments. At the BA Classic, the Big Red defeated the Alabama powerhouse Bob Jones High School. Following the BA Classic was the Sonic Shoootout at White County High School. After a solid victory against Red Bank, the Big Red pulled off an amazing comeback against Lebanon in the semifinals and an upset in the finals against the hosts White County High School to capture the Sonic Shoootout title. Going into league play, the Big Red accrued a solid record of ten wins and two losses. Highlights from league play include two wins against McCallie, two wins against Baylor, and two wins against Father Ryan. Although the Big Red lost more league games than they had hoped to, they ended up with home court advantage in the first round of the playoffs. Teamwork and unselfishness were hallmarks of this year's team. It was a fun team to watch and one that represented the school and community well.

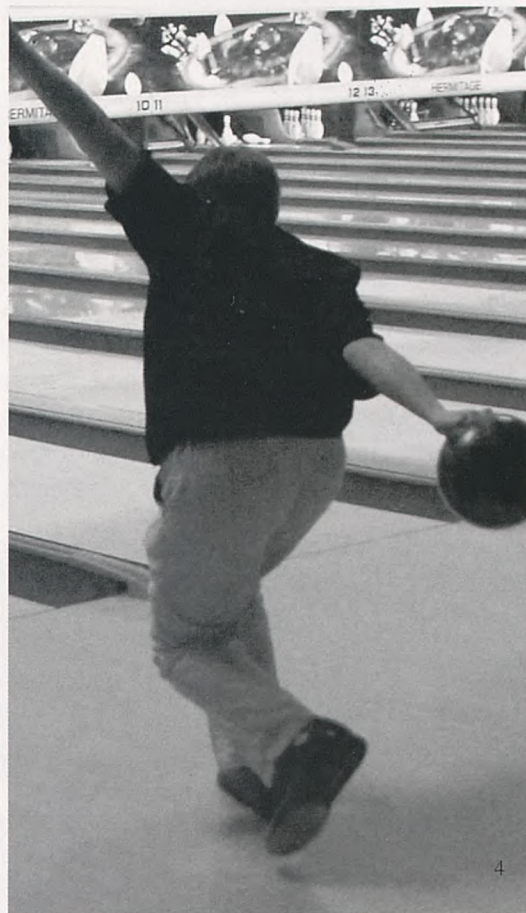

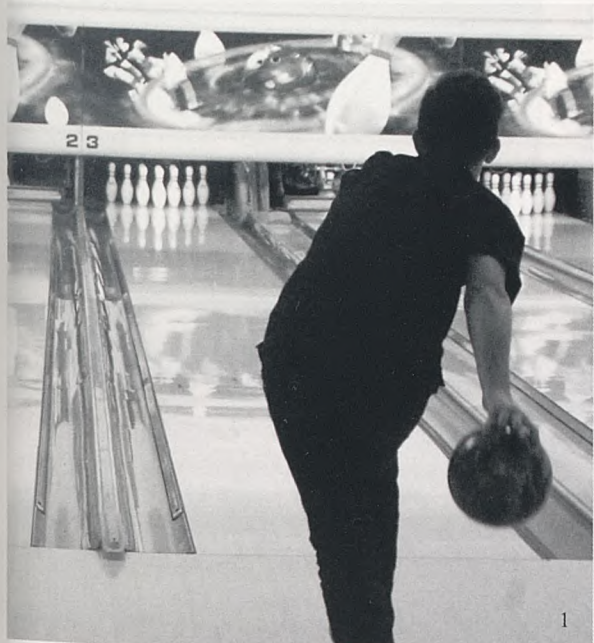

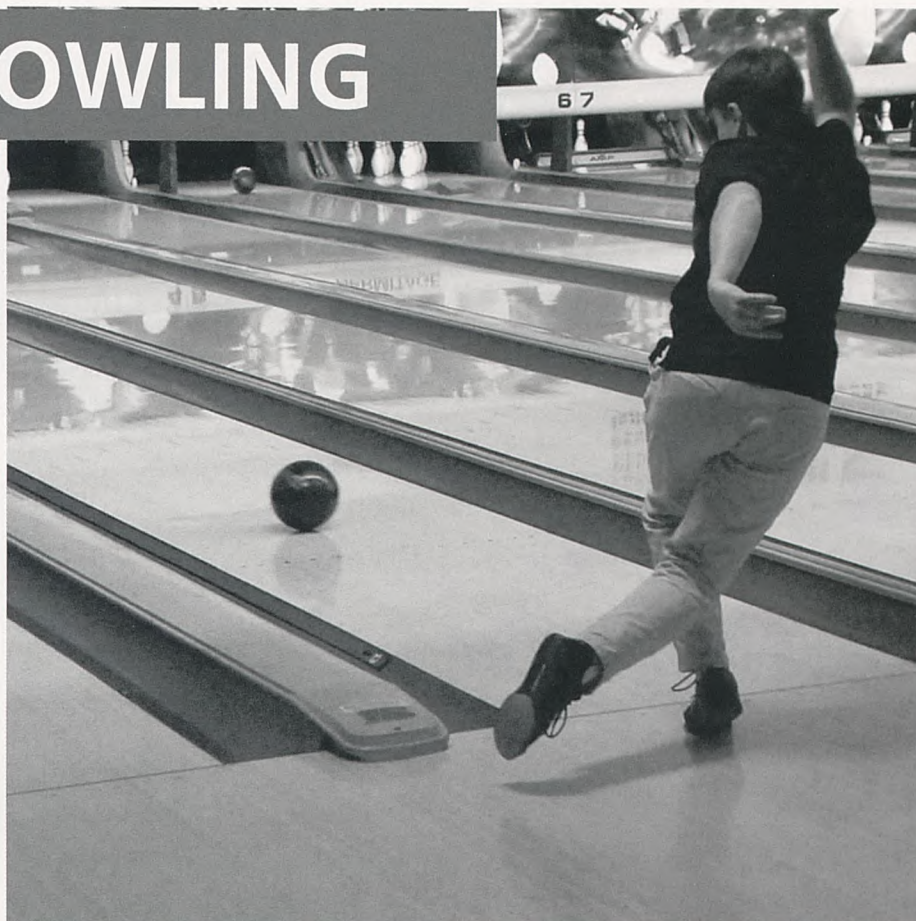

Feature. The team shows off their newest title with a round of low key ones. 1. Jermaine Francis pulls up for a jumper against Father Ryan. 2. Joe McKinney shoots a three point shot over a defender. 3. John Hazen controls the tempo in the Big Red's play off win over Father Ryan. 4. Jordan Wilson emphatically dunks the ball in front of the opposition on Father Ryan's home court.

VARSITY BOWLING

A Year of Transition

Following the graduation of five senior bowlers, the 2014-2015 season looked to be a challenge for the team. New Head Coach Chris Sanders and Associate Head Coach Jonathan Creamer welcomed the opportunity to build around a solid group of young bowlers. During the regular season, the team finished with an 8-8 record in the Division II middle district, sweeping their home-and-away series against Ezell-Harding, FRA, and JPIL. A highlight of the regular season was Grayson Fettroll ('16) bowling a 259 game against USN, the fifth highest individual game in MBA history. The Big Red finished fourth in the district and qualified for the District Tournament as the top seed. Despite a late push the team fell to John Paul II in the District Tournament but with a group of young bowlers shows great promise for the future.

Feature Image. John Whitaker releases the ball at a match against John Paul II. 1. Starting his approach is Jamie Payne. 2. Brinton Hoover and Jackson Wooten show the friendships formed on the lanes. 4. The team huddles up before their match against John Paul II. 4. Ben Coulthard brings the ball back before his signature release.

VARSITY HOCKEY

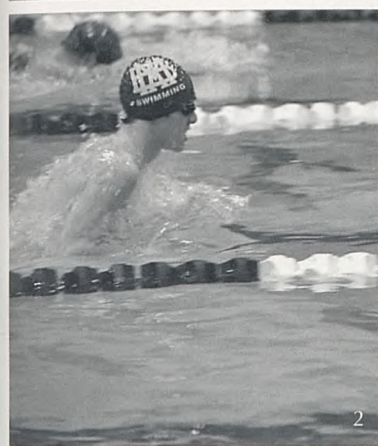

Big Red Heat up the Ice

The Varsity Hockey team enjoyed a very successful season, culminating with a runner-up finish in the Predator's Cup Tournament. The 2014-15 team was young, but strong, defensively starting in goal with Noah Wamble ('17); defensemen Daniel Cowan ('18), and brother pairings Stephen ('15) and Nick ('17) Ray, and Jake ('17) and Ben ('18) Evans. The team had very strong freshman class of forwards that stepped in and contributed immediately; Josh Morin, Blake Robison, Robert Cowan, Josh Morris, and Michael Garcia were not intimidated by facing against older players. They complemented the team's already strong returning sophomore forwards Jacob Kovick and Ellis Moore on the top lines. The team was amazingly fast, spirited, patient (very few penalties), and passionate about the game.

Feature Image. Noah Wamble and Daniel Cowan keep up a strong defense and hold off the offence. 1. Jacob Kovick and Jake Evans prepare for a face-off. 2. SWIMMING & DIVING

New State Record in Swimming

The MBA Swimming team had a solid season with wins against Ensworth and Ravenswood among others. Twenty-five of the team's 32 swimmers qualified for the Region competition. After placing second at the Regional meet the team moved on to the State meet where they finished eleventh overall. Highlights from states included a fourth-place state finish for the 200 meter medley relay of Chatham Dobbs, Ryan Carpenter, Hudson Dobbs, Ford Ray; a third-place state finish for the 200 meter freestyle relay of Ray, Dobbs, Dobbs, and Matthew Robbins; and a state championship and state record of 20.28 seconds for Chatham Dobbs in the 50 freestyle. Dobbs will continue his swimming career with the University of Arizona in the fall.

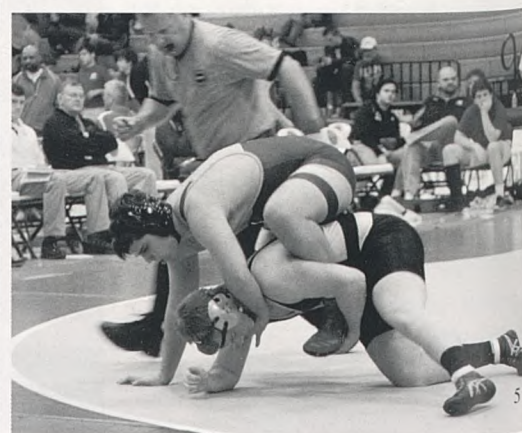

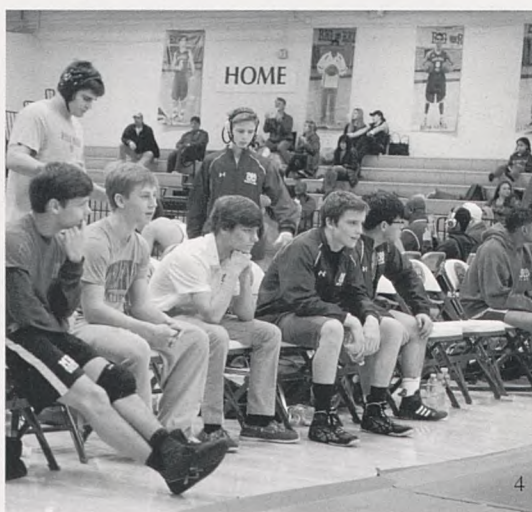

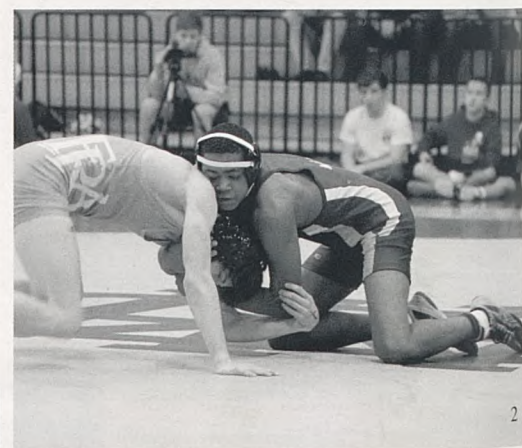

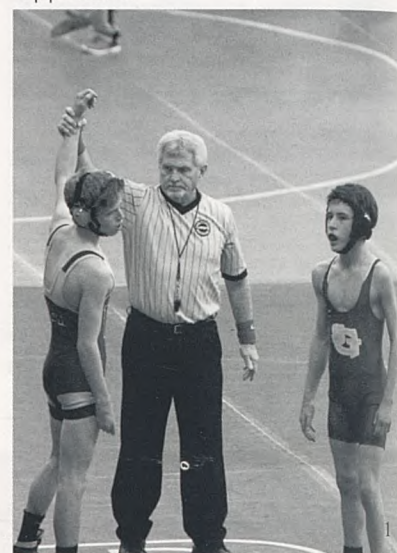

VARSITY WRESTLING

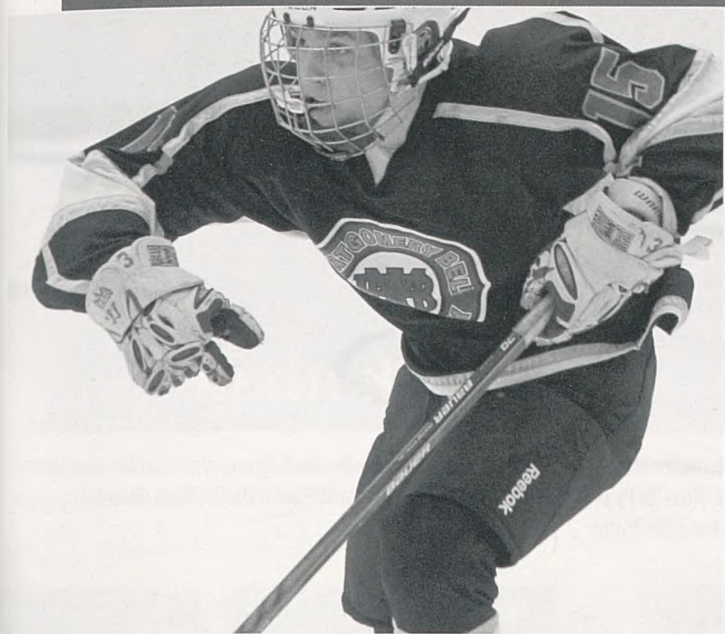

Big Red Brings Home a State Champ

The 2014-15 Wrestling season brought many great memories. In the first tournament of the year, the Black Horse Invitational, the team finished in fourth place. At the Beech Invitational, the Big Red came home with the tournament championship trophy for the second year in a row. The end of the year provided many great memories as the team finished fourth place at the State Duals and second place at the TSSAA Middle/East Sectional. This tournament qualified 13 wrestlers for the State Individuals. MBA placed five wrestlers in the finals, and celebrated Cole Euverard's State Championship win. Second place finishers Thomas Bellet, Gabriel Elkin, Michael Elkin, and D'On Coofer all had great tournaments. The other wrestlers placed in the tournament included Carter Heckle (3rd), Ben Kelly (4th), Sam Bellet (5th) Blake Solarek (6th), and John Michael Glover (6th).

VARSITY BASEBALL

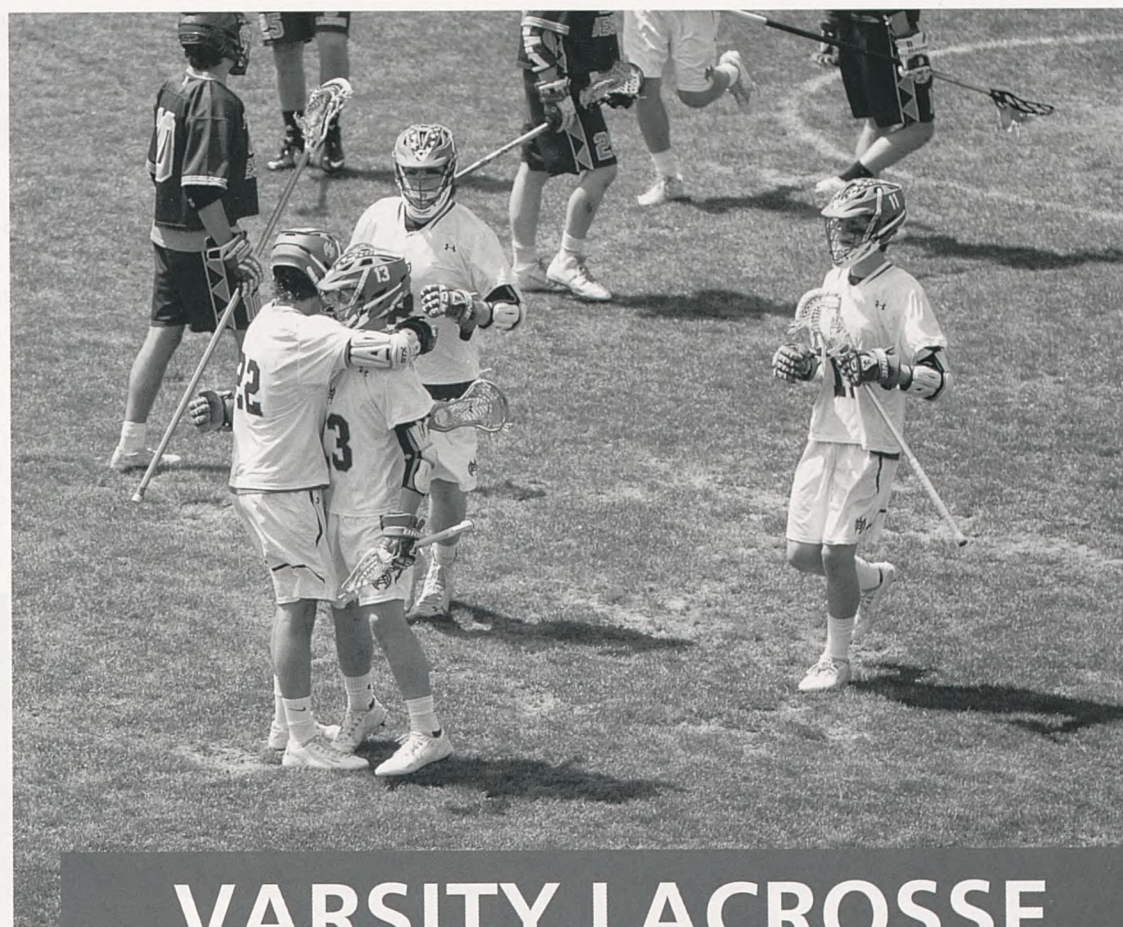

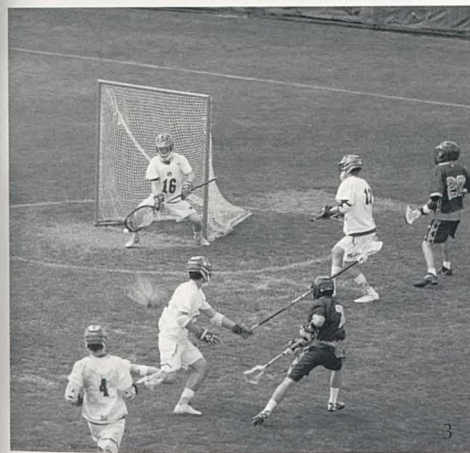

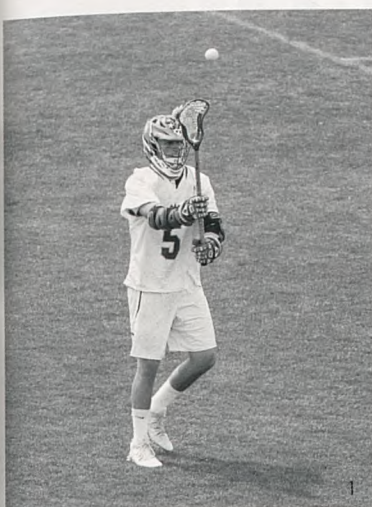

Big Red leaves it all on the mound

After a cold and frozen early spring, the 2015 Big Red Baseball team opened the season with the Irish of Father Ryan. MBA struggled in league play over the next few weeks before entering the Top Tenn Tournament at BGA and winning all four games against Page, Lexington, Dyer Co, and BGA. Despite the rough start, the Big Red refocused and finished the year with the sweep of cross-town rival, Ensworth. MBA then faced a rematch with Father Ryan in the first round of the playoffs. With inspired play, MBA took the series. As a result of its first round success, the Big Red traveled to Memphis to compete in the quarterfinals. Though defeated in Memphis, the Big Red showed heart and resilience as they wrapped up their season.

VARSITY LACROSSE

Bright Future Ahead for LAX

The 2015 Varsity Lacrosse team finished 13-6 with a schedule that was ranked the toughest in the state. The Big Red started the season 0-3 but rebounded to finish the season with a 11-2 run before the playoffs. The team introduced several new players this year as only a handful of starters returned from the 2014 team. Senior Austin Rolfe led the team in scoring and also served as captain on 2015 squad with goalie David Wise and attackman Benjamin Graves. Returning players such as Stephen Ray, Peter Briggs, Jackson Siktberg and Gabe Mendoza helped to anchor the defense. Freshmen attackmen Fenner Pollock and Harrison Graves ranked in the top three on the team in scoring while freshmen Gordon Pollock and sophomore Jacob Kovick started every game with the first midfield group. The future looks bright for the Big Red with key contributors returning throughout the lineup.

VARSITY SOCCER

Bringing Home a State Title

The 2015 MBA Varsity Soccer season was one for the ages. Throughout the 16 game season, the team had only one loss and had an average of .3 goals conceded per match, the lowest amongst all divisions in the state. In addition to the staggeringly low number of goals allowed, the Big Red also managed to score 75 goals, averaging roughly 4.7 goals per game. Some team highlights of the season were the 4-0 victory over Father Ryan, the 9-0 victory over Ensworth on Senior Night, avenging the lone loss against McCallie with a comeback victory in the State Semifinals, and the 3-0 victory over Christian Brothers in the State Championship game. Notable senior leadership was seen this season from co-captain Davis Luster, goalie Mac Mackey, Louis Brown, lead scorer Andrew Conwell, Curtis Turner, and Parks Ball. Other stand-out players this season included junior Will Emerson, 8th grader Luke Bernatavitz, junior Chase Meluch, and sophomores William Porter and Ellis Moore. Andrew Conwell was also named Player of the Year by The Tennessean and Coach Cheevers was awarded Coach of the Year. The team presented the State Championship to Mr. Gioia and the school at Awards Night.

VARSITY TENNIS

Harwell Wins State Title

With a youthful lineup that featured only two seniors and included an 8th grader in the top six, the 2015 Varsity Tennis team had a season of ups and downs. The team posted a .500 record, and enjoyed two good results in team tournament competition—finishing second in the Louisville St. Xavier Invitational and third in the Carter Invitational. The team rounded into form and finished the season on a strong note, sweeping Ensworth 7-0 and defeating Brentwood Academy 6-1. A 4-0 quarterfinal win over Briarcrest sent the Big Red to the semi-finals. A tough result against Baylor ended the team's post-season run.

While the team finished just short of the title, sophomores George Harwell and Ben Ramon also qualified for the TSSAA State Individual Tournament. Harwell played the draw and captured the Big Red's first individual State Title in more than two decades.

TRACK & FIELD

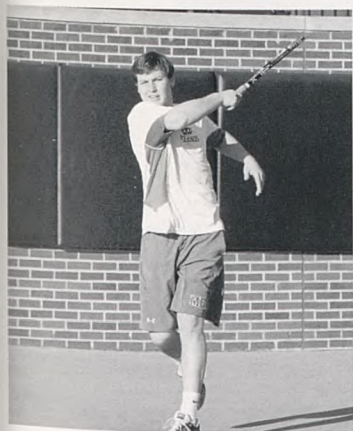

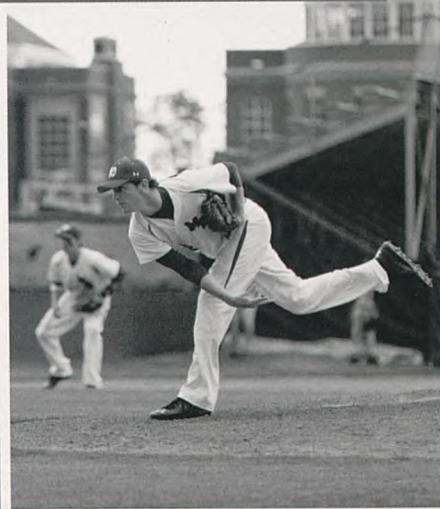

Big Red Sprints Ahead

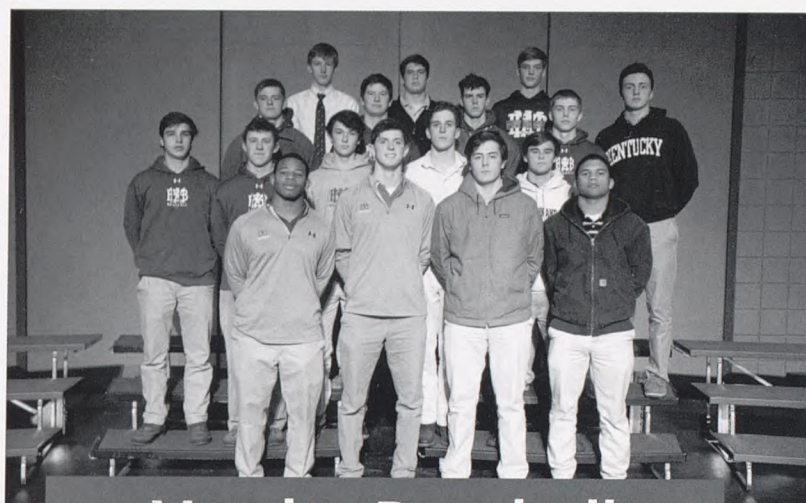

The 2015 edition of the Big Red Track & Field team was another success, improving on last year's state finish with a stirring come-from-behind surge in the last event to snatch Runner-Up in the state from three other teams. High points included continued excellence by the relay teams, hurdlers, and the distance corps, with significant improvements by the weight men and the sprinters. In the prestigious Vanderbilt Great Eight, Sam Carey ('15) won the pole vault with MBA's second best vault ever at 15'4", but suffered a season-ending injury. Carey's vault remained the best in state throughout the entire year. For the sixth year in a row, and the 12th time in the last 14 years, the Big Red handily won the City Championship with a solid team victory.

CLIMBING CLUB

Taking Boys to New Heights

This year's Climbing Club was led by Mr. Smyth and a young but dedicated group of climbers. They do all of their climbing at Climb Nashville. This year's highlights included a costumed climb during MBA's Spirit Week. This year several climbers reached new heights, learned new skills, and pushed themselves to try lead climbing. The group celebrated the end of the year in style watching Thomas DeRoche '18 finish third in Climb Nashville's speed climbing competition. It is worth mentioning that the two gentlemen who finished before Thomas were nine years older than him and certified ninja warriors...yes Ninja Warriors. This group has a bright future ahead of them with many new adventures in years to come.

State Champs Once Again

The Big Red entered the season the odds on favorite to win the state championship. The team's leadership was provided by the great batsman Ian Scholer and head coach Tim Boyd. In the state championship, Ian led the Big Red against Aaron Kaplan and the "other team." After the first over, the Big Red held a slight 26-19 lead over the "other team." In the second over, however, the Big Red's batsmen took over almost tripling the run total of the "other team." In the end, the Big Red lived up to the preseason hype and went on to win its fourth consecutive state championship.

TRAP & SKEET

Aiming for Victory

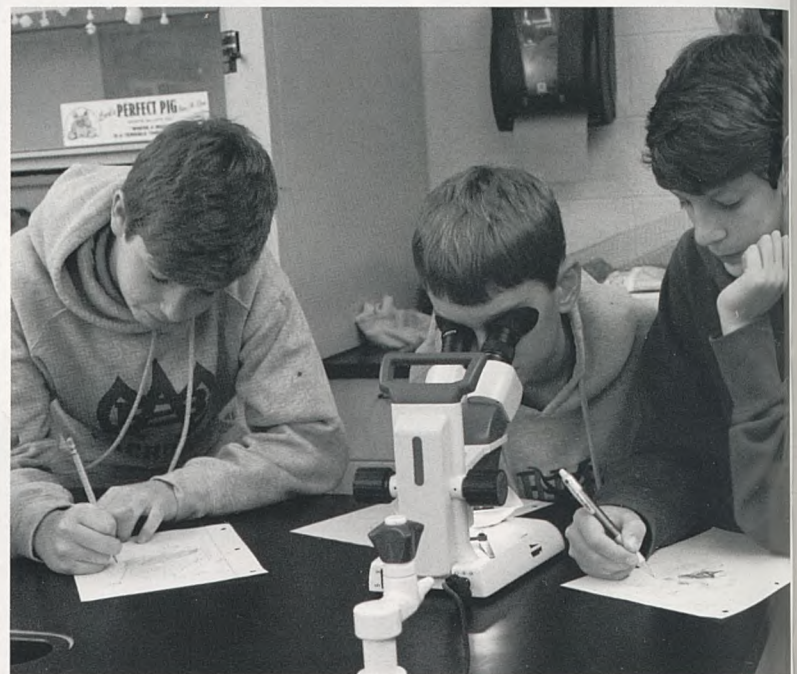

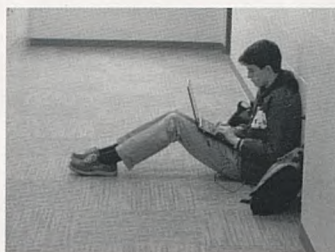

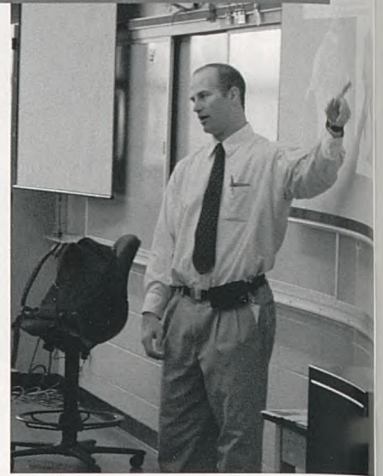

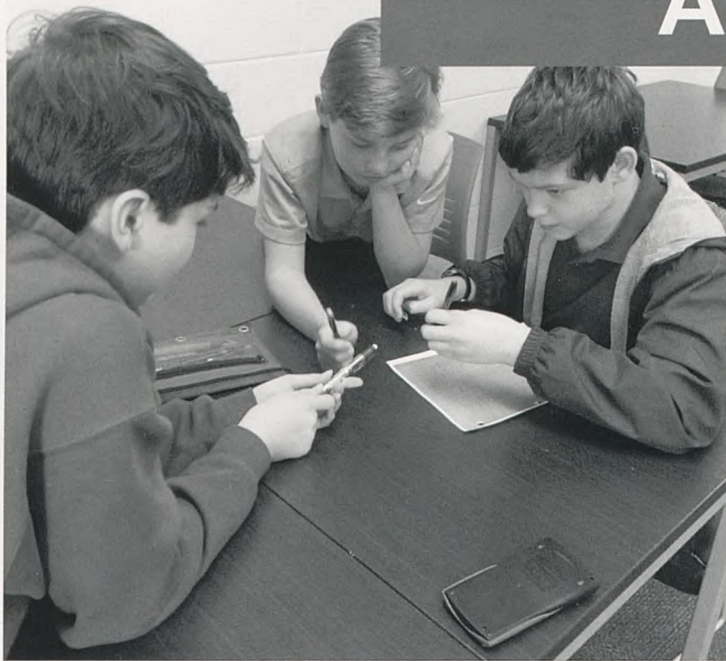

The 2015 MBA Trap & Skeet Team completed their second successful season, shooting this year as a varsity team with the Tennessee Scholastic Clay Target Program. Twenty-seven high school students competed, and several new school records were set during the season. The team improved each match and represented the Big Red well in the Region Championship on May 30th at the Montgomery County Shooting Complex and the State Championship on June 27th at the Nashville Gun Club, the team's home field. This season, thirteen shooters turned in twenty-three perfect rounds (25 straight) this season, a significant improvement over last season when only two shooters turned in a perfect round. The team high score was broken several times this year, and now sits at 453 which was shot at the state championship. Individual high scores were also broken several times over the season, and Brodie Poe '16 now holds the record with a 95 that he turned in at the state championship. The team had two shooters, Mark Floyd '16 and Sam Garrett '17, qualify to compete in the Junior Olympic Trap National Championship in Colorado Springs this July. With thirteen of the top fifteen shooters returning next season, the team is well positioned to accomplish even greater achievements next year.

ADMINISTRATION

Leading the Way

With Mr. Gioia at the helm, MBA continues to move forward with direction and purpose. The administrative team works both on and off campus to the benefit of the whole community. With Mrs. Stewart at the Junior School and Dr. Seay as the head of the high school this year was a fine example of the academic rigor and success for which MBA is known. Each area of the school has administrators making sure that everything runs smoothly from Advancement and Athletics to Discipline and Counseling the school relies on these heads to keep looking toward the future. This year marked a milestone as Mr. Gioia completed his twenty-first year as Headmaster and Dr. Seay wrapped up his tenth year and final year on The Hill. The MBA community wishes him well as he moves on to new endeavors.

This was Dr. Seay's last year as Head of the High School, but he couldn't get away without handing out some awards.

ADMISSIONS, ADVANCEMENT, & ALUMNI

Getting Students to The Hill and Keeping them Coming Back

The offices of Admissions, Advancement, and Alumni Relations are responsible for reaching out into the larger community and showing them all that life on The Hill has to offer. Events coordinated through these offices happen throughout the year. Some of the highlights include Admissions Preview Day, Grandparents' Day, Class Reunions, Celebrity Chef Dinners, and Homecoming. This year, the Advancement Office began a new tradition with Give Day during which supporters of the MBA mission were encouraged to donate via live tweets, Facebook updates, and video highlights of how donations make a difference at MBA. Each of these offices plays a critical role to the vitality of Montgomery Bell Academy.

Mr. Anderson keeps his umbrella on the ready during Grandparent's Day festivities; since the rain could not stay off campus the staff worked to keep visitors dry. 2. Mr. Martin gives prospective families all of the information they need to make an informed choice. 3. Mr. Ferrell and Mr. Davidson help guide families through the process during the interview days for prospective students. 4. Class reunions offer alumni the opportunity to come back to campus and see new things like the Dining Hall

Keeping MBA Competitive

The Athletics Department, led by Mr. O'Neal, works tirelessly to keep MBA students competitive through the wide range of sporting and training activities offered throughout the year. Each summer begins with summer workouts for most sports and training to keep students in shape and ready for their seasons. This year featured some great highlights including team State Championships in football and soccer as well as individual State Titles in swimming, wrestling, and tennis. Students also made it to junior Olympic qualifiers in the shooting sports which although a relatively young program it is one with great potential. Without the tireless efforts of all of the people who work in the Athletic Department students would not have the amazing opportunities to compete at the highest levels.

Mr. Thornsberry is always on call for the needs of the students including during Field Day. 5. Coach Lamb broke out the erg machines for Field Day this year.

COUNSELING

Helping Students Move Forward

The Counseling Office works on many facets of student life from day-to-day counseling needs to guiding students, and their parents, through the college application process. This year marked the last year for Mrs. Warner at the helm of the Counseling Office and her guidance and presence will be missed. Counseling opened its doors to the senior class in a new way through the addition of the Senior Lounge. This space allowed for members of the senior class to have a casual place to study, catch up with friends, or finish those college applications. The office also put on a number of workshops for juniors and seniors about the application process, writing a great essay, and the transition to college and financial independence. These types of life skills will serve students now and well into their future.

The Counseling Office also helps coordinate guest speakers and social awareness programs.

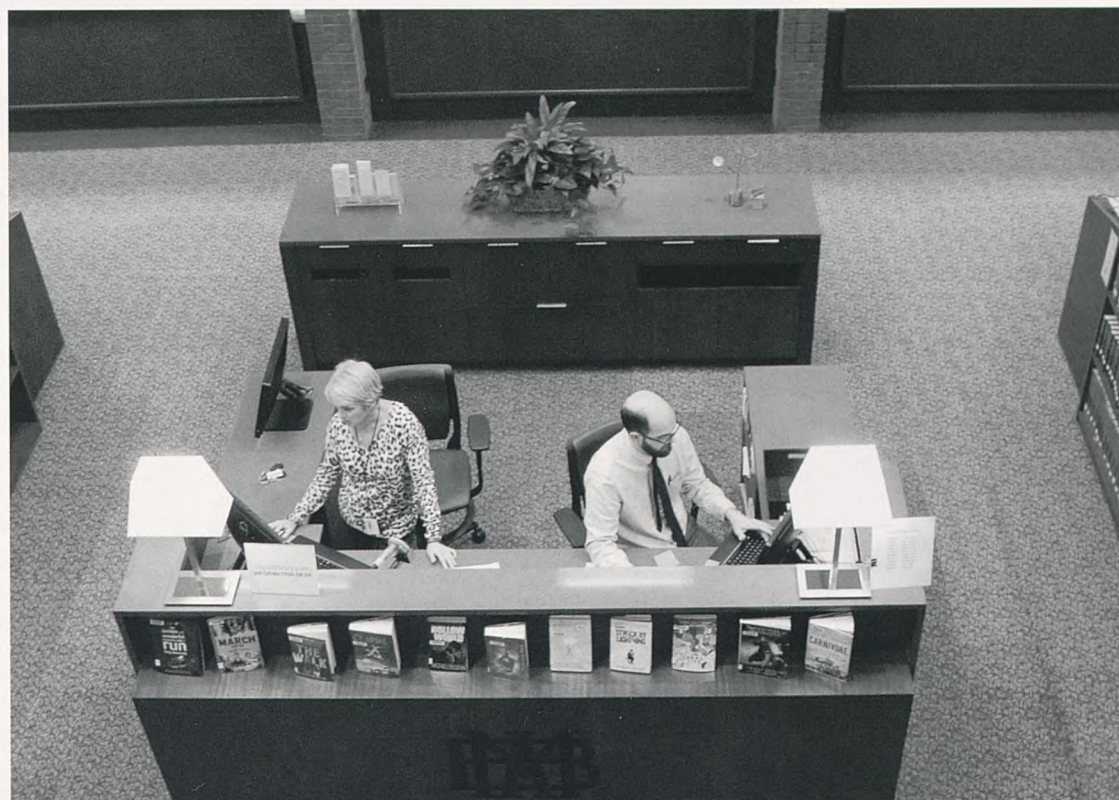

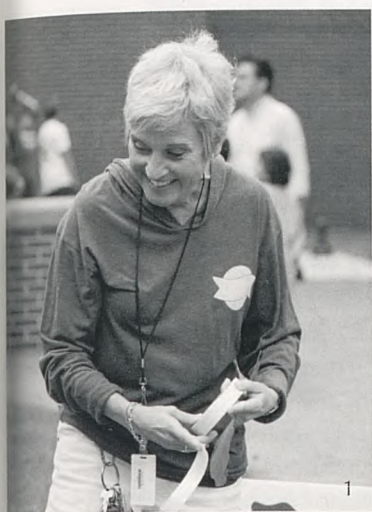

CAMPUS STAFF

Keeping MBA Running and Fed

From the first faces you see in the Main Office to all of people who work behind the scenes to keep MBA humming The Hill would not be the same without them. Each student and member of the community is thankful for their tireless efforts. This year the Junior School welcomed Ms. Jennifer Haendel to their staff following the retirement of Mrs. Snow. There were a number of new faces this year in the Facilities Department who keep campus running and looking great. The staff in the Dining Hall keep everyone on campus happy and well fed with the innumerable cookies, unending salads, and savory treats. Everyone was happy when Mr. Walsnovich returned to campus following his surgery. Since campus never fully shuts down it is great to know that the MBA community can always count on these great folks.

LIBRARY & TECHNOLOGY

Staying Plugged In and Dry

The Library and Technology Departments on campus continue to provide the community with the resources it enjoys in and out of the classroom. With the hard work of our faculty and updates to our technology and facilities, the variety of opportunities on The Hill to the next level. This year, the library experienced a new layout, designed to increase efficiency and accessibility, and burst pipe added a level of excitement to the Library this spring. The librarian kiosk now sits in the center of the bottom floor and allows students easy access to the invaluable expertise of Mrs. Klausner and Mr. Quinn. New iPad checkout stations across from the librarian desk has made checking items out easier than ever. On the technology front, among other constant under-the-radar improvements, MBA saw the advent of the now famous drone, a remote-controlled flying camera that has provided us with new perspectives, in the most literal sense, of our campus. The Technology Department and MBA lost a close friend and valued member of their staff with the sudden passing of Mr. Piggee this spring. It will be impossible to replace Mr. Piggee's engaging spirit and joyful outlook and he will be missed on The Hill.

1. Mrs. Klausner spreads her cheer outside of the confine of the library to the greater MBA community at the annual carnival. 2. Mr. Ardisson flies the drone around this year's activity fair. 3. John LaFranchise studies behind the glow of the library's fish tank. 4. Students were amazing during the "Great Flood" in helping to save, then sort, and finally reshelve the books. 5. Mr. Quinn checks in with students.

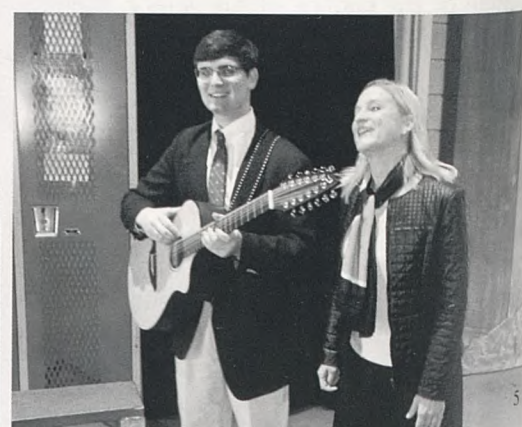

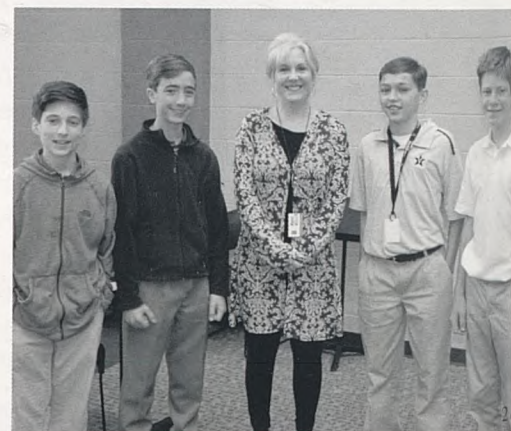

ENGLISH

Keeping MBA Well-Read

With this year's theme of Courage integrated seamlessly into everything from the summer reading to themes throughout the year students became better readers, writers, and thinkers through the process. MBA was lucky enough to welcome author Ruta Sepetys, whose book Between Shades of Gray was read by the whole community, to campus. She spoke eloquently to students and to the larger community about her story of discovering her story and encouraged others to discover their own history. The English Department welcomed Ms. Greenberg to their ranks as they also bid farewell to Dr. Batten after his thirty years of service to the students of MBA.

FOREIGN LANGUAGE

Understanding Language & Culture

This year was one of many changes in the Foreign Language Department with Mr. Paolicchi taking over as department chair and the addition of Dr. Rader, Mr. Trotter, and Ms. Warrick to the staff. The department's students continue to shine locally, nationally, and throughout the world. MBA's Foreign Language Department continues to bring national and regional recognition to the school through its participation in a variety of exams including the national language exams. This year there were a number of students who scored well including Chinese student William Richardson placing second at the Chinese Bridge Speech Contest in Boston, 77 percent of all students taking the National Latin Exam earning awards, in addition to awards in Spanish, French, and German. Also, through the generosity of the Wilson family MBA's language students were able to study language abroad. This year the Foreign Language Department also bids farewell to Ms. Christeson after twenty-nine years teaching at MBA.

The Hispanic Achievers ESL program continues to provide outreach to the Hispanic community. 5. This year marks the end of Ms. Christeson's time on The Hill and her presence will be missed.

HISTORY

Keeping Things in Perspective

The History Department continues to challenge students to think critically and work through the questions that history poses not just in terms of memorizing facts but to put events and people into a greater context. The department is lead by long time teacher Dr. Bailey and welcomed Mr. Garvey and Dr. Hardin this year. Students put their studies into practice through thoughtful research and analysis to "shape, inform, broaden, and challenge" their views. The department offers everything from Cultural Geography to AP Economics which keeps students engaged from grade seven through twelve. With the 150th anniversary of the Battles of Franklin and Nashville this year studies came to life through field trips and scholar visits to campus.

MATHEMATICS

Making Things Add Up

The Mathematics Department is headed by Mr. Golenor and welcomed two new faculty members this year with the addition of Mr. Cooper and Mr. Raney. The Mathematics Department focuses on building a strong foundation of math skills early in a student's career then allowing that student to continually challenge himself with more complex classes. Courses available to students range from Alegebra I through AP Calculus. MBA students also show their math skills through various competitions including the State Math Contest where students earned a number of recognitions including four Regional winners, Julian Haberman, Ray Lee, Tony Huang, and Tony Ding. These students along with many others through the MATHCOUNTS showed what it means to be a star Mathlete.

SCIENCE

Taking the Measure of Matter

This year welcomed Mr. Barclay as the new department head following Pete Carr's retirement last year. The department also welcomed new faces with the addition of Dr. Armstrong and Dr. Creamer, who took on classes in both the Junior School and High School. The department provides a traditional sequence of college preparatory courses and advanced placement that encompass all general areas of science. Students begin in Seventh grade with Introduction to Physical Science, or IPS, before moving on to other courses including Chemistry, Physics, Environmental Science, and Anatomy. This year also marked the implementation of the new AP Physics course content so students and teachers had the opportunity to experience this redesigned course. Mr. Pruitt was recognized as Outstanding Biology Teacher by OTBA and Dr. Creamer received the Distinguished Teacher Award from the Presidential Scholars Program

VISUAL & PERFORMING ARTS

Keeping it Creative

This year was a busy one for the Visual and Performing Arts. The theatre program welcomed playwright Nicholas A. Patricca as to the visiting artists program. MBA's production of Patricca's play, The Fifth Sun, traveled to Chattanooga to compete in the state competition where they received both cast and individual recognition. This was one of five productions taken on this school year along with Damn Yankees, The Overcoat, "Fifty Shades of Plays" and The Red Badge of Courage. The music program continued to shine during their many appearances at the scheduled concerts throughout the year, at various school events, assemblies and ceremonies, and even break-time concerts on the quad. Students from the music program also competed in a variety of state and regional competitions with great success. The visual arts department saw a number of changes with the upcoming renovation of the studio and art history classrooms as well as the departure of Mr. Schumacher to pursue his studio career. This year also saw the beginning of a new tradition with the Junior School showcase of the arts both fall and spring semesters.

FAREWELL & THANK YOU

The Hill Says Goodbye

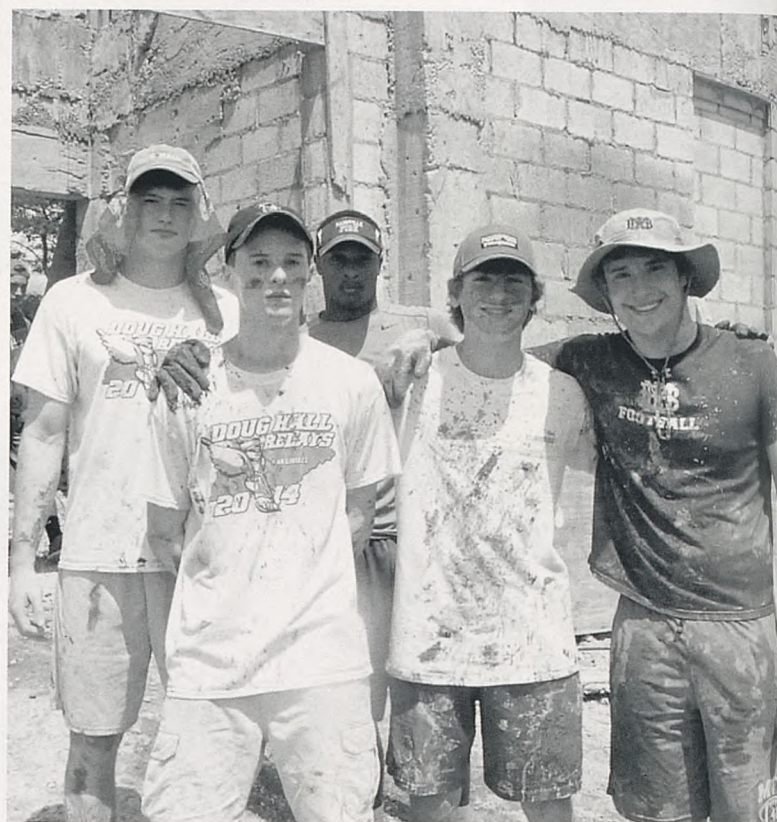

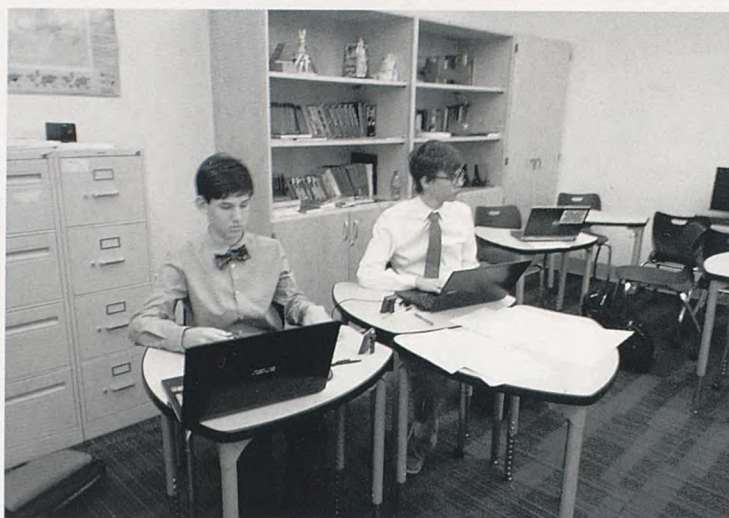

This year was one that included the retirement and moving on of some fixtures on MBA's campus. With a flurry of events and well-wishes MBA said goodbye to faculty and staff that each served on The Hill for at least ten years; Dr. Batten, Mrs. Christeson, Dr. Seay, and Mrs. Warner. Dr. Batten taught English and moderated Archives over the past thirty years. Mrs. Christeson has taught innumerable students as a part of the Foreign Language Department in addition to being a part of Cum Laude and Totemoi and the sponsor of a variety of different clubs and activities. Mrs. Warner has been the Director of Counseling Services and overseen the advisory program which is valued by students, parents, and faculty alike. Dr. Seay has served most recently as Head of High School but has also been a beloved member of the History Department and director of many of the productions in MBA's theatre. All of their presences will be missed for years to come but they are wished well in their new endeavors.

ACADEMIC COMPETITIONS

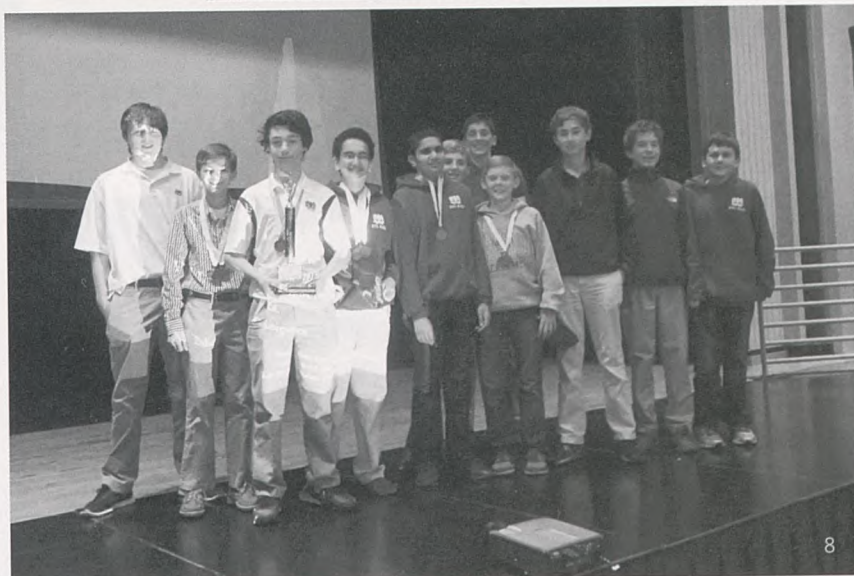

Another Successful Year

This year was another year of successes for the Mathcounts, Envirothon, and Science Olympiad teams at MBA. The MBA MathCounts team Won the state championship in 2015. This is Big Red MathCounts' 9th state championship in a 12 year span. For the individual, MBA 7th grader Baylor Sai was the overall winner with 8th graders Sam DeCoster, Nikhil Peterson, and Julian Habermann finishing 2nd, 6th and 7th respectively. Both Baylor and Sam qualified for the national competition in Boston in May. In the Countdown Round competition, Julian Habermann placed 2nd overall. Science Olympiad is an international nonprofit organization devoted to improving the quality of science education, increasing student interest in science and providing recognition for outstanding achievement in science education by both students and teachers. This year's team came in first in regionals and moved on to the state competition. Envirothon is a high school environmental team competition, with subject areas of Forestry, Aquatics, Soils, Wildlife and this year's special topic, Urban Forestry. MBA has fielded a competitive Envirothon team for 13 years with great success. The MBA Envirothon Team had a great year, with Team A and Team B finishing 1 and 2 in the Five Rivers regional competition on April 23rd, 2015. Team A advanced to the state competition in Crossville on May 13th and 14th, where they finished 2nd in the state. The team won the second day of competition, Team Presentation: Urban Forestry scenario, with one judge scoring their 10 minute presentation 198/200 points.

ACADEMIC INTERESTS

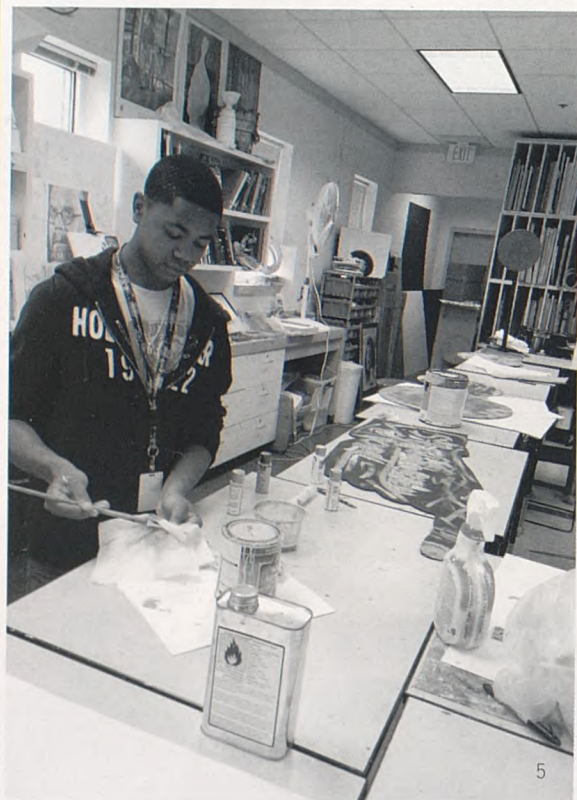

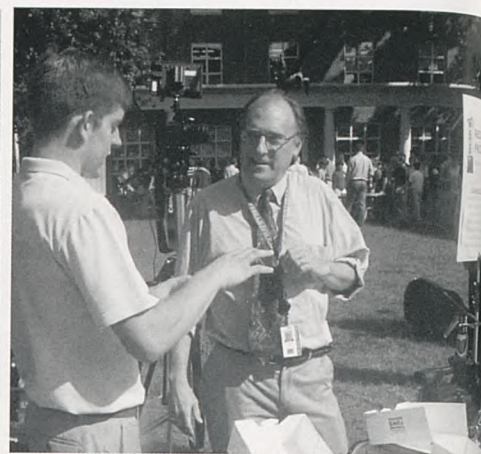

Bringing the Classroom to the real World

Interest in subjects developed first in class then grown through a myriad of clubs that take that classroom experience is one of the unique parts of the MBA experience. Every year a range of clubs are offered from Chess to History to Robotics in addition to all of the competitive clubs. The History Club, which focuses on the study of history through field trips, speaker programs, and service-oriented projects at historical sites, including Glen Leven and Fort Negley, was particularly active. Mr. Morrison took a group of students on a cultural exploration of London during Spring Break where they took in the sights, history, theatre, and food. The team uses experimentation, competition, guest speakers and field trips to learn about technology used in the design, construction and employment of robotics. The Philosophy Club met regularly throughout the year to discuss different ideas. Each of these clubs along with many others bring the classroom experiences to life.

CREATIVE FOCUS

Keep Making, Writing, Performing, and More After Class Ends

In addition to all of the classes offered through the Visual and Performing Arts Department students also have the opportunity to put their creative spirits to work by joining one of many creativity driven clubs. With everything from Songwriters Club, Red Tower Productions, Pickers Club, Endada, and the newly begun Broadcasting Club there is something for everyone's creative side. The Guitar Club worked with students to build their playing skills and also senior Si Deane, with the help of Mr. Reynolds, got to help fabricate a guitar from scratch. Through Pickers Club students learned the art of playing bluegrass and featured senior leadership at its helm. The students involved in Endada put on a great event in April full of music, art, and food. Students in the Thespian Club helped to put on great productions throughout the year in addition to doing service through events like Shakespeare-a-Thon. The Broadcasting Club was new on the scene this year and gave students real-world experience in broadcasting live sporting events. All of these clubs along with others give students another creative outlet on The Hill.

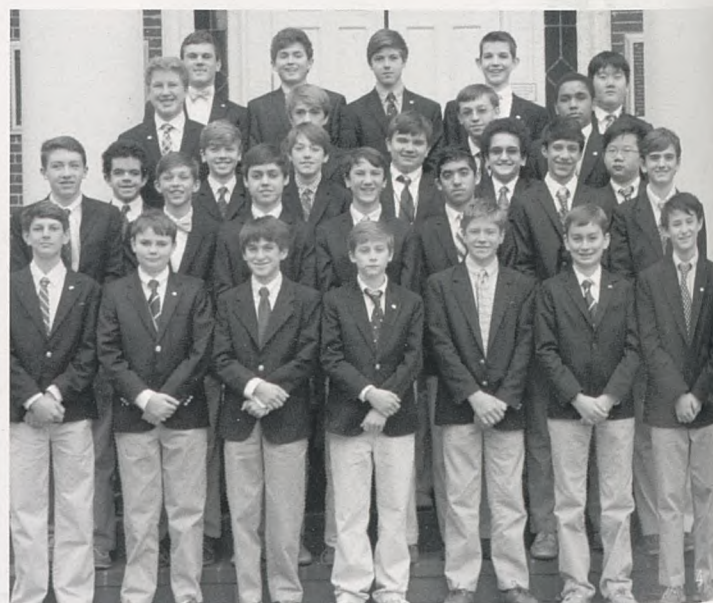

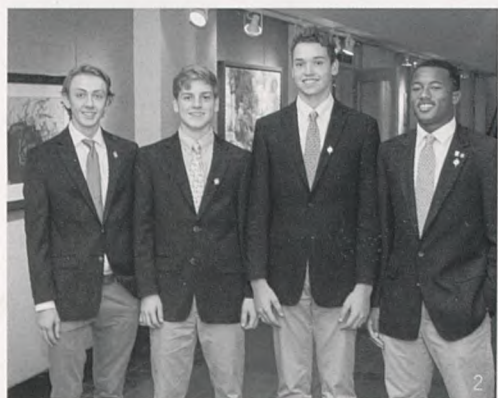

HONOR SOCIETIES

A Staple on the Hill

Every year, honor society inductions recognize the outstanding achievements and character of MBA's student body. This is done by selecting students who best exemplify the ideals of MBA and, more specifically, those of the aspects of the school which each society represents. Totomoi, whose induction ceremony is an enigma to many, is the highest honor available to the MBA community and celebrates active involvement on and off campus. Inductions for Totomoi are conducted two times each year. The MLK Society honors students who have committed themselves to service and putting the ideals of Martin Luther King Jr. into practice. Cum Laude recognizes the top academic performers in the junior and senior classes as well as recognizing faculty who were part of Cum Laude previously. This year, the MLK Society induction featured a candle lighting ceremony and guest speaker. Dr. Tim Boyd, incoming Academic Dean, headlined the Cum Laude ceremony with his customary wit and expertise.

LANGUAGE AND CULTURE

Broadening Horizons

In addition to the clubs which correspond to all of the languages offered at MBA, there are also a number of clubs that work to expand the knowledge and understanding of the larger community. Clubs like the African American Studies and MBAsian Cultural Club do events both on and off campus to raise awareness of diversity within MBA and the larger community. The Classics Club is comprised of current or former Latin and Greek students who meet and compete in regional, state, and national competitions. The Hispanic Achievers group works through a partnership with Paragon Mills Elementary, where each semester MBA boys design and teach two to three English Language courses for adult immigrants. In addition to these programs there is also a friendly soccer tournament each year which encourages students to play for the teams whose language they study for MBA's own World Language Soccer Cup.

STUDENT LEADERSHIP

Creating a Path for Others

Leadership comes in many forms in life and The Hill is no exception. Although all boys on at MBA are encouraged to be strong leaders there are some specific programs and opportunities for leadership. Student Council is often at the forefront of student life through the events they coordinate including Homecoming, class fundraisers, and this year's big new event, Field Day. The Honor Council serves as the review council for Honor Code infractions and includes representatives from each grade level. There are also the LEAD program which consists of quarterly speeches on various topics of leadership such as communication, vision, organization and ethical leadership. The Duke of Edinburgh program awards students for taking on different leadership roles and continuing to build their skills while giving back to their community. Throughout the year students involved in leadership have retreats, formal meetings, and informal gatherings to make the most of the MBA experience for their peers.

MOCK TRIAL & DEBATE

MBA Knows How to Present a Case and Win

The Big Red Debate team capped off a tremendous year in Atlanta in March as the Novice and JV teams placed first and third respectively at the National Championships. Rosenthal was named the Top Speaker of the Second-year division while Jameson was the ninth place individual speaker. Freshmen Jack Capizzi and Ben Jablonski won the National Championship in first year policy debate at Woodward Academy in Atlanta. These amazing results in Atlanta, however, weren't the only successes of the semester. At Samford University's Bishop Guild Invitational in January, the team succeeded in both the novice and varsity division. In late January, the squad sent three teams to the Barkley Forum Invitational at Emory University, the most Varsity teams that MBA has sent in the last decade. With strong showings at the Pinecrest Varsity Round Robin and Novice Round-Up in February and March the team was poised for success. Lastly, in June, MBA 8th graders Atticus Glen and Julian Habermann finished first against a field of teams from 30 states and 5 countries in the Middle School Debate National Championship hosted by the National Speech and Debate Organization in Dallas, TX.

The mock trial program continued its string of success under head coach Wade Cowan, this year assisted by first-year faculty member but veteran mock trial coach Michael Stewart. After taking home its fifth consecutive District Championship, the team, comprised of seniors Clay Andreen, Kang Huh, Aaron Kaplan, and Jess Darnell; juniors Cole Campbell and Andy Zhu; sophomores John Cooper and Andrew Kaplan; and freshman Daniel Cowan, fell short of their State Championship goal at a memorable state competition. Among many highlights was Quinn Rex's display of dolphin-speak language proficiency.

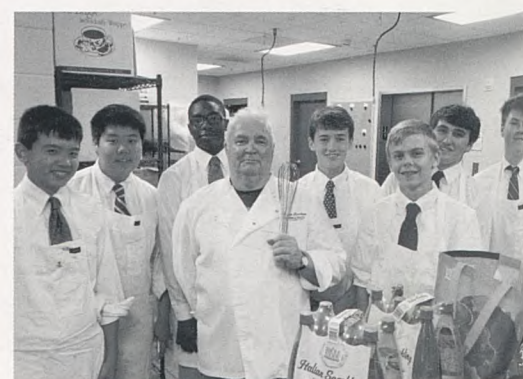

PERSONAL INTEREST

Finding the Perfect Club

With clubs that range from food to politics to rock climbing a student at MBA is bound to find something of interest, if not two or three. This year the Food Club with Mr. Morrison was particularly active by providing Last Saturday meals to those in need and also creating the Sam Widges food stand at the Endada festival. The Stock Market Club met regularly all year to engage and compete in Stock Market games and scenarios with students from high schools across the state. The JAG, Jewish Advisory Club, met at various times throughout the year to plan activities and discuss recent events. .H.A.N.C. MBA's Health and Nutrition Club keeps everyone aware of the food choices we make and how food impacts the body. FCA, the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, also has regular meetings with groups from other school and this year held a retreat at Long Mountain. These clubs along with many others reached out to the address each student's area of interest so he can make the most of his high school experience.

PUBLICATIONS

Milestone Year

It was a memorable year for publications on The Hill. Dr. Batten oversaw his last release of the Archives, complete with poems, stories, and art by MBA students. The Bell Ringer reached new heights by launching its own website (www.thebellringer.org), for which it received the Tennessee High School Press Association's Best Website recognition. In the overall newspaper category, The Bell Ringer laid claim to a Superior Rating and Honorable Mention. The staff was proud to release papers featuring a wide range of topics, including homeless newspaper vendors, athletic rivalry coverage, and local Nashville attractions. The Bell has made great efforts to modernize an age-old tradition by implementing new layouts, student spotlights, and more. With the help of Mrs. Roberts Top of the Hill, the Junior School's newspaper, had another great year of publications that highlighted life from Massey.

SERVICE & SUSTAINABILITY

Giving Back to Others

MBA has so many ways to give back to the surrounding community and the world and students take full advantage of these opportunities. Service to others is one of the cornerstones of the MBA community through groups like the Service Club, Preston Taylor Tutoring, and Best Buddies as well as opportunities to give back through other events. Starting in the fall students give of their time once a month to prepare meals at Loaves and Fishes as well as through the Last Saturday meal program. Students also weekly attend the Preston Taylor Tutoring sessions which do more than tutor, they provide mentorship and friendship to younger students in need. There are also events like the Shakespeare-a-thon, Race for the Cure, Canine Companions, and the annual service trip to the Dominican Republic that keep service at the forefront of MBA.

ACTIVITIES

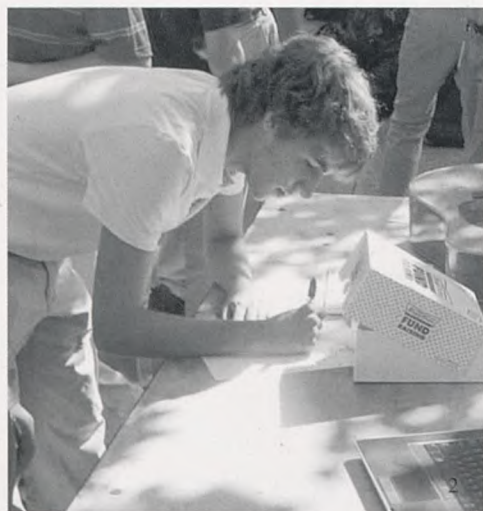

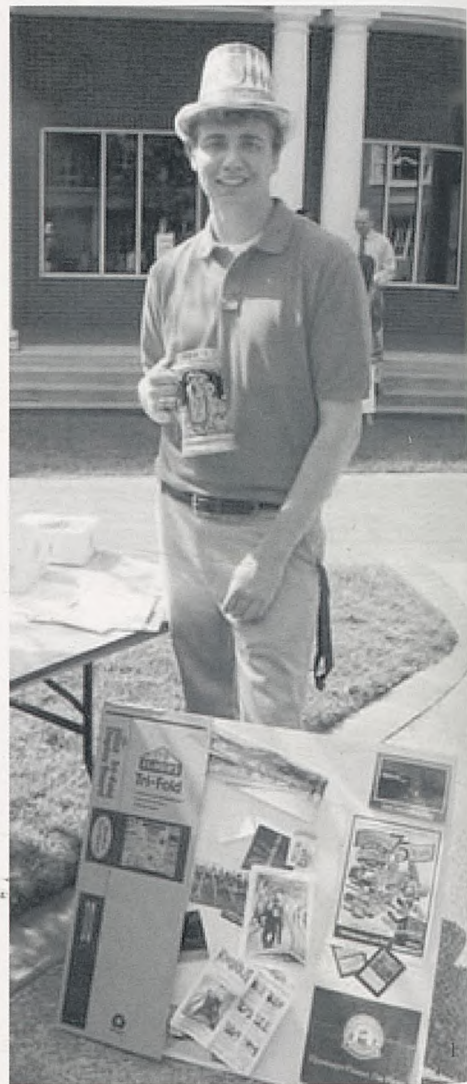

ACTIVITY FAIR

Choosing How to Spend Your Time

This year's Activity Fair was held over bright blue skies on August 20th. This event allows for more than just free donuts but allows students the opportunity to sign up for any club or activity that sparks their interest. MBA has a range of clubs from guitar to cricket and climbing; there is bound to be something that strikes a student's interests. This year featured some new clubs that were trying to drum up business including Swing Club and Broadcasting. Once students put their name down and eat their donuts it is then up to them to attend meetings, organize events and make the most out of these experiences that are offered to them.

CARNIVAL

It's All Fun and Games

The threat of rain did not deter the MBA community from attending the Carnival this year. Each year MBA welcomes families and friends from the community to campus for an evening of fun. The variety of activities available kept kids of all ages occupied throughout the evening. The activities included face painting, a variety of tosses, pony rides, basketball, intellectual guessing games, and the fishing pond among many others. The most popular activity, however, remained the dunk tank. Accompanying the activities were a wide variety of music and food options. These included student and alumni groups performing and even Zero the Clown made an appearance. All of the festivities culminated in the Varsity Football game that night under the lights.

HOMECOMING WEEKEND

Pasta, Puppies, & Pigskins

A rain delay of epic proportions –2 hours!!– did not keep homecoming weekend from being a huge success. With a dramatic 21-17 football victory against Father Ryan, a gnarly beach-themed homecoming, and yet another top-notch Spaghetti Supper, the campus culture could not have been more vibrant.

Mothers Mary Kay Hunt and Lauren Luster spear-headed an exciting ticket-selling campaign leading up to the Supper. Every assembly, these mothers brought incredible energy, as well as incredible videos, in order to get students to SELL SELL SELL their tickets. Students were also treated to amazing baked goods at the annual bake sale in the gym. The week of fun included the exciting pep rally on Friday and the Spaghetti Supper to get the crowd hype for the game that night.

DINING WITH FAMILY

Father Son Dinner & Mother Son Breakfast

Two times each year the students of MBA gather with their parents to honor those that have done so much for them. On March 10, 2015, the gym was filled to the brim with students and their fathers for the annual Father Son Dinner. This year featured comments from six seniors about their relationships with their dads. The evening also featured music from the Jazz Band, Ellington Band, and Chorus, as well as a key note address from author Mitch Albom. On the morning of April 29th students again gathered this time to honor their mothers and all that they provide. Speakers again included seniors telling the audience about their wonderful parents. Students and their mothers were then treated to the musings of New Yorker cartoonist Roz Chast. Both of these events highlight the important role that parents play in the lives of their sons and the lasting impact they have on their past, present, and future.

LONG MOUNTAIN

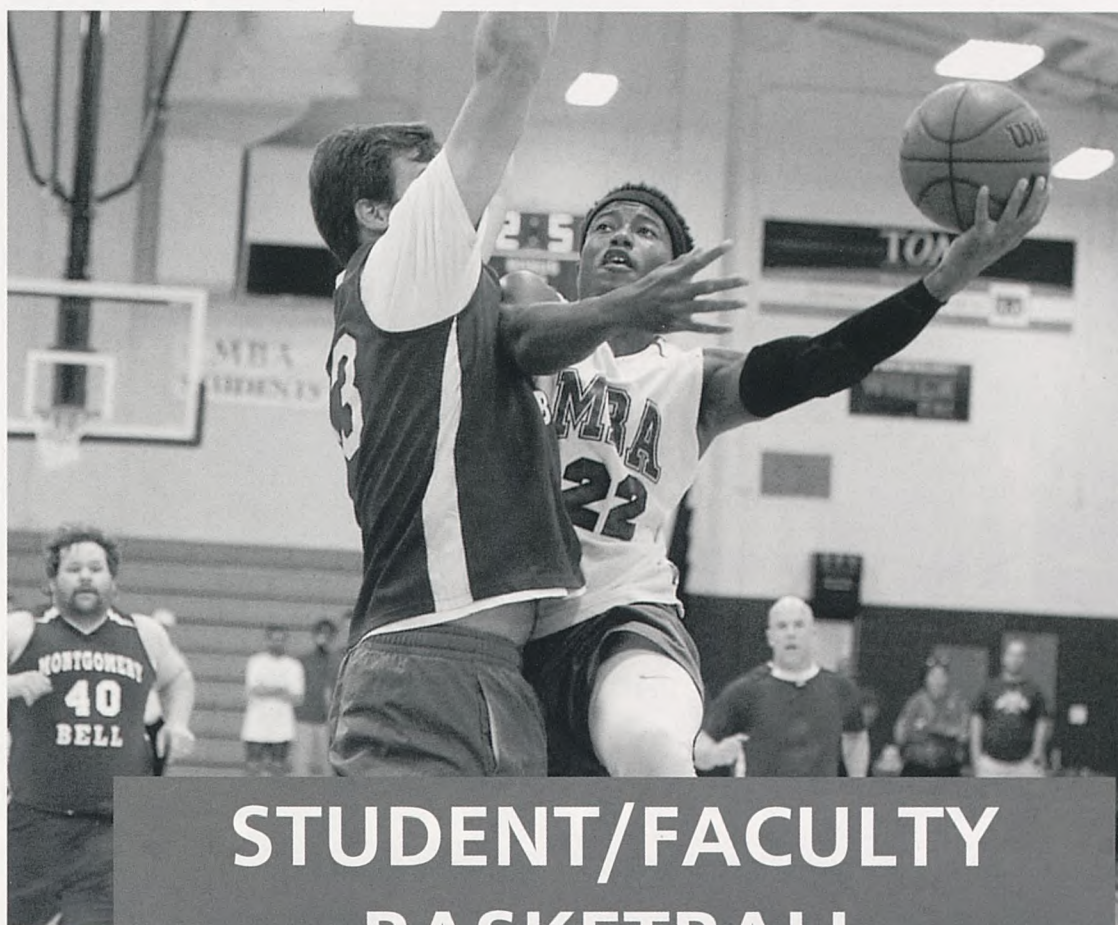

Enjoying all that Nature Offers

Located a few hours from MBA's main campus, the Long Mountain property allows students to enjoy the great outdoors while building community and their teamwork in various activities. In the beginning of the year, before classes even began, students in leadership roles attended a retreat which allowed them to problem solve and work together by doing a series of challenges. Students again attended a leadership retreat later in the year to reconnect these principles of teamwork and trust. The Long Mountain facility also hosted a series of overnight camping trips including the Father Son Campout, LEAD, and DOEA. Students also were about take advantage of the observatory to learn more about our place in the solar system and the science of the stars.

With snow on the ground, this father-son pair attempts to balance themselves as they get farther and farther apart moving down the tightrope wire. 3. Students put in some landscaping efforts on the scenic Long Mountain property. 4. Long Mountain is the perfect place to relax with friends in a hammock. 5. To the fascination of onlookers, these two students demonstrate strong communication and balance skills on the low ropes during the Leadership Retreat.

STUDENT/FACULTY BASKETBALL

The Students' Revenge... for a Good Cause

This year's Student vs. Faculty basketball game again benefited Thistle Farms, a group that helps local women recover from rough times in their lives. The game this year featured some of the most heart-pounding action the game has seen in recent years. Led by powerhouse Jermaine Francis, the senior team battled hard with the faculty and took them to overtime before sealing the deal and emerging victorious. Of course, the evening included much more than just basketball. Advisory pledges contributed to a night of wacky events, including Mr. Calico's dramatic Top Gun gym entrance and a light-saber battle on the court during halftime.

Feature Image. Jermaine Francis goes for a lay-up against Mr. Davidson. 1. Mrs. Quan makes a pass early in the game. 2. Coach Anglin puts up a free throw. 3. Halftime allows for many antics including this light saber battle between the forces of good and evil. 4. Mr. Calico makes his Top Gun style entrance before the game. 5. Richard Thornton again challenging the inpetriable Mr. Davidson.

FIELD DAY

Starting a New Tradition

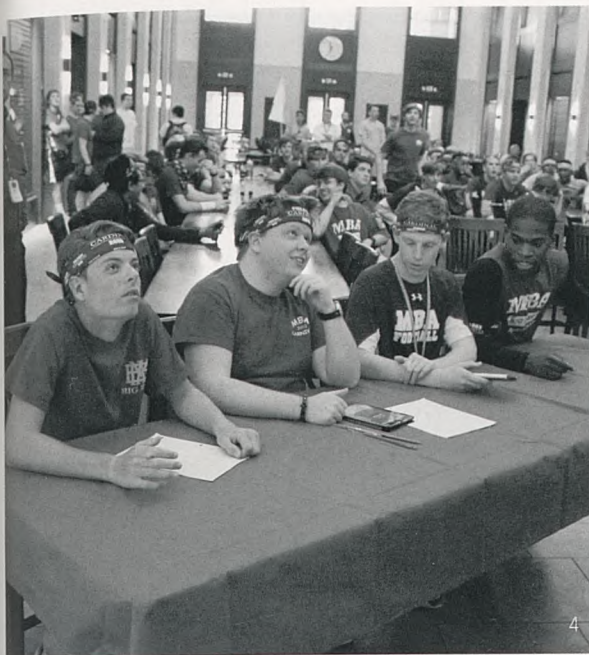

Late in the Spring of 2014, Cole Jones ('15), Trevor Patton ('15), and Richard Thornton ('15) asked Mr. Gioia for a field day that had been promised in countless student body president speeches. The year-long planning process began and would be much more difficult than any of the group could have imagined. In the ensuing fall and spring, the group created the teams, Cardinal and Silver, using a random number generator and set the schedule of events. After a half day of school, the student body went to the theater for a performance of Heartless by The Hill Singers and an Improv competition. Next the student body headed to academic competitions and athletic events including tennis, football, soccer, basketball, ultimate frisbee, pull-ups, and weight-lifting. At the end of the day, the students gathered at Tommy Owen Stadium to watch the final events: relay races and a tug of war. Standing in the middle of a circle of 750 eager students, Mr. Gioia announced Team Silver as the winner.

Richard Thornton, Class of 2015

Field Day highlighted the strength and excellence of the MBA community. By incorporating music, Improv, academics, and athletics, every student had an opportunity to showcase their talents. In addition, the event was only possible because of the collective efforts of the faculty, staff, and students. I believe that Field Day will become a great MBA tradition.

Heyward Rogers, Class of 2015

The birth of Ultimate as a field day game coincides directly with the birth of our country. Around 1776, Ultimate got its start in humble beginnings. Unlike 1776, we have avoided revolution and compromised with the administration in the form of Field Day on this most hallowed ground. Though Cardinal miraculously overcame the more technically sound Silver Squad in Senior Ultimate; I was honored to be a part of this monumental and historic occasion.

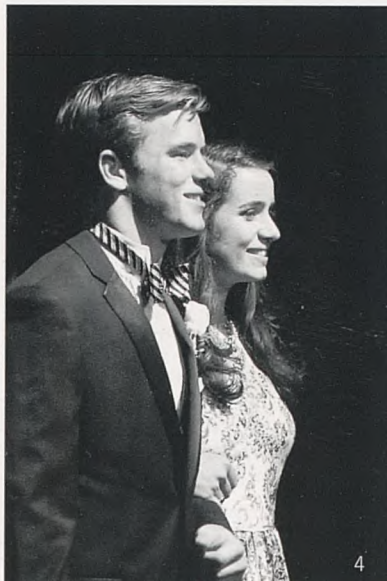

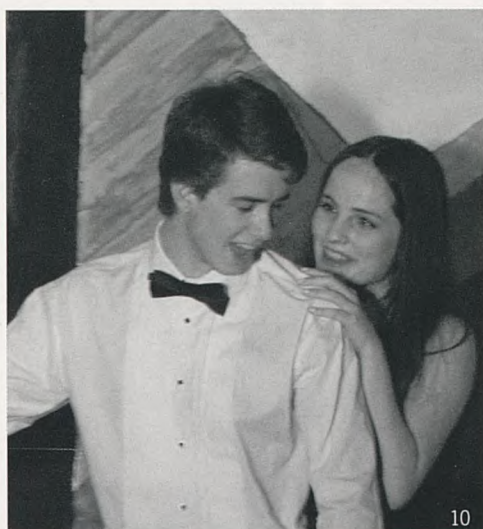

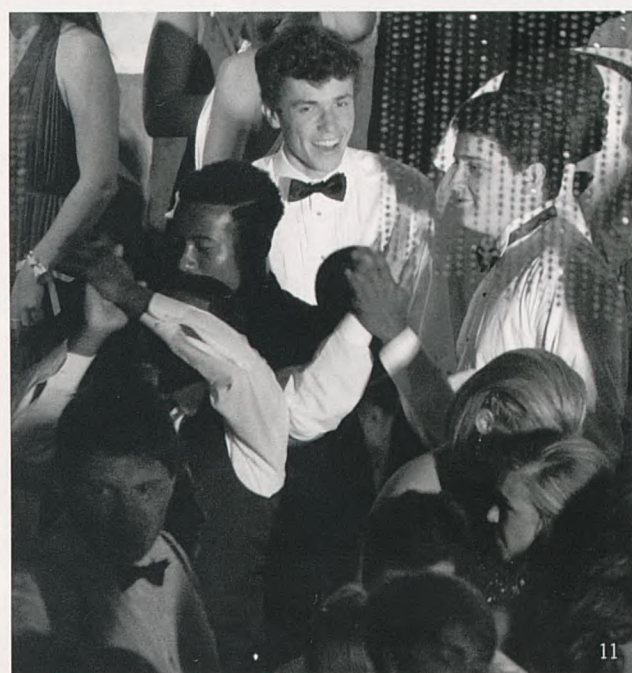

Feature Image. The victorious Silver Team raises the ceremonial silver flag. 1. Teammates cheering on Alec Vest as he rows. 2. Sam Carey represents the senior class in a game of ultimate frisbee. 3. Members of the Cardinal and Silver Team fight to the end in a game of soccer. 4. Anderson Bruehl, Harry Stewart, John Triplet, and Akeim George use their brains in a strenuous academic competition. 5. A member of Team Cardinal races to the finish line at the conclusion of Field Day. 6. The senior class engages in a strenuous game of Tug-of-War. 7. Andrew Falls prepares to throw a frisbee during an intense game of Ultimate. 8. Jackson Maradik, Liam Jameson, Andre Kaplan, Will Hansen, and Jacob Kovick put their skills to the test in a tense academic showdown.

JUNIOR & SENIOR PROM

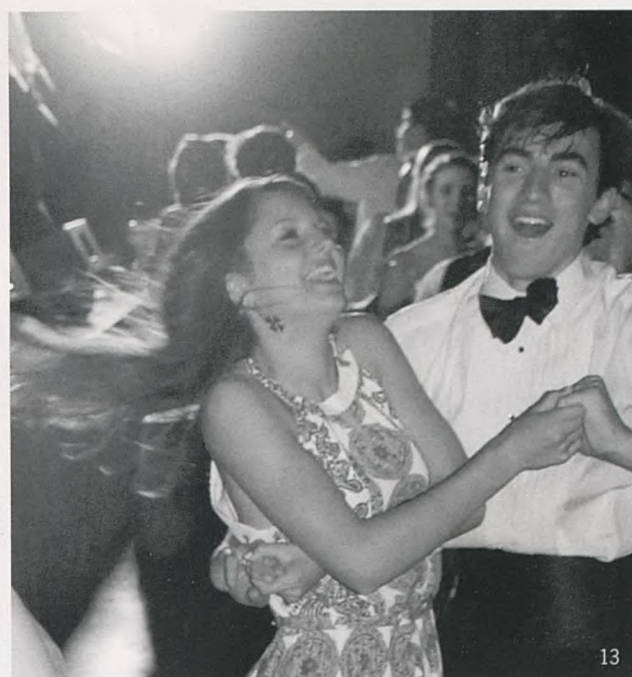

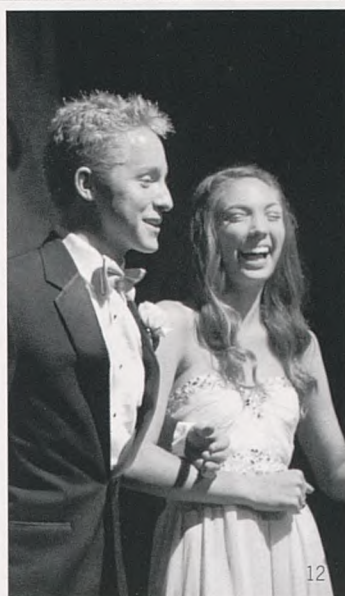

Dancing the Night Away

For the majority of Juniors and Seniors, prom is one of the most memorable moments on the Hill. Each year, the Junior class is in charge of choosing a theme and coordinating the band, dinner, and decorations. This year, the theme was focused on the Avengers. The Senior class started off the night with a formal dinner in the campus dining hall. Next, the seniors and their dates headed to the theater for presentation. Posing in front of an impressive Avengers arch designed by Mr. Morrison, the class of 2015 and their dates were a sight to behold. The juniors arrived after presentation, ready to dance the night away to an impressive, multi-piece band. Overall, prom was an overwhelming success that will be remembered by upper school students for many years to come.

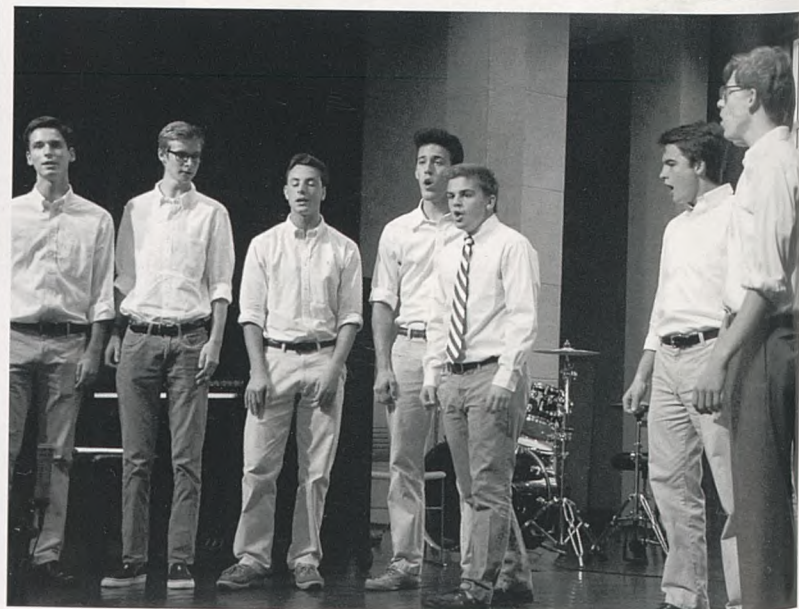

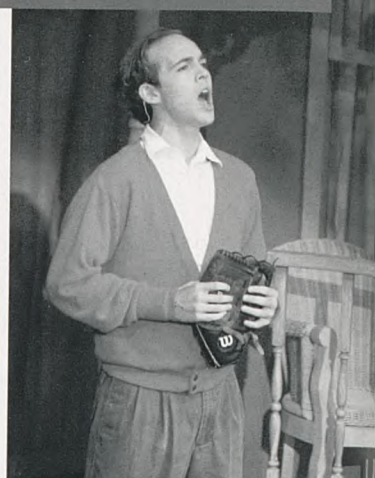

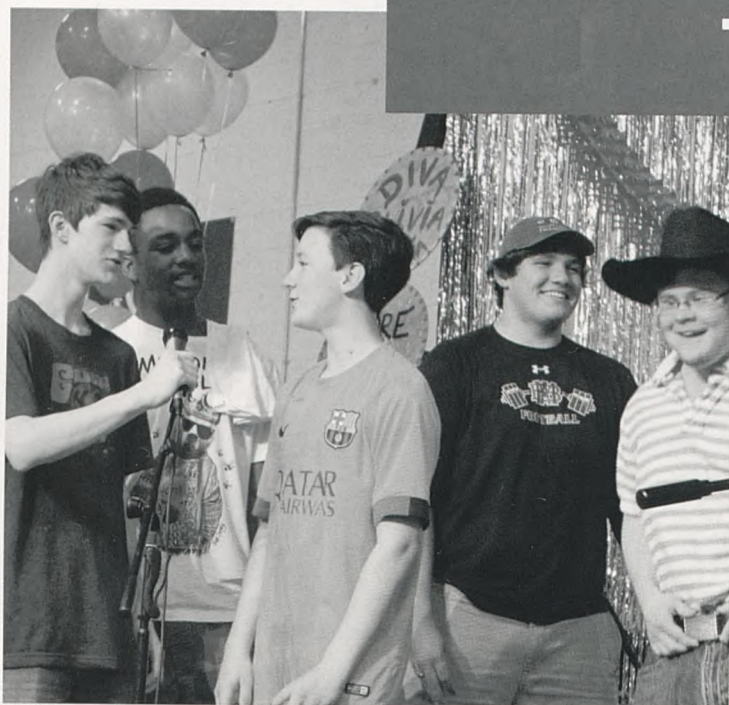

Feature Image. The crowd enjoyed the throw-back sounds of this year's band. 1. Seniors Haynes Young and Ethan Yappen dance the night away. 2. Aaron Kaplan, Reid Parker, Bill Leftwich, Jack Goodrum, and John Tipps pose before the senior dinner. 3. Louis Brown and Haynes Young showcase their dancing abilities. 4. Cole Euverard and his date smile for the cameras at presentation. 5. Senior Chad Mitchell and date walk through this year's one-of-a-kind Avengers themed arch. 6. Harrison Wheeler and date dance to the spectacular live band. 7. John Triplet, joined by senior classmates, sings to the crowd below. 8. Kang Huh joins the band on stage for one of the evening's more memorable moments. 9. Not even a little sweat can keep Ethan Yappen from having a good time. 10. Trice McCullar and his date are all smiles. 11. Geoffrey Holland and Parker Logan watch senior classmates dancing away. 12. Grant Myers and his date laugh as they are presented to the crowd. 13. Haynes Young and his date practice their swing moves.

THE ARTS

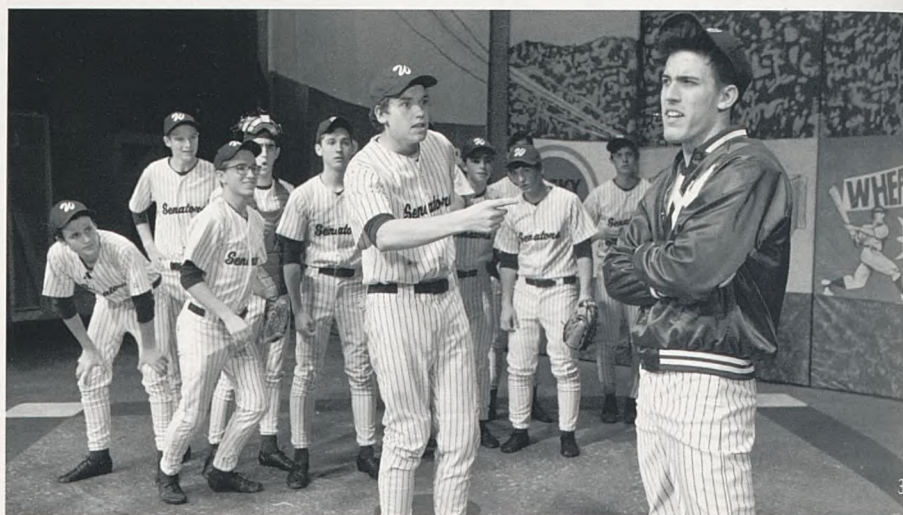

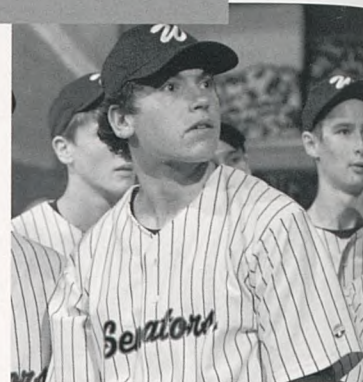

Feature Image. The cast and crew began the production of Damn Yankees over the summer to be ready for their August debut. 1. The Senators showed off their high kicks in this entertaining number. 2. Director Dr. Fuller gives the cast notes after each rehearsal and performance so the students can do their best. 3. Henry Rogers '15 approaches the Senator's manager played by Andrew Porter '15 in this scene.

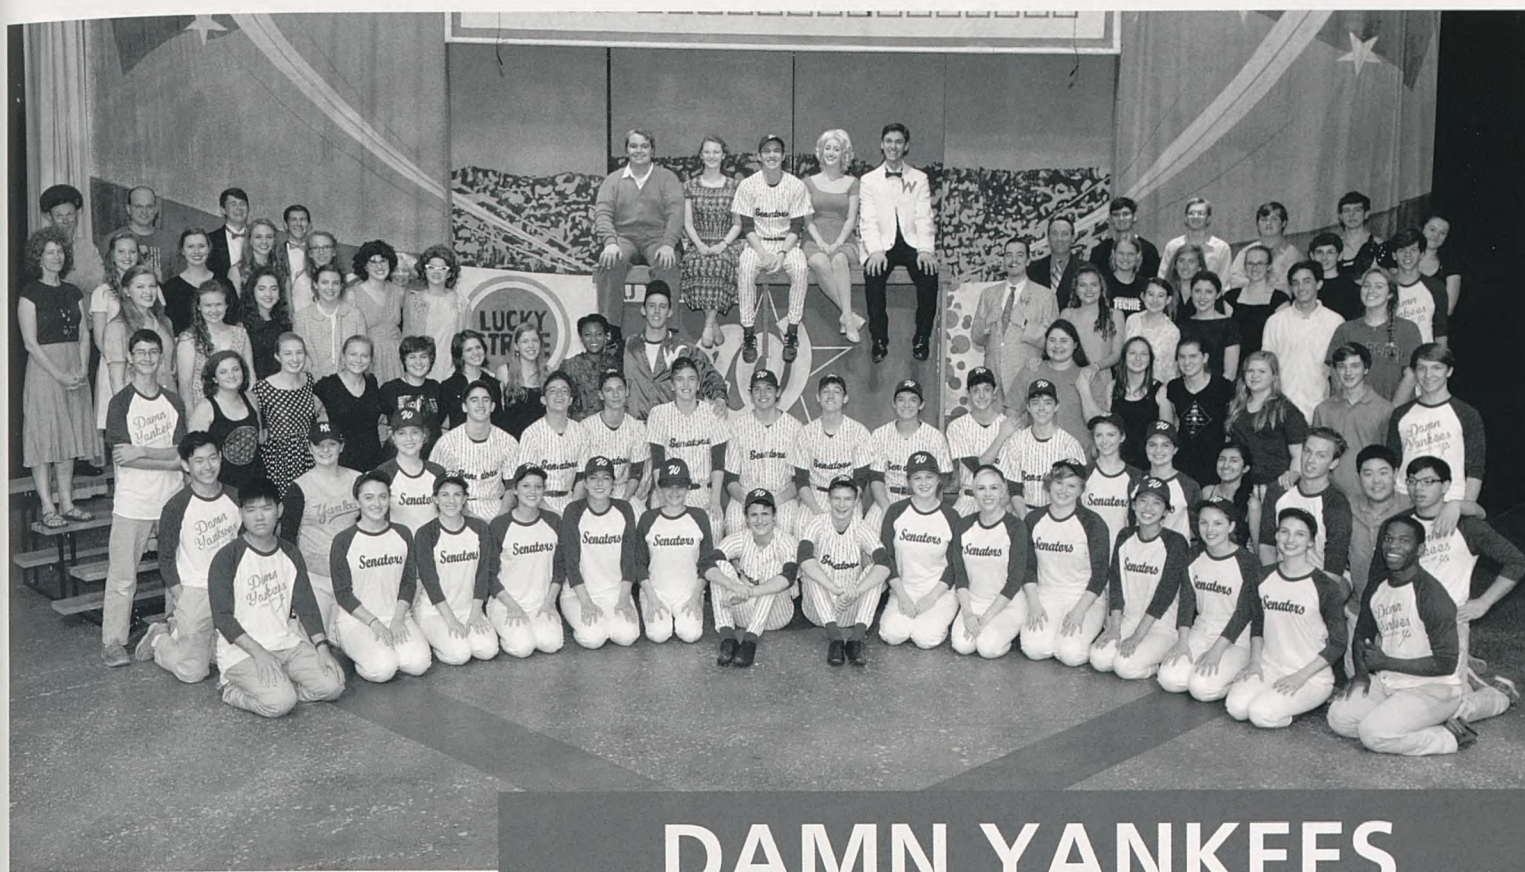

Henry Rogers, Class of 2015

My favorite memory from this how was playing baseball in our free time. Whenever we had a little break or some down time, we always threw around in the the quad. We played with the same gloves and balls that we used for the actual show. We called it "character research. Being on the baseball team was one of my favorite roles of all time. Even though it was a small role, the team collectively played a huge part. We controlled the levels of energy throughout the performance. When we were hyped up, so was the audience.

4. Crew members make the production run smoothly from moving sets to lighting and sound. 5. Jack Duke '15 became the ultimate baseball player as the alter ego for James Matthews' '15 character. 6. Jess Darnell '15 as the Devil sells James Matthews' character on wagering his soul for a chance to play the field for the Senators. 7. What would a musical be without some amazing song and dance routines including this one with the devilish Jess Darnell '15.

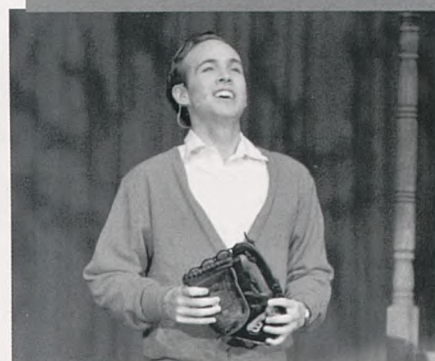

DAMN YANKEES

A Performace With Heart

Actors at MBA and Harpeth Hall returned to school at the end of July to begin working on the seventeenth musical collaboration—Damn Yankees. Light, fast-paced and devilishly clever, Damn Yankees was a home-run hit with four sold-out performances beginning with a Thursday evening performance and continuing through Sunday, August 30th. The musical tells the story of a middle-aged baseball fanatic who is willing to sell his soul for the chance to lead his favorite team to the World Series. Director Cal Fuller praised the cast and crew: "We have been blessed with a very bright, creative, and hard-working crew. They understand that theater is a collaborative art wherein we unite together as a team or we fall apart. They know that if we don't have the 'heart' to take care of our teammates and support each other throughout, we won't triumph on opening night or in life." One of the special highlights of the rehearsals and performances.

Jack Duke, Class of 2015

My favorite memory from this production has to be the camaraderie that was evident in the baseball team, the chemistry that we had to pull of the show was amazing. Also we got to meet the cast from the first time MBA did this show 14 years ago....it was cool seeing them in person before we performed it ourselves. My favorite part about my character was kind of a strange one. I was not truly a real person but the devils creation of Joe Boyd's (James Matthews) ideal baseball persona. This was a fun part to play because of this and because I was supposed to be a near perfect baseball player and I could have anything I wanted, however his loyalty and love for his wife pierce through all of this external distractions and help me return to her in the end.

SERVANT OF TWO MASTERS

MBA's Fall Play

On November 20-23, the MBA Players presented Carlo Goldoni's comic classic The Servant of Two Masters. It all begins in the Venetian house of Pantalone where an engagement party is underway. Mistaken identities, big appetites, and happy endings made the performances delightful with standing-room-only crowds! According to Director Cal Fuller, "My cast and crew have embraced the characters and the commedia dell'arte style of the show from the beginning. They amaze me with their talent and initiative. I'm especially pleased that they really take chances and make me laugh. What a gift!"

James Matthews, Class of 2015

Our production was a very improv-driven one, and we were encouraged to come up with our own jokes and references on the spot. One in particular was right after the cane fight between my character and Henry's. I was supposed to simply leave silently, but instead I misquoted John McClane's famous line from Die Hard: "Yippie-kai-yay, Pantalone." My character was supposed to be some sort of idiotic doctor who was constantly spouting famous quotes in broken Latin. This gave me the opportunity to replace these lesser known phrases with more contemporary jokes.

Lead Image. In this pivotal scene Neal Hawkins '15 vies for the affection of his true love. 1. Jess Darnell '15 plays the servant brilliantly while juggling two masters. 2. Henry Rogers '15 stares down Jess for failing to deliver a package 3. James Matthews '15 and Henry Rogers '15 pleading for Eliza Trost to marry thier daughter. 4.The three chefs poke their heads out to make sure dinner is served. 5. The actors resting beforethe big performance. 6. Daniel Mainard '15 and Jess describing the elegant spread for the evening. 7. ELiza Trost nearly reveals her true identity to the world. 8. Donny Abel '15 works up the courage to profess his love for Summer 9. Jess meets the love of his life!

Neal Hawkins, Class of 2015

The thing I liked the most about it was the show was different every night. There was improv throughout the show so it stayed funny even to the actors that had seen it so many times.

FIFTH SUN

Archbishop Romero's Life on MBA's Stage

On October 24, MBA's production of Nick Patricca's play, The Fifth Sun, came in second-place in the state at the Tennessee Theater Association's one-act play competition. The play, directed by Dr. Rick Seay ('79), represented Tennessee at the Southeastern Theatre Convention's annual conference in March. The Fifth Sun is a highly theatrical piece that tells the story of Archbishop Oscar Romero. On March 24, 1980, Romero, Archbishop of San Salvador, was assassinated during Mass. The very powerful play presents the story of the people and the forces that transformed an ordinary man into a courageous leader. This production featured a number of senior thespians and had the honor of meeting and receiving the feedback of the play's author, Dr. Patricca. In addition to the performances and competition this served as a highlight for much of the cast.

Jess Darnell, Class of 2015

My favorite part about Romero is his hidden strength. When we first meet him, he's very sick and insecure, but as his environment grows more dangerous, he becomes stronger – to everyone's surprise. He overcomes his own issues so that he can help others, and I think that's an amazing quality for a character to have. Meeting the playwright was such a wonderful experience! I'm so grateful that we were able to have Dr. Patricca with us during our rehearsals.

Feature Image. Jess Darnell '15 as Archbishop Romero, presides over Mass prior to his assassination. 2. The Two of the four suns, played by Donny Abel '15, and Daniel Maynard '15, look over Romero in this play. 3. These tense moments of the play had heightened drama due to the superb acting by the MBA cast. 4. The cast and crew of The Fifth Sun was masterfully led by Director Dr. Seay. 5. Tanner McCormick '16 takes on the role of military commander. 6. The death of Neal Hawkins' '15 character fortified Romero in his beliefs in equality and justice. 7. Those surrounding Romero worried for his safety. 8. Prior to his character's death Neal Hawkins tries to convince Jess Darnell's Romero to take the side of the poor. 9. Drew Gordon '16 leads the people against the increasingly military state. 10. Tanner McCormick and James Matthews '15 discuss what to do with their mutual problem, Romero. 11. James Matthews tries to dissuade Jess Darnell from pursuing this dangerous path.

Tanner McCormick, Class of 2016

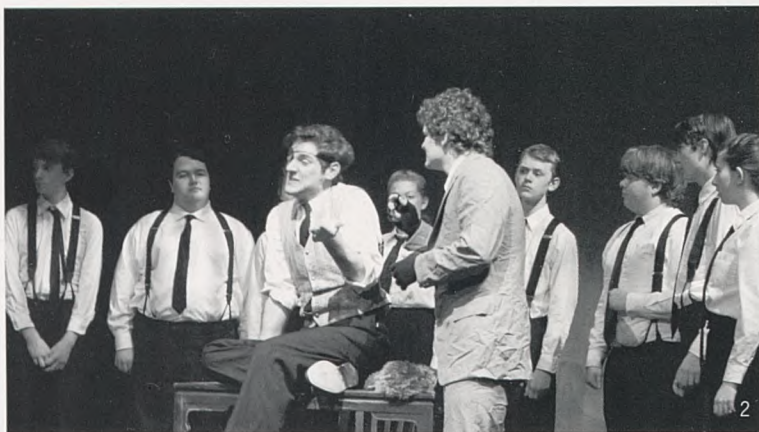

My favorite memory was the final moments before our last performance. The cast got together one more time before we performed the show for the last time and I could really feel how much we had bonded by working on this show all year together. I just want to say thank you to everyone in the cast and crew for making the show so much fun to perform.

THE OVERCOAT

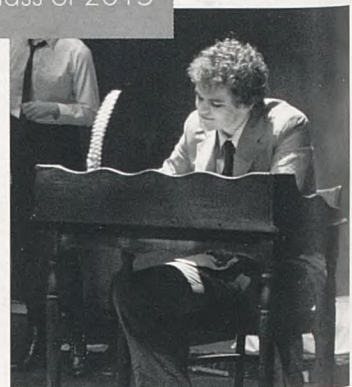

Gogol's Story Comes to Life

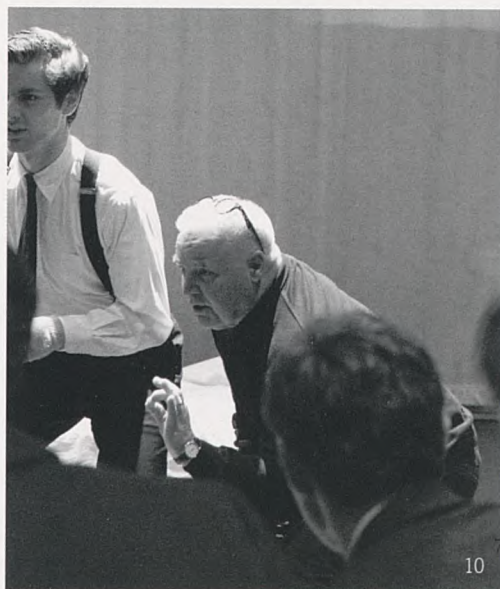

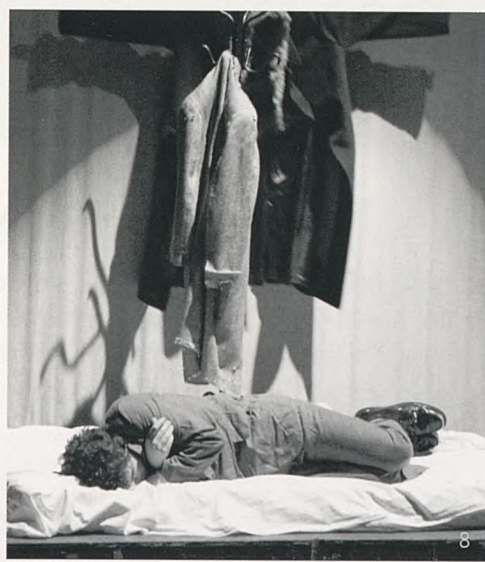

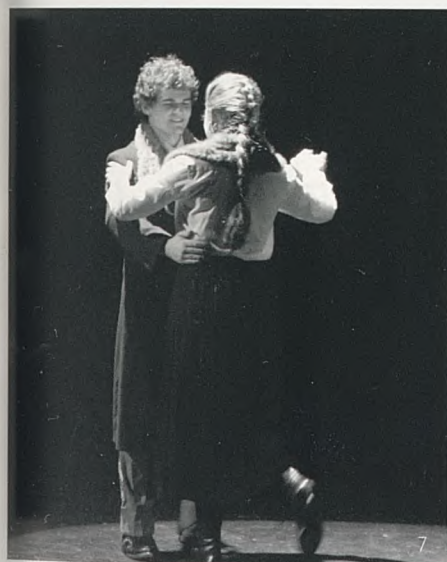

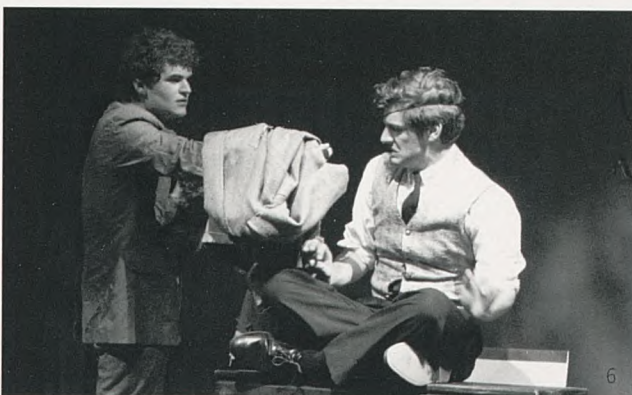

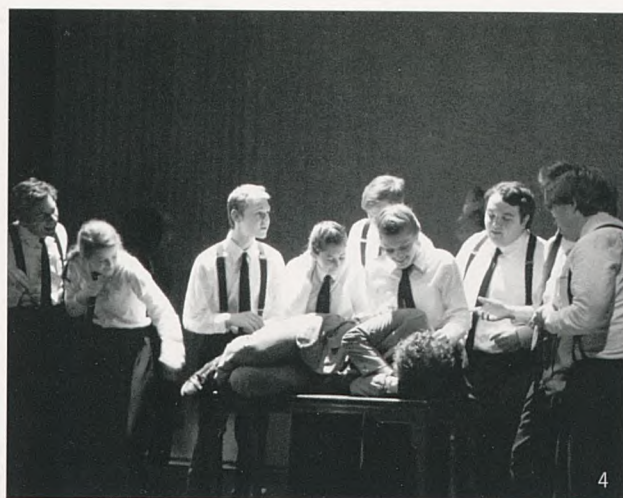

From February 19-22, the cast and crew of the high school production The Overcoat plowed through St. Petersburg-like snows (ironically) just to get through tech week and open the show. The story begins in a bureaucratic office in Russia where an impoverished clerk, portrayed by Henry Moxley (2015), must scrimp and save in order to afford a badly needed winter coat. Adapted and directed by Malcolm Morrison, this new staging emphasized Gogol's remarkable gift of caricature and imaginative invention. According to Morrison, "This company has readily and eagerly taken to presenting the play in this unusual and abstract theatrical form. I applaud their commitment, energy and creativity which have been essential to the success of the show." Their tenacity in the nasty weather should also be applauded. As they say, "the show must go on," and it did so powerfully.

Henry Moxley, Class of 2015

My favorite thing about my character is how he continues to do his work diligently despite the teasing of his fellow workers. He makes the most out of his life and finds purpose in his work. Despite how the play portrays him as pitiful I believe him to be admirable. I want to highlight the wonderful directors we have at MBA. Dr. Seay introduced me to theater with the junior school musical and is largely the reason that I stuck with theater so long. Dr. Fuller really helped me improve myself a lot during my senior thanks to his class. Also Mr. Morrison, who directed nearly every play I did, really shaped me into the actor that I am today. I owe a lot to these directors and I can't thank them enough.

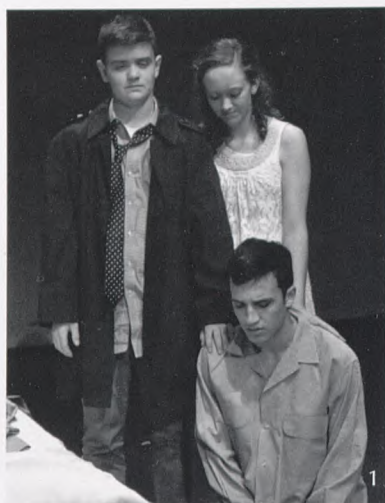

John Powell Cooper, Class of 2018

My favorite memory of the production was our first dress rehearsal, everything worked, and the pieces just clicked together. The MBA theatre program is unique because it pulls people from schools where the focus is not as artistic and puts them into an artistic setting it makes people take a step back and see that there is more to MBA than academics and sports teams. My character in the overcoat is not really defined, as it was an ensemble piece but the role I played fit smoothly into the general feel and flow of the production, often swapping lines or completing phrases first started by the other actors.

Feature Image. The Overcoat's ensemble cast used dramatic lighting to enhance the mood of the piece. 1. James Matthews '15 in his role as a Prominent Personage. 4. Jess Darnell '15 in his role of the eccentric tailor creates the perfect overcoat. 3. A person of prominence needs a number of people to serve them. 4. One of the many scenes to feature the extraordinary cast. 5. Henry Moxley '15 plays a consistently hard worker in this production. 6. Jess Darnell's portrayal of Petrovitch, the tailor, impressed all audiences. 7. Henry Moxley discovers that his new coat attracts a lot of attention. 8. Sadly after his coat is stolen Henry Moxley's character dies from fever. 9. The satirical version of power comes to life with James Matthews' character. 10. Mr. Morrison not only directed this performance but adapted Nicholas Gogol's story for the stage.

STUDENT ONE ACTS

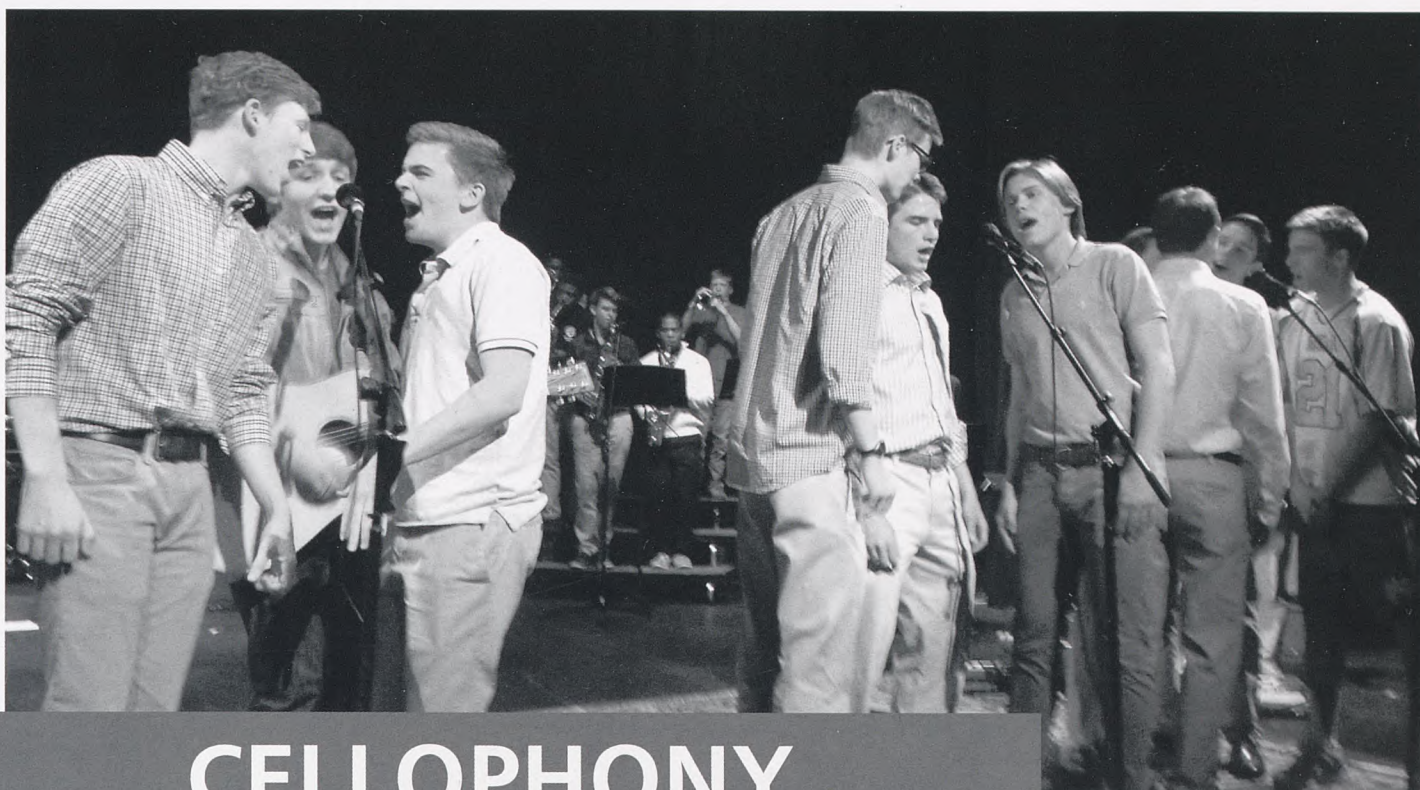

Who Knew that MBA had 50 Shades?

At the end of April, 13 seniors in Dr. Fuller's Studio Theater class finished the season strongly with an evening of student-directed one acts entitled "50 Shades of Plays." Neal Hawkins and Henry Rogers (2015) directed David Ives' bright and funny "Words, Words, Words". William Snow, Henry Moxley and Harry Stewart (2015) directed absurd plays by Christopher Durang. One parodied the Hardy Boys mysteries and the other The Glass Menagerie. The evening also showcased three original scripts. Daniel Maynard's play "Visitation", Jess Darnell's lyrical adaptation of "A Very Old Man with Enormous Wings" by Gabriel Garcia Marquez and Jacob Lothers' "Harper Kills."

Feature Image. James Matthews '15 takes center stage in this part of the one acts...although he is hard to recognize in that outfit. 1. A touching moment is shared during this scene. 3. Diego Martiez-Rojas '15 seems surprised by his counterpart's reaction. 4. The shocking scene has everyone on stage taken by surprise. 5. Nathan Sharpe takes the stage during "Harper Kills" reminding people of the power of MBA's theatre program.

CELLOPHONY

Taking the Stage for a Good Cause

Cellophony this year was a huge success, raising over $1400 for the W.O. Smith School of Music. Every year MBA's Tri-M chapter, this year led by Kang Huh and William Hall, calls on MBA's diverse music community to raise money for the continuation of music education in Nashville. There were many great performances, ranging from Arcane Atlas' progressive rock to Dutch and the Kid's folk music to an excellent performance of Uptown Funk, and everything in between. There were also performances from a few not in the music department. Special Thanks to Mr. Rundberg, Mr. Merideth, and Mr. Smyth for lending their expertise to this student-led project.

Feature Image. Headmaster's Singers and William Hall '16 unified their voices on the Cellophony stage. 1. Dutch and the Kid featuring Kang Huh '15, Henry Rogers '15, and William Richardson '15 wowed the audience. 2. Arcane Atlas featuring Akeim George '15 and Si Deane '15 added to the line-up for the evening. 3. John Triplett '15, Will Gordon '18, and Rueben Dockery '16 perform Proud Mary. 4. Modern Age featuring Robert Deadman '15 and Jackson Wooten (15 perform for an engaged crowd.

ORCHESTRA

Working in Harmony

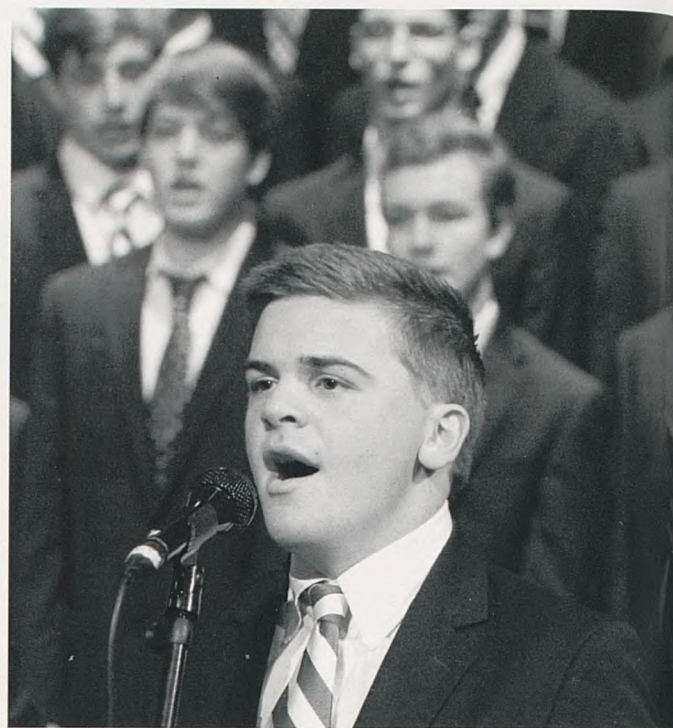

The MBA Orchestra enjoyed another terrific school year! Both the Junior School and High School orchestras collaborated with Harpeth Hall's orchestras, giving the boys an opportunity to create harmonious sounds and friendships with their sister school. In addition to those collaborations, the Orchestra joined with the MBA Jazz Band and Choir to fully exhibit the wonderful music department that MBA has built over the years. The orchestra, especially, had many stand out players, with 8 earning State-wide recognition. Three performers - Ivan Franco '17, Brian Lu '17, and Kang Huh '15 - achieved All-State recognition. Conductor Mr. Merideth expressed his excitement for the future, "We have almost tripled in size in five year's time. The talent we have in the lower grades makes me excited to see what happens."

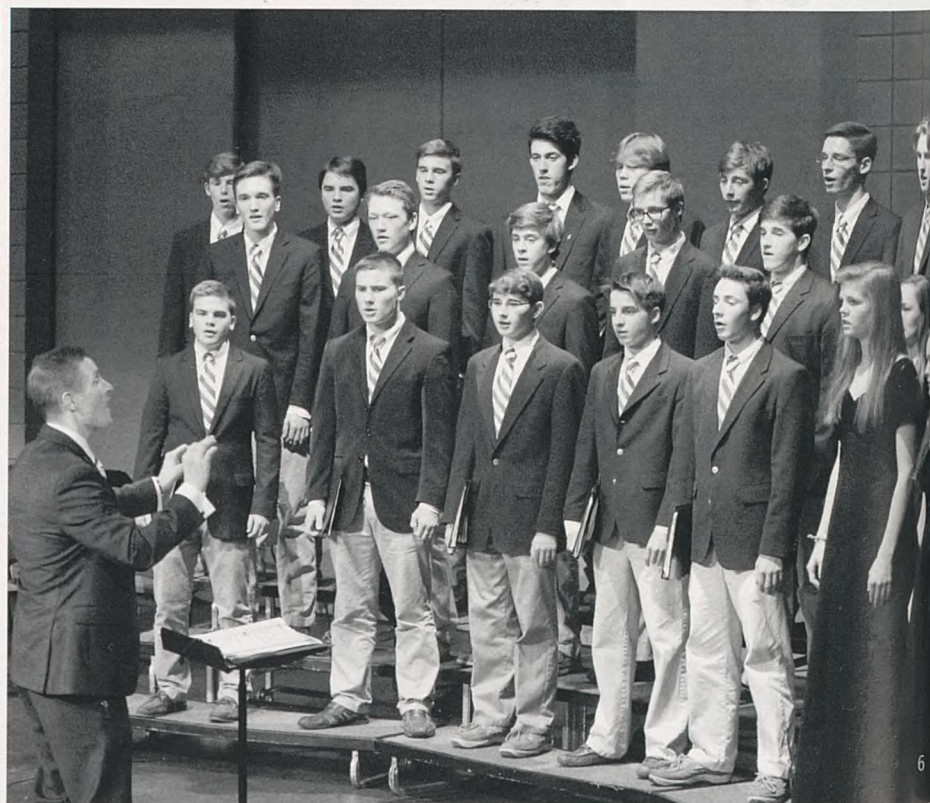

Feature Image: The French Horns and Viola players added a nice dynamics to the orchestra this year. 1. Mr. Merideth directs the combined Harpeth Hall and MBA orchestras. 2. The quartet of Alvin Zhang '16, Charles Hunter '15, Diego Martinez '15, and Jack Duke '15 perform a melodic tune for the audience. 3. The Ellington Band and Symphonia combine to perform Wizards in Winter. 4. Richie Scherrer and Michael Garcia demonstrate their horn skills at the Spring Concert. 5. Jairo Santos and Matthew Miller played as part of the Spring Evening with the Arts celebration of the Junior School arts programs. 6. Nick Viars also performed as a part of the Eveingn with the Arts. 7. The string section captivates the audience during the Spring Concert. 8. Atticus and Richie Scherer '16 in focus at the Fall Concert. 9. The full size of the Orchestra can be seen as they collaborate with Harpeth Hall.

Feature Image. Dr. Seay sings alongside tenors Clay Andreen '15, Hayes Alley '17, Wes Richardson '16, Drew Gordon '16, and James Owen '15 1. The Choir combines with the Orcestra and Harpeth Hall to strike a magnificent chord. 2. Wes Richardson '16 warms the crowd with an angelic solo. 3. The Headmaster's Singers sing in front of an assembly. 4. Mothers, and all attendees at the Mother-Son breakfast enjoy 'Uptown Funk'

5. The Headmaster's Singers wow Harpeth Hall with a performance of Heartless by Kanye West. 6. Mr. Smyth leads the Big Red Chorus in a collaboration with Harpeth Hall during the Winter Concert. 7. The Junior School singers patting the rhythm out on their chests 8. "Young Sinatra" Andrew Porter '15 graces the crowd with a mellifluous solo. 9. John Fioravanti '17 takes center stage at the Fall Concert

CHOIRS

Echoing Atop The Hill

The choral program has expanded from one choir to three high school choirs and one junior school choir. The orchestra has expanded from one ensemble into a Junior School and a High School ensemble. At Mid-State auditions, the choir placed the most students in honor ensembles in school history. Daniel Lee, Henry Rhodes, Brady Slinger, and John Spurgeon were named to the Freshman Honor Choir. Hayes Alley, John Fioravanti, Drew Gordon, Nicholas Heim, Zac Jernigan, Jackson Maradik, Andrew Porter, Greg Quesinberry, Matt Remke, Wes Richardson, Luke Rochford, John Triplett, and Richard Thornton earned Mid-State honors. Alley, Gordon, Porter, Remke, Richardson, and Triplett received All-State honors, and Porter, Quesinberry, Richardson, and Triplett had the privilege of singing with the All-National Choir. In addition to these impressive results, the entire Choral Program has maintained a performance schedule that included performances at Vine Street Church, a special featured concert on the First Presbyterian concert series, and caroling in the community to support Fannie Battle. The boys rounded out their year with performances at the spring concerts, both graduation ceremonies, and even kicking off the first ever Field Day.

JAZZ BAND

Eighty-Eleven Swingin' Tunes

Both the Ellington Band and Basie Band had some incredible performances this year. The Ellington Band, comprised of upperclassmen, had many exceptional individuals, including: Si Deane '15, Akeim George '15, William Hall '16 and Peter Taylor '17. Through various outdoor concerts, recitals, and assembly appearances, the Jazz Bands were able to provide a wide array of music to campus events. Although many talented seniors will be leaving, the younger musicians will, no doubt, fill the void left behind. Drummer Luke Speyer and guitarist Will Trotman will make a huge addition to the Ellington Band's rhythm section. Mr. Rundberg and Mrs. Pippin continue to shape talented Jazz musicians all while having fun in the process!

Feature Imae. The Ellington Band showed their skills at the Father Son Dinner. 1. The Winter Concert proved an opportunity for the musicians involved to share their talents. 2. William Petroni plays a mean trumpet. 3. Luke Speyer and Will Gordon perform at the Spring Concert held in April. 4. The horn section provides a full sound during the Winter Concert. 5. Mr. Rundberg conducts the Ellington Band during class to prepare them for their next performance.

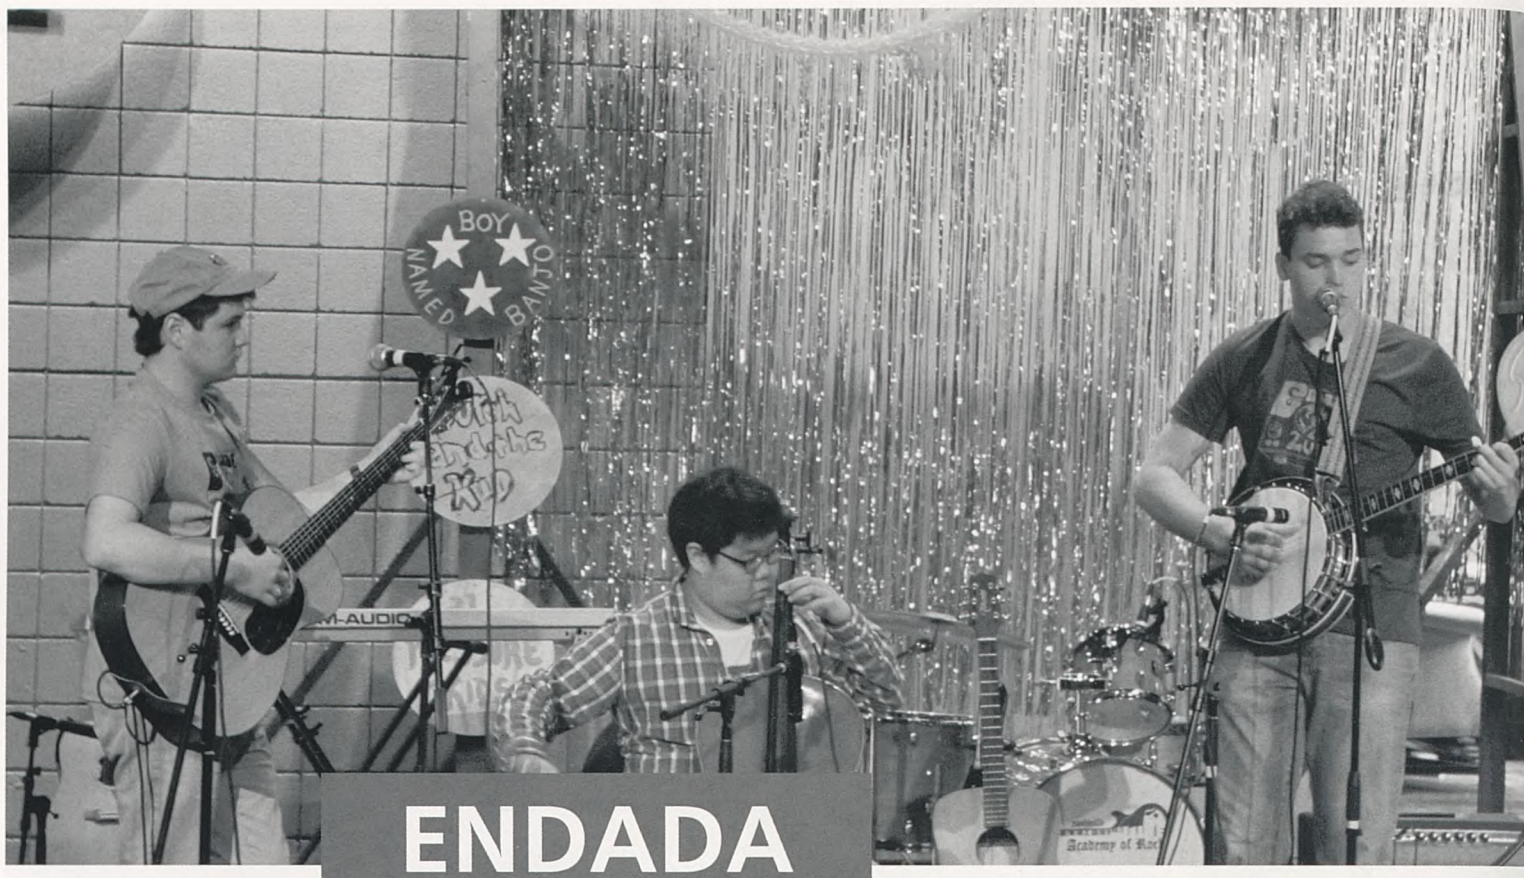

ROCK BAND

Providing the Soundtrack to Victory

Each year the Rock Band provides the musical accompaniment to both the football and basketball games. These musicians donate their time to rehearse and create a play list that will give the fans and players extra energy and push for a victory. The musicians are lead by Mr. Rundberg who plans their rehearsals and performances and sometimes joins their performances. This year featured a number of senior musicians including Si Deane, Akeim George, Seth Cook, and Michael Milam. The Rock Band was also fortunate enough to be joined by singers from Harpeth Hall who helped diversify the set list and make the Rock Band that much more enjoyable for the crowd.

Feature Image. Rock Band plays to the crowd during one of the home games. 1. Devon Rundberg plays a mean saxophone. 2. Mr. Rundberg joins the band during this half time performance. 3. The boys rockin' out in a pre-game performance. 4. Max Davis '17 shows off his school spirit and screaming trumpet skills. 5. Seniors Michael Milam, Si Deane, and Seth Cook exciting the crowd at the home basketball play-off game against Father Ryan.

ENDADA

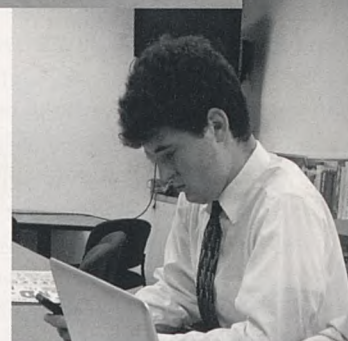

MBA Celebrates the Arts

Featuring music, artists, food, and interactive activities the fifth-annual Endada Music and Arts Festival took place on Saturday, April 25th. Planning for Endada started as soon as school year began with securing performers, artists, and vendors. The whole festival was student organized event led by students Parker Logan, Chase Meluch, and Alec Giammalvo with faculty sponsor, Ms. Hollifield. The work really picked up with the start of second semester when students began their Saturday work sessions to create the number of signs, posters, tents, and decorations needed to make the day run smoothly. This year included some new events including a 32 foot long mural everyone helped paint, the student-run Sam Widges food booth, print your own t-shirts among others. Performers included student acts as well as two future Bonnaroo performers, Sol Cat and Boy Named Banjo. With vendors and stages moved inside due to a threat of severe rain storms attendees moved easily between the gym and Davis building which encouraged visitors to see the student art exhibition between performances.

Chase Meluch, Class of 2017

My memory of putting Endada together will be the long night and early morning setting it up, and seeing it become great. I also will remember the mural most likely, since it was creative and was a collection of several students and visitors artwork on one canvas. The fact that students are so heavily involved in every step: the planning, setting up, artists, musicians, cooks, etc...makes Endada such a special program.

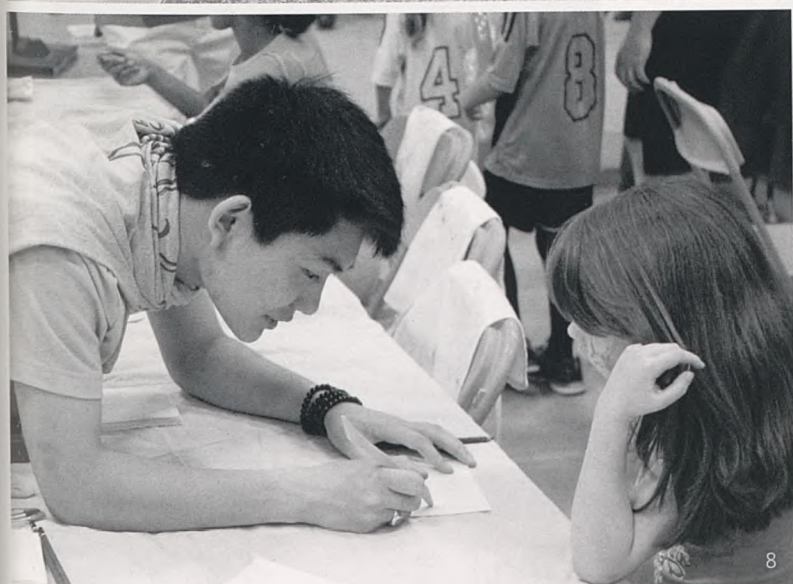

Alec Giammalvo, Class of 2015

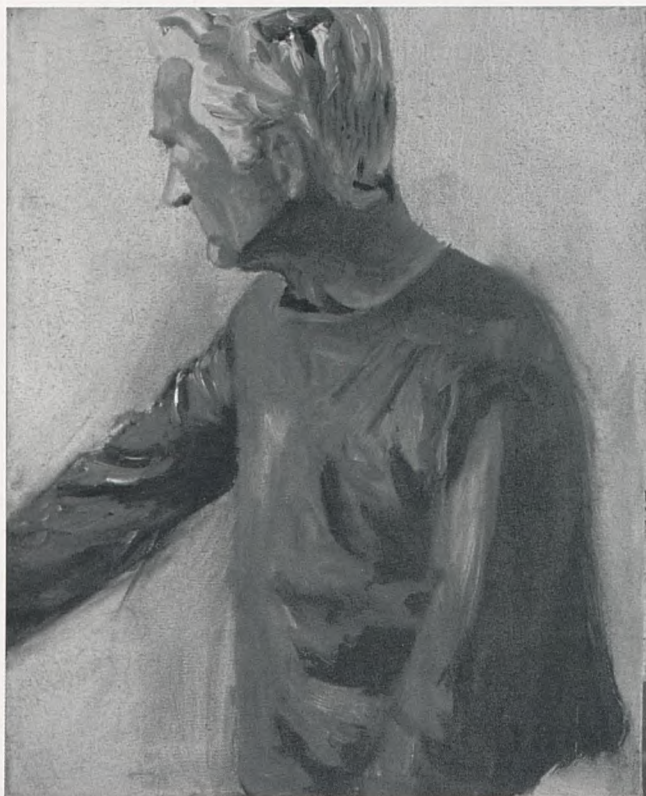

Endada has consistently been one of my favorite activities during my years at MBA and I want to thank everyone that made it happen. From the guys that stayed until well past midnight and were back 6 hours later to keep setting up to every other volunteer were crucial in making this happen. My favorite memory was getting to sit on the stage in the gym and look out as all the vendors were talking to customers and I seeing all the people working on the mural in the back.

Feature Image. Student acts dominated the multiple stages including the Pascall Theatre. 1. Current and former AP Studio Art students Daniel Maynard, Cole Jones, and Chris Estes hone their art skills at the "Kid Zone" art table. 2. Holland Lund manned the sound table in the gym for the various performers. 3. Ms. Hollifield oversees the year long planning process. 4. Student groups enjoyed their time on stage in the gym. 5. Jackson Garey and Will Gray work at the student run food table, Sam Widges. 6. Did Parker Logan just arrive from the Wild West? No, he is just working away at one of the Saturday build session held prior to Endada. 7. Steve Wood pulls a screen print of his shirt design during lunch with the people from Hip Hues. 8. Troy Jiang put in a full day of work at the "Kid Zone" helping the younger visitors create everything from prints to hand painted ties.

JUNIOR SCHOOL

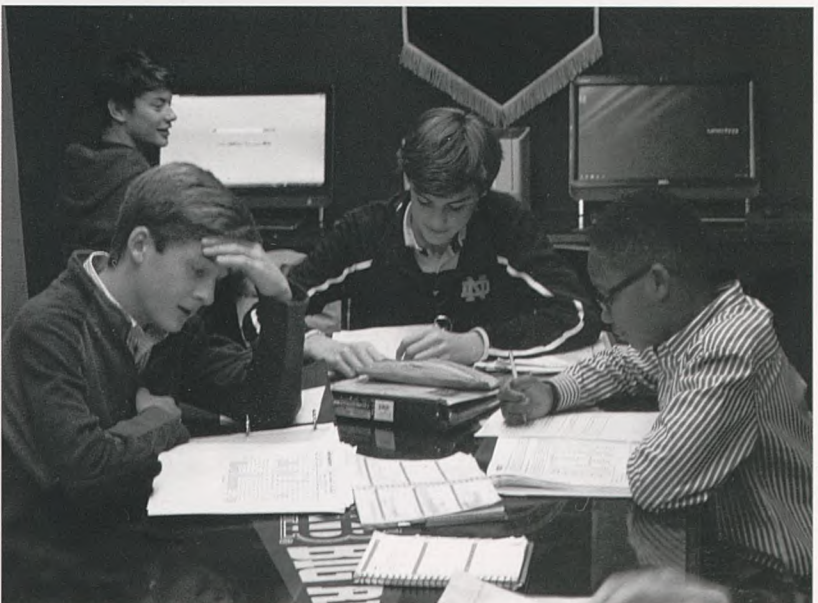

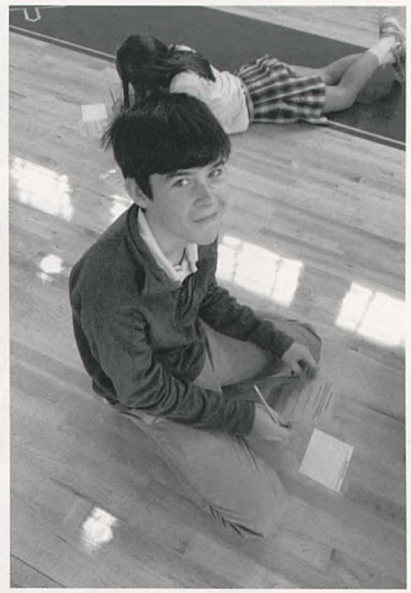

MRS. KIT LECHLEITER

Junior School Dedication

Mrs. Kit Lechleiter has been a consistent source of joy for MBA students and staff since 2004 when she joined The Hill from DVL Public Relations & Advertising. Mrs. Lechleiter, a Nashville native, studied Mass Communication at MTSU. She is the smiling face that greets visitors and students alike in the Admissions Office. If someone is ever in need of a little pick-me-up, she always has a freshly stocked candy dish or a cup of coffee, but that is not what brings those around her so much joy. Mrs. Lechleiter's spirit is contagious and full of positive energy. Her warm smile and kind words can brighten anyone's day, and she keeps the Admissions Office running and ready to go for visitors and prospective students. Mrs. Lechleiter makes a lasting impression on young men and their parents during their first visit to The Hill, and they continue to visit her both as MBA students and graduates.

Feature Image. Ms. Lechleiter brightens everyone's day with her winning smile...and a little candy. 1. Mrs. Lechleiter from her second year at MBA in 2006. 2. At this spring's Endada Mrs. Lechleiter lended a helping hand and smiling face with Benjamin Dotye at the information table. 3. Mrs. Lechleiter enjoys the music of the Ellington Band during their break-time performance this spring. 4. Ms. Lamb and Mrs. Guye stand with Mrs. Lechleiter during one of the outdoor pep rallies. 5. Mr. Ferrell and Mrs. Lechleiter have been an unstoppable team in admissions for years.

Feature Image. 7th grade students experienced an array of team-building and educational activities during their retreat and stay at Camp Laney. From boat races to astronomy, students were able to work together and experience a wide variety of opportunities connecting them to nature and to themselves. 1. Students were able to explore the stars at the observatory. 2. Boys tried to paddle their way to victory using homemade canoes. 3. The whole group posed for a picture in front of the observatory.

The Big Red Boat Race

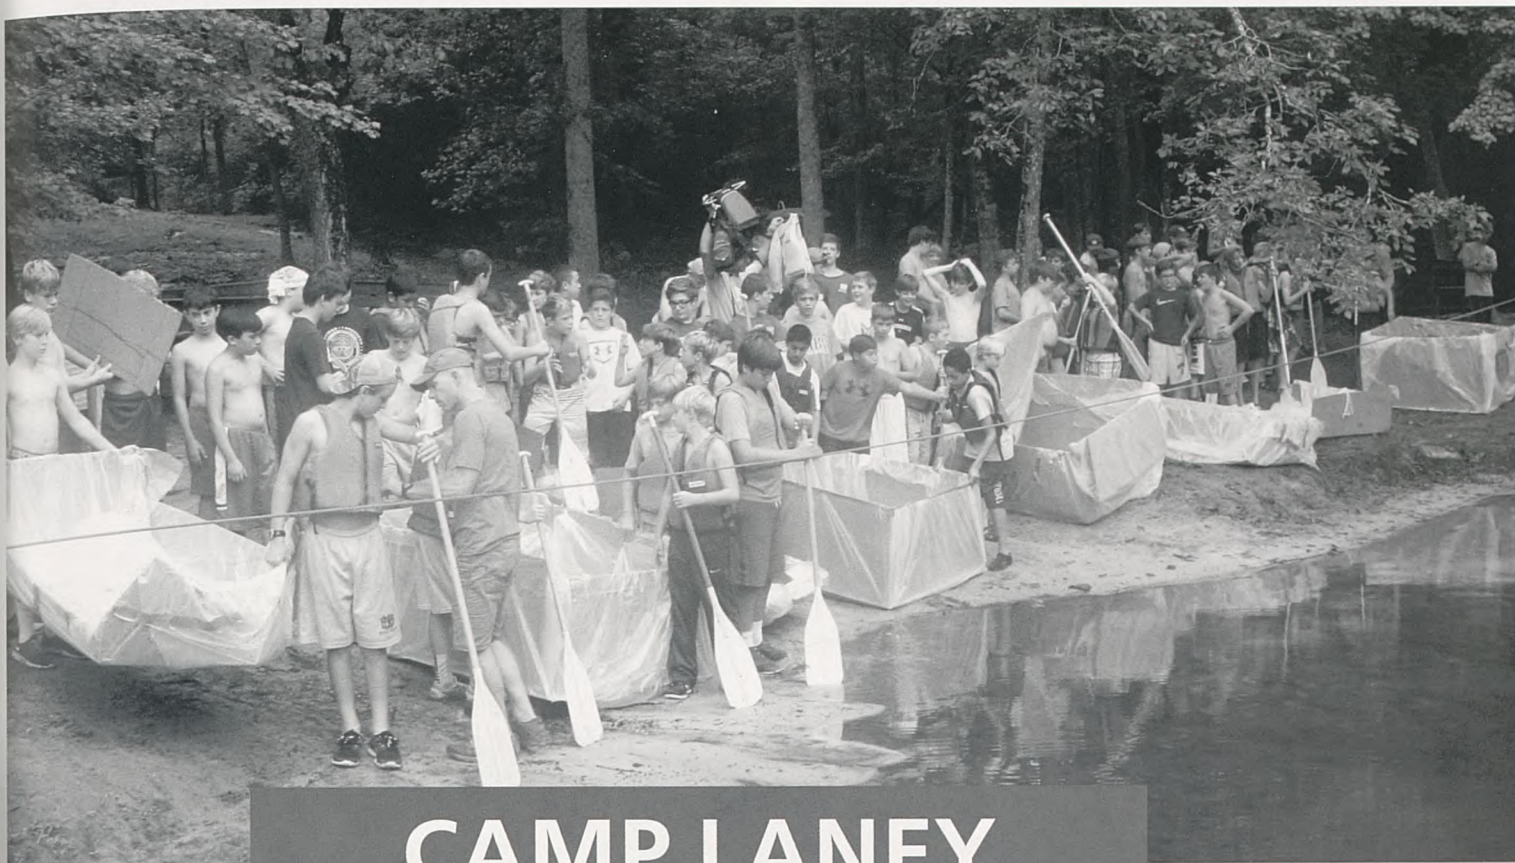

"The day was dark; clouds rolled over the mountain. Water trickled down the river as if whispering of things to come. It was time; lives were at risk. Cabin groups gathered around a burnt-out fire pit. Ashes swirled in the winds.

Then, a somber looking guide announced the challenge. Each cabin had to collaborate on building a boat using two sheets of cardboard, plastic wrap, a roll of duck-tape, and a single sharpie. They had only one hour to build a boat and then they would have to cross the river...
~Matthew Miller

4. William Lummus and Camden Slinger enjoy the company and great outdoors together at Camp Laney. 5. Joseph Lucas participates in a trust fall activity with his fellow campers. Building strong bonds of trust and camaraderie is a key goal of taking students to Camp Laney. 6. Nyles Robie and Will McEvoy get ready for the zip line. 7. Clayton Malone swings his way into new adventures and life on The Hill. 8. Logan Vick had a great time meeting new people and getting ready for this new adventure.

CAMP LANEY

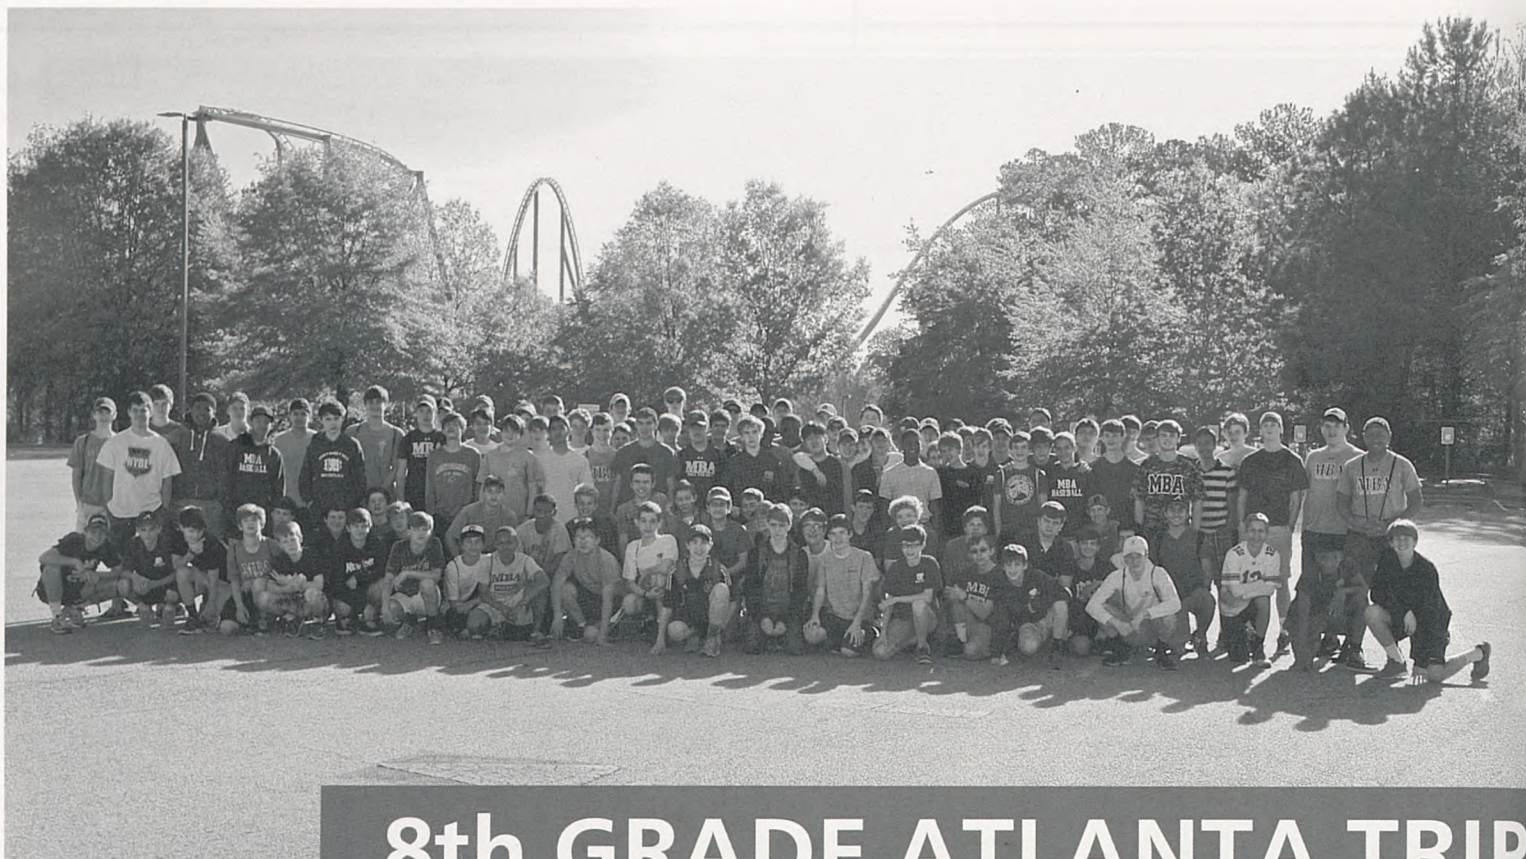

7TH GRADE ADVENTURE

It has become a rite of passage. Every fall the newest class of gentlemen, scholars, and athletes boards the buses and travels to Camp Laney together. Located atop Lookout Mountain in Mentone, Alabama, Camp Laney offers an assortment of activities aimed at promoting self-confidence, an appreciation of the outdoors, friendship, responsibility, and trust. This year's trip took place from August 12 to 13th.

MBA campers participated in everything from ropes courses to battle ball to boat races. The second day of ropes courses was the most grueling for the boys but one of the most rewarding in the end. There were six elements, or ropes courses, that the seventh graders had to endure: The Zip Line, The Kamikaze, The Rock Wall, The Traverse, The Bonsai, and the Pamper Pole. All of the elements challenged the boys to face their fears and find the endurance to finish the course. This early bonding experience allows the boys to build friendships, trust, and community spirit that will carry them through their time on The Hill.

8th GRADE ATLANTA TRIP

The Big Red Invade Hotlandta

It has become a hallmark moment of the 8th grade year. It is the trip where junior school students prepare to leave the sacred halls of Massey while solidifying their friendships and experiences as microbes. On Thursday, the class visited the College Football Hall of Fame followed by a trip to Andretti World. Day two featured an afternoon at the paint ball course before heading to Turner Field for the Atlanta Braves' home opener against the New York Mets. On day three, the class rode roller coasters at Six Flags Atlanta before departing for Nashville that evening. The trip brought the Class of 2019 together one final time as junior schoolers before entering high school next year.

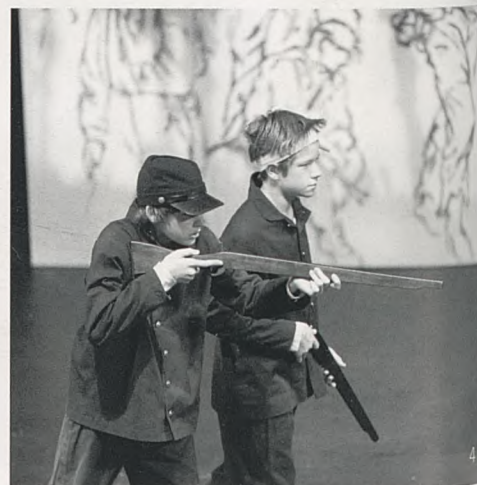

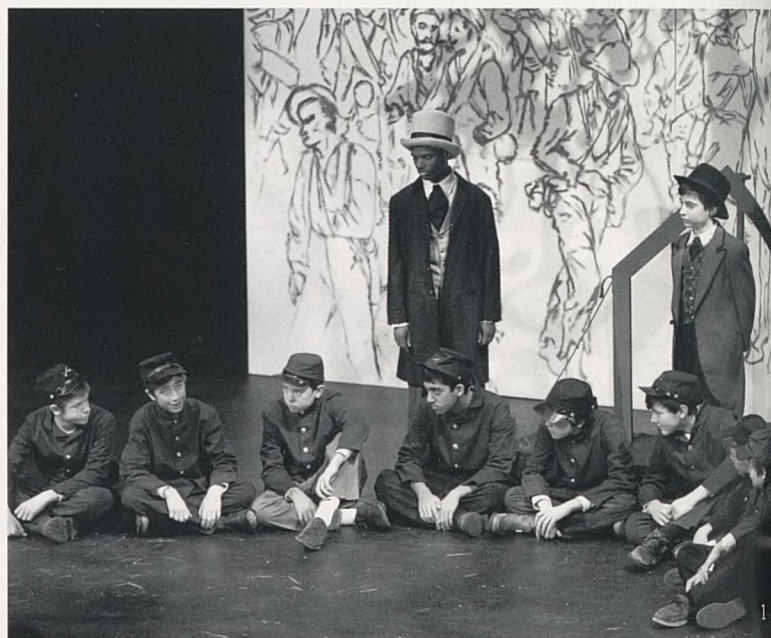

Feature Image. The whole group takes a minute before invading Six Flags to take a group picture. 1. Jackson Hannah, Coach Brock, Jackson Lampley, and Hunter Burch get ready to see the Braves vs. the Mets. 2. Joe Owens and Josiah Francis during their visit to the College Football Hall of Fame try their hand at broadcasting. 3. Joseph Perazzini, William Davis, and Charlie Buffkin get ready to do some serious shooting on the paintball course. 4. Students go incognito in their helmets at Andretti World. 5. Blake Kirchenbauer and Hugh Sullivan on the paintball course. 6. A brave soul stands in the midst of a sea of armed microbes to tell them to rules of paintball. 7. Hunter Burch, Ian Hall, and Jackson Hannah get ready to take off at Six Flags. 8. The boys get ready to take off on another coaster as they fly through the rest of eighth grade.

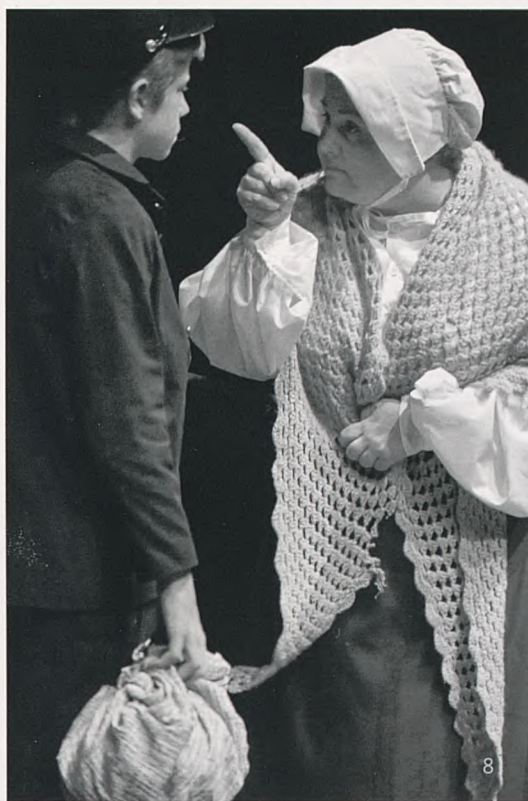

RED BADGE OF COURAGE

Bringing the Book to the Stage

The Junior School play this year was The Red Badge of Courage, adapted for the stage by Kathryn Schultz Miller from Stephen Crane's critically acclaimed novel. Celebrating both the sesquicentennial of the American Civil War and this year's theme of "courage," this production, performed January 29-31 in the Paschall Theater, displayed the growth of a nervous boy into a confident hero accompanied by songs from the period. A record number of 46 boys from the Junior School took part in this show, including Ben Wood as Henry, John Thornton as Jim Conklin, Andrew Sutphin as Wilson, and Adric Kimbrough and Matthew Kaplan as the Narrators. Rick Seay ('79) directed the show, and Nelson Berry (2006) was the assistant director, with Catharine Hollifield featured as the character of Mother.

Feature Image. The cast and crew of Red Badge of Courage take the stage for a group picture. 1 Adric Kimbrough and Matthew Kaplan, as Narrators, overlooks the scene below. 2. The cast looks out to the crowd. 3. John Thornton and Ben Wood look out over the battle. 4. They then grab their guns to move forward. 5. With the battle flag of the Confederacy, the singing soldiers set the scene. 6. Matthew Kaplan served as Narrator 2 for the production. 7. The Singing Soliers; Carson Reisinger, Kanayo Offodile, Harrison Steanson, Matthew Miller, and Gray Williams, helped move th story forward. 8. Ms. Hollifield, as Henry's mother, warns him about joining the war and staying safe. 9. In the end, Ben Wood's character Henry finds his courage.

Feature Image. While the rest of the school took standardized tests the big and little brothers gave a day of service. 1. Senior William Snow and little brother Matthew Kaplan pose during a service outing at the beginning of the school year. 2. Cole Carr, Aaron White, and Matthew Ulm are ready for war during an intense game of dodgeball. 3. Seniors and their little brothers participate in a game of tug-of-war before a home football game.

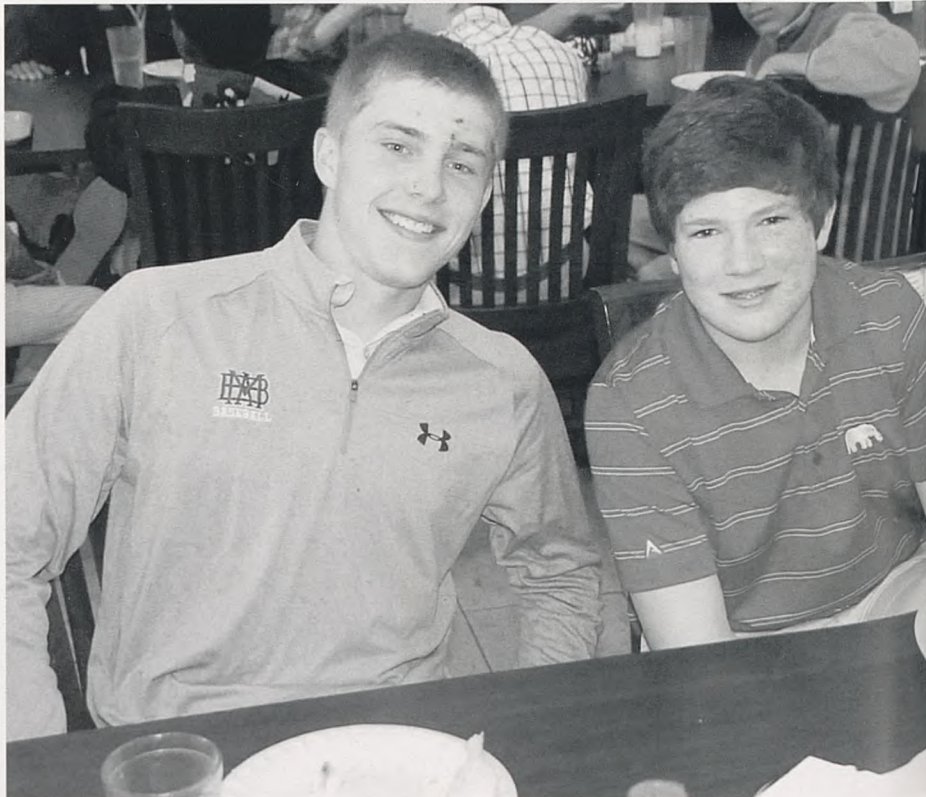

Mr. Davidson, faculty sponsor

"This year's Big Brother/Little Brother program was the most successful in my six years serving as sponsor. We have never had a senior class take as much ownership of the program as did the class of 2015. The spirit of inclusivity and community I saw that evening was present throughout the entire school year. I have nothing but the deepest gratitude to the class of 2015 for making this year so special for the class of 2020." -Mike Davidson, faculty sponsor

4. Faris Wasim and little brother Tanuj Koli enjoy breakfast one morning before school. 5. Senior Jack Goodrunm and Graham Holzapfel bond over breakfast in the dining hall one morning. 6. During the traditional pinning ceremony, senior William Richardson places a pin onto his Little Brother, Campbell Garber. 7. Nathan Sharp and Little Brother Tim Blaufuss smile amidst the roar of the Big Red Army at a home football game this year.

BIG BROTHER/LITTLE BROTHER

Mentoring the Microbes

Few traditions on the Hill are as memorable as the Big Brother/Little Brother program. At the start of every school year, each of MBA's rising seventh graders is matched with a "big brother" in the senior class. High school teacher Mike Davidson is in charge of the program and guarantees that a good time is had by all. To kick things off, seniors call their little brothers to welcome them to MBA and answer any questions they may have about life on the Hill. On the morning of orientation, seniors pick up their little brothers and drive them to school so that they may register and partake in the traditional pinning ceremony. Throughout the year, the seventh graders and the seniors participate in a number of fun bonding activities. Highlights include pizza parties, dodge ball, pre-football game celebrations, and much more. The Big Brother/Little Brother program is an excellent way for the seniors to assume a leadership position in addition to adding a level of depth to the connections forged within the student body.

Take a Ride

Seniors Akeim George and Kang Huh show their Little Brother Connor Kolstad how to ride in style! Seniors traditionally give their little brothers a lift to school on the first day of registration so they can lead them around campus and take them to sign the registrar's book prior to breakfast.

HONORS CEREMONY

Celebrating Accomplishments

At the end of every school year, junior school students gather before receiving their diplomas to participate in the honors ceremony. This year the recognitions started on under an overcast sky which yielded to a the evening sky while awards were bestowed to their recipients. Awards are handed out for classes, departments, writing contests, school spirit, and outstanding boy from both the seventh and eighth grade. There is also the art purchase award, earned by Webb Hunt, which is bought by the school and framed for the community of MBA to enjoy for years to come. The evening of awards then lead into the graduation ceremony where students are awarded their eighth grade diplomas.

JUNIOR SCHOOL GRADUATION

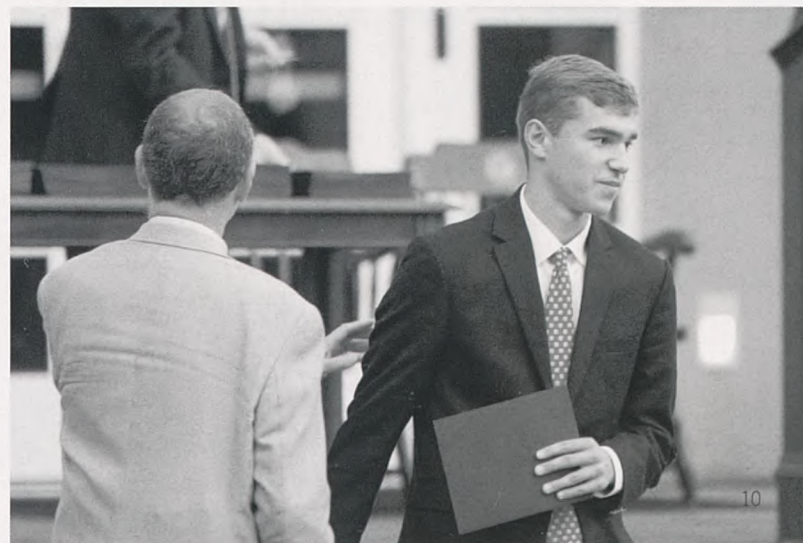

Finishing this Chapter

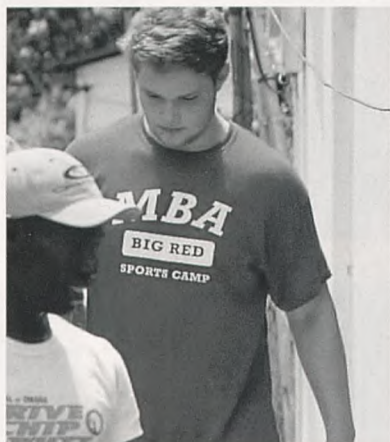

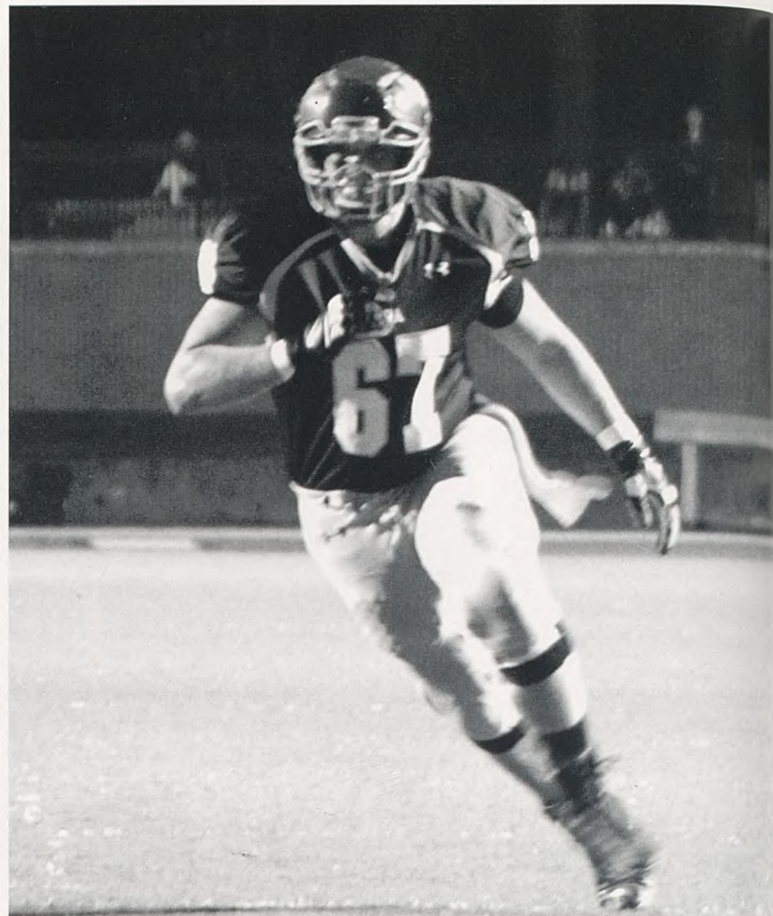

Following the awards recognitions portion of the evening eighth grade students completed their time at the Junior School with the graduation ceremony. This ceremony celebrates the accomplishments of the class of 2019 through special recognition and the conferring of diplomas. Graduate Charlie Buffkin spoke to the assembled audience. With comments from Mr. Gioia and Mrs. Stewart. The evening also included a performance from the Junior School choir and the awarding of diplomas. The evening concluded as the stars began to shine overhead.

Feature Image. Students process into the area in front of the Dining Hall for the evening's festivities. 1. The choir performs for the assembled guests and students. 2. Mrs. Stewart reads off the names of the graduates while Braden Myers receives his diploma. 4. The students assemble in front of the Dining Hall for the evening. 5. John Curry gives Mr. Gioia a firm handshake before receiving his diploma. 6. Charlie Buffkin addresses the crowd. 7. Kanayo Offodile returns to his seat after receiving his diploma. 8. Hugh Sullivan shakes hands with Mr. Spiegl while Marshall Summar receives his diploma. 10. Luke Bernatitz returns to his seat after being congratulated on his accomplishments by Mr. Spiegl.

"It is not the critic who counts; not the man who points out how the strong man stumbles, or where the doer of deeds could have done them better. The credit belongs to the man who is actually in the arena, whose face is marred by dust and sweat and blood; who strives valiantly; who errs, who comes short again and again, because there is no effort without error and shortcoming; but who does actually strive to do the deeds; who knows great enthusiasms, the great devotions; who spends himself in a worthy cause; who at the best knows in the end the triumph of high achievement, and who at the worst, if he fails, at least fails while daring greatly, so that his place shall never be with those cold and timid souls who neither know victory nor defeat."

"Hope when you take that jump, you don't fear the fall. Hope when the water rises, you built a wall.
Hope when the crowd screams out, it's screaming your name; Hope if everybody runs, you choose to stay...
Hope when the moment comes you'll say... I, I did it all - I, I did it all; I owned every second that this world could give*
I saw so many places, the things that I did; Yeah, with every broken bone; I swear I lived. " - OneRepublic

Kang Huh

Kang (樺) means birches. Birch is very useful in many ways not limited to carpentry. This is what we had in mind when we picked Kang for your name. Overcoming all ups and downs, the tree of Kang has hardened and grown to a good birth. This tree will continue to grow according to your vision. Be ready! Sharpen your vision and do not stop growing. Put constant efforts to prepare yourself for His works. We pray that you, Kang, be used in the carpenter's hands in this world. Congratulations!

Cameron:

When you were born, we had pride, joy and anticipation;
But it was you who developed excellence in character, physical skill and education;
We are comforted to know that you will continue to exceed expectation;
Now you need only be true to yourself and your faith to find your own destination.
That is a parent's greatest exhilaration.

COLOPHON

The 2015 issue of The Bell was produced by the yearbook staff at Montgomery Bell Academy in Nashville, Tennessee and printed by Herff Jones, Inc. in Kansas City, Kansas. The account was wonderfully serviced by representatives Mary Harris and Jenica Stubbs. All page layouts were produced and edited at MBA using eDesign and digitally submitted for production. The 2014-15 volume includes 16 pages in full color and 348 pages in black and white. Professional portraits were provided courtesy of Michael Jones Photography.

Countless hours go into the production of The Bell and, although this work usually happens behind the scenes by a small group of student editors, it would not be possible without the help of the larger MBA community. It is impossible to thank each person who contributed an element to the book, but special thanks go out to the following who made extensive allocations in the production:

The expertise and encouragement from Mary Harris (and the occasional coffee and candy).

The small but dedicated staff, led by Editor-in-Chief Aaron Kaplan and Editors Harrison Wheeler and Hank Thomas, who spent parts of their summer finishing the book. Special thanks to Akeim George and Faris Wasim for helping over the summer.

The countless photographs taken and shared by Michael Jones Photography, Cal Fuller, Will Norton, Cherie Roberts, Chris Smith, Maggie Raines, Kim Barrick, Michael Bennett, and the rest of MBA's amazing faculty, staff, students, and parents.

Everyone who helped identify students featured in a photograph, especially Kit Lechleiter.

This book is a labor of love for the MBA community and something that the staff hopes you can look back on fondly over the years. It is meant not only as a record of the events and people but as a keeper of memories that will inspire you to think back to your time on The Hill. I am grateful to be a part of that tradition. Special thanks to everyone at MBA who helped make this book possible by answering emails, sending pictures and giving me insights, the staff and I are eternally grateful.

On behalf of The Bell staff including Akeim George, Faris Wasim, Thomas DeRoche, Jackson Wooten, Mike Miccioli, Bryce Ardisson, and Jamie Payne, we hope you enjoy the 2015 edition of The Bell.
